PUERTO RICO'S RADIO STOPS AS STORM BREAKS

Navy Unable to Obtain Response After It Gets Warning.

"HURRICANE COMING," LAST WORD RECEIVED

Weather Bureau Tells of Tropical Disturbance Near San Juan.

(Associated Press.)

Commander J. H. Ingram, of the office of naval communications, early today said communication with the Navy radio station at San Juan, Puerto Rico, had been broken, presumably by a tropical storm.

Ingram said the last report from San Juan to the Navy said a hurricane was "coming on" with its center in that vicinity. Ingram added he had no reports of any loss of life or serious property damage.

Walter J. Swenson, radio man in the Naval Reserve and operator of amateur station W3PN, reported the naval communications plant at San Juan had been disabled.

Swenson was attempting early today to communicate with an amateur station on the island to obtain any information available.

Bureau Issues Warning.

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 9 p. m., tropical disturbance of small diameter central between St. Croix and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, moving slightly north of west about 12 miles per hour attended by strong shifting gales and probably by winds, hurricane force, very small area. Its center will pass near San Juan, early Tuesday morning. Caution advised vessels in path."

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Meteorologist F. E. Hartwell tonight reported a tropical storm of great intensity was apparently central between St. Croix and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands at 7 p. m., and heading toward the east coast of Puerto Rico.

Islanders Prepare for Storm.

Forewarned by telegraph and telephone messages sent out under orders of Gov. James R. Beverly, the islanders tonight took hammer in hand and with all the speed possible prepared to weather as best they could a probable hurricane before morning.

Their efforts to board up all vulnerable spots in their homes were hastened by the tentative report of Mr. Hartwell that the storm would affect the east coast before midnight and the rest of the island progressively thereafter.

All the schools were closed this afternoon and business houses long before closing time boarded up their windows.

Mr. Hartwell said the weather stations at St. Croix and St. Thomas each reported gale winds of around 60 miles an hour, and St. Thomas reported a barometer reading of 29.37, more than half an inch below normal.

Word Is Reported From Tokyo Fliers

Radio Amateur Receives Signals From Vessel Telling of Contact.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—William G. Gunston, an amateur radio operator, reported late today he had picked up a general call to all stations from a vessel giving the call letters HKP, saying the vessel had heard from the missing Japanese good-will fliers yesterday afternoon.

Tokyo (Tuesday), Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The foreign office today cabled Japanese embassies in Washington and Moscow and the legation at Ottawa instructing that the governments in those cities be requested to search for the missing Japanese goodwill plane.

The ship left Tokyo last week for Nome and San Francisco with three fliers aboard, and was not heard from after it had got 750 miles northeast of Tokyo.

91-Day Treasury Bills Oversubscribed 4 Times

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills yesterday announced applications totaling $412,510,000 had been made for $100,000,000 in 91-day Treasury bills, to mature December 28.

The highest bid was 99.958, equivalent to an interest rate of about .17 per cent on an annual basis, and the lowest bid accepted was 99.940, equivalent to .24 per cent. The average price of the bills to be issued is 99.941, with the average rate on bank discount basis about .23 per cent.

India's Stand Likened To Colonies by Patel

Disciple of Gandhi Is to Be Guest Today of Gov. Ritchie.

As Mahatma Gandhi yesterday ended his fast of more than six days, V. J. Patel, former Lord Mayor of Bombay and president of the Indian Legislative Assembly, placed a wreath on the tomb of George Washington with the remark that "our revolution is akin to George Washington's."

Patel, who arrived in Washington yesterday, will be the guest in Baltimore today of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

In an interview shortly after his arrival here, the Indian official declared that "the people of India are at war with Great Britain."

"We have adopted boycott, a spirit of defiance and quiet submission as our weapons, and we believe that they will be more effective than others. My purpose in coming here is to acquaint the people of America with the actual happenings, to tell the truth and to get the people of this country interested in this question," the Indian leader added.

Patel came here yesterday from New York, where he was received by Mayor McKee and other high officials. He is making a Nation-wide tour which will carry him to California and return. He expects to return to India some time in January.

Patel, at Mount Vernon, paid the following tribute to Washington as he laid the wreath:

"George Washington, I bow to you on behalf of starving and suffering and sorrowing millions in India. I have every confidence that no matter where you are, you will hear India's voice at this critical juncture in her struggle for freedom and inspire the great people of the United States of America to lend their support to the people of India."

ECONOMY VICTIMS WILL GET PRIORITY

Civil Service Commission Is Ordered by Hoover to Inaugurate System.

Under instructions from the President, the Civil Service Commission is formulating regulations to insure priority status for Government workers losing their jobs because of economy curtailments.

Clearing the way for this program, long under consideration by the commission, Secretary E. C. Babcock yesterday made public a White House executive order giving the commission necessary authority.

This means, according to commission officials, that in future appointments there will be no discrimination on the selective list between persons losing their positions either through dismissal because of reduction of force or through extended furlough.

Preliminary steps already had been taken by the commission, in pooling independent reappointment lists in one preferential file. Executive orders of old standing stood in the path of its practical administration.

Yesterday's statement, however, removes the last obstacle. Mr. Babcock said regulations placing the new system in operation will be forthcoming soon.

The White House order, made public yesterday by the commission, reads:

"The Civil Service Commission may set up procedure and promulgate regulations under which employes with appropriate status who have been recently, or who are about to be furloughed or dropped for reduction of force without delinquency or misconduct, may be afforded prority in the filling of vacancies when in the opinion of the commission the conditions of good administration warrant such priority."

AMERICAN BALLOON IS BELIEVED VICTOR

Navy's Craft Sighted Near Warsaw and Goodyear Is Unreported.

Basel, Switzerland, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—One of two American ballons tonight was believed to be the victor in the classic James Gordon Bennett Cup race, after all the other entrants had been reported grounded.

These were the United States Navy craft, piloted by Commander E. G. W. Settle, which was last sighted on the outskirts of Warsaw, and the Goodyear No. 8, unreported since the takeoff from Basel yesterday.

The only other balloon known to have gone about as far as Warsaw was the Polish bag Gdynia, which traveled 1,076 kilometers, or about 640 miles to Bielany, near Warsaw, where it was grounded at 10:05 a. m.

The Belgica, piloted by Ernest Demuyter, the Belgian, and intense rival of W. T. Orman, the pilot of the Goodyear No. 8, reported tonight it had been forced to land near Gorzkowice, Poland, 150 miles southwest of Warsaw. A snowstorm was blamed.

The Spanish balloon 14 de Abril tonight reported a landing at Malkinia, Poland. (This was taken to

Weather Bureau to Pay $5 for Lost Apparatus

(United Press.)

The Weather Bureau has lost about fifteen meteorographs which it dropped from balloons during the international polar year program in 1931, and will pay $5 to any one who will find and return the instruments.

The meteorographs were sent into the air to record atmospheric conditions. Thirteen were found, but the remainder are missing.

BEEF RAISERS PROMISED AID BY ROOSEVELT

Will Look After Our Own People, He Assures Arizonans.

STATE'S DEMOCRATS TALK WITH NOMINEE

Refuses to Answer "Lot of Questions" Posed by Republicans.

Williams, Ariz., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Speaking from the back of an open motor car to several hundred men and women of the cattle country today, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, touched upon the cattle tariff and said, "We are going to look after our own people."

"A lot of questions are being asked of me that I'm not answering," he said. "Yesterday some of our Republican friends suggested that we would let Argentine beef and Australian and Mexican beef come in free of duty. I don't think that needs an answer. We are going to look after our own people."

"You don't say anything about sheep," shouted a man nearby.

The New York Governor addressed the crowd that had assembled as guests of Mrs. John C. Greenway at her Quarter Circle Double X ranch a few miles from Williams. Many of those who crowded around him wore the picturesque costumes of the cow lands.

Confers With State Leaders.

During his day and night at the ranch, Mr. Roosevelt had opportunity to confer with many of the outstanding Arizona Democrats.

Gov. George W. P. Hunt and the man who defeated him in the recent primary, Dr. B. B. Moeur, of Tempe, were there, along with Senator Hayden and Representative Douglas, of Arizona.

Beside the governor as he sat on the top of a seat in the open car was Senator Walsh, of Montana, who rejoined the party after several days spent in assembling data for Mr. Roosevelt.

The talk was made during a rodeo Mrs. Greenway had arranged as a part of the program for the New York governor's last day in Arizona before passing on to New Mexico.

Colorful Spectacle.

For two hours the governor sat and watched cowboys race their horses around the dusty quarter-mile track laid off on the flat land below the ranch house. About him stood many men and women in cowboy garb, weather beaten cowpunchers in their high-heeled boots and denim shirts, a scattering of men in the colorful regalia of white chaps, broad brim-

Hoover Dam Work Exceeds Schedule

Wilbur Reports Construction Now Year Ahead of Point Expected.

(Associated Press.)

Returning to Washington from an inspection trip to Hoover Dam, Secretary Wilbur, of the Interior, told newspapermen yesterday the work on the giant construction project was a year ahead of schedule.

The work was begun three years ago and Wilbur said that at that time it was expected to require six and one-half years. He made no estimate as to when it would be completed.

The Secretary described Boulder City as the "nicest, cleanest, sweetest little city in the United States." Referring to recent criticisms as to the way workers had been treated, he said it "all blew out because it had nothing to rest on."

WALKER APPOINTED TO SEAT IN SENATE

Colorado Governor Names Publisher as Successor of Waterman.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Walter Walker, Grand Junction newspaper publisher and retiring chairman of the Democratic State central committee, was appointed United States senator today by Gov. William H. Adams to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Charles Waterman.

With the appointment of Walker the political complexion of the Senate is 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Labor.

Whether Walker will serve in the lame duck session of Congress beginning in December and complete Senator Waterman's term up to March 4, or whether a short-term senator will be named at the general election in November was the subject of considerable speculation in Colorado political circles tonight.

Colorado's election laws make no provision for the nomination of a short-term candidate in an instance of this kind.

Some legal authorities say the vacancy committees of the parties have power to select a candidate. Others declare the vacancy committees are empowered to fill only such vacancies as may occur on the tickets se-

Tokyo Newspaper Scents U. S. Plot

Tells Readers of Plan for Railway to Be Built Under Bering Sea.

Tokyo (Tuesday), Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The newspaper Kokumin today displayed a banner headline, "America's Overweening Ambitions in Asia," and the story beneath described plans for a railway across the United States, Canada and under the Bering Sea to Moscow.

The paper said this railway would join the Trans-Siberian road and its southern offshoot would go to Istanbul, Turkey. An elaborate map printed alongside asserted that all the plans and surveys for "this, the world's longest railway, have been completed."

The newspaper asserted that Roy Chapman Andrews, who explored the Gobi Desert for 21 years, was not really hunting dinosaur eggs, but surveying the railway route for the "purpose of exploiting the huge latent resources of Asia."

Washington's Trowel Is Used; Service Personnel Gets Executive Praise.

In the presence of several thousand spectators, President Hoover laid the corner stone of the new Postoffice Department Building yesterday afternoon, spreading the first mortar into place with the trowel used by George Washington in the laying of the corner stone of the United States Capitol 139 years ago.

In an address preceding the laying of the corner stone, the President described the postal establishment as not a machine, but a living service and a factor second to none in the upbuilding and development of modern America.

He expressed special appreciation to employes of the Postoffice Department for "the willingness and zeal with which they have shared work during these times so that the service shall hold its personnel and that none shall be deprived of employment."

The Chief Executive described the new building, which is to be erected at Pennsylvania avenue and Twelfth street northwest, as "a part of the great national construction program which we have undertaken for the dual purpose of more economic housing of Federal activities and of providing employment for the country.

"It is part of the sound policy of speeding the growth of Government facilities in time of depression," he added.

The Chief Executive also extended a special greeting to the postal employes of New York City, in which was organized the first general postoffice in the United States.

As evidence of the vitality of the postal service, the President called attention to the fact that among those present at the ceremony was a postmaster who has been in the service for 66 continuous years. He is John M. Van Zandt, 88, of Blawenburg, N. J., appointed postmaster by President Andrew Johnson in 1866.

These and other observations were penciled into the address by the President as he sat on the platform erected about the steel framework of the new building.

The President described the postal establishment as "an instrumentality

HOOVER'S CAMPAIGN TRIPS TO BE HURRIED

All Major Issues Expected to Be Discussed in Iowa Talk Next Tuesday.

President Hoover will make his first major speech in his campaign for reelection in the State of his birth—Iowa—next Tuesday night, presenting his case to the country at a huge gathering in the city of Des Moines.

This address, it is indicated, will include utterances on every major issue, and perhaps some replies to Gov. Roosevelt's statement on agricultural relief and regulation of public utilities.

The President's campaign journeys will be planned so that a minimum amount of time will be lost from his desk in the White House, and to enable him to give the maximum of time to the restoration of economic normalcy.

Spokesmen at the Republican campaign headquarters in Chicago yesterday disclosed plans under which, they said, the President would budget his campaign and speed by train into the Midwest for two speeches and to the East for another.

Apart from the Des Moines address, the other in the Midwest, it was said, will be in either Minneapolis or Cleveland. Boston is being considered as the place of the third speech.

During his journey to Des Moines, the President will be absent from the Executive Mansion for about 60 hours. There will be no scheduled stops en route and platform appearances will be held to a minimum.

"The pressing affairs at Washington," said Harrison K. Spangler, national committeeman from Iowa, "make it necessary for Mr. Hoover to spend every possible hour on the job of being President." He recently was

King of Denmark Is 62; Hoover Sends Greeting

HOOVER URGES DELAY IN NEW RAIL WAGE CUT

Asks for Postponement of Plan Until Early Next Year.

FEELS THAT OUTLOOK WILL BE BETTER THEN

Doak Tells of President's Desire After Conference; Acceptance Seen.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Hoover yesterday threw his influence against further wage reduction for approximately 1,500,000 railway workers and asked that negotiations looking to a new cut of 20 per cent, as demanded by the carriers, be postponed until early next year, when the general economic outlook will be cleared.

The announcement of the President's position was made by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, who has been conferring with spokesmen of both the carriers and the organized rail workers during the last ten days.

Immediate assent to the postponement is expected from the railroad officials, several of whom already have indicated informally their willingness to await business developments of the next two or three months before undertaking further modification of long-time wage policies.

Expires on February 1.

The 10 per cent horizontal reduction in operating and maintenance wages negotiated at Chicago last January expires on February 1, 1933. Two weeks ago the executives of the principal lines of the East and West jointly announced their determination to seek a permanent reduction of 20 per cent, to become effective in February.

Last week, the railway managers through a special committee, met with representatives of the 21 railway brotherhoods in Washington to present their pleas. It was flatly rejected by the labor group, on the ground that with the business recovery already under way and the railroad credit structure amply sustained by the Federal assistance of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, further wage reductions were not only unnecessary but inadvisable from the standpoint of sound national economy.

Statement of Doak.

After a conference with President Hoover yesterday afternoon, Secretary Doak issued the following announcement, at the Labor Department:

"In the matter of the railway wage discussions now going on, the President last week expressed the view,

Mrs. Borah's Strength Gaining in Fever Fight

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Growing in strength, Mrs. William E. Borah completed her tenth day in the hospital today as a sufferer from psittacosis or parrot fever. "She seems to be holding her improvement," her physician said.

The sixth injection of serum for the wife of Idaho's senior senator, coming late today, was expected in a few hours to add to her gradual betterment. Rising from the lethargy brought on periodically by high temperature and heart weakness, she readily recognized her attendants during the day.

Feud of Rival Runners Seen In Hijacking of U. S. Agents

Tip to Authorities Believed Given by One of Groups Because of Jealousy; Suspect Held Under $30,000 Bond; Hearing Set Monday.

A fight between rival large-scale liquor operators may have led indirectly to the kidnaping of four dry agents in southern Maryland Sunday, it appeared yesterday when it was learned that the tip which started the series of seizures came direct from prohibition headquarters in Washington.

Meanwhile, search for the 14 men who hijacked a load of liquor from the dry agents Sunday continued without results. Henry G. Carter, of Washington, the sole man charged with the hijacking, was held yesterday on bond of $30,000 for a hearing next Monday. Two other men, in jail at the time of the kidnaping and hijacking, will be given a hearing on October 4 on charges of possession of whisky.

A Federal official in southern Maryland disclosed yesterday that the tip which resulted in the first raid came from the prohibition enforcement headquarters here. He expressed an opinion that jealousy between two rival groups had led one of them to tell dry officials of the movements of the other.

It has been rumored that two syndicates have recently been operating one end of their importing business in the peninsula between Chesapeake Bay and the Patuxent River.

THE POST SCOREBOARD

will again offer baseball fans of Washington, unable to attend the world series, a chance to get the thrill which comes with the crack of a bat.

When the Chicago Cubs tackle the New York Yankees in the first game of the title series tomorrow, each move on the diamond will be recorded on The Post's scoreboard and a description of each play will be given through the public address system.

There will be plenty of room for everyone in front of The Post Building and every baseball fan is invited.

And during the series The Post, as usual, will lead the field in coverage of baseball's annual classic. Follow the games through the eyes of Shirley Povich, Post Sports Editor; H. I. Phillips and a corps of Associated Press and United Press writers who will present running accounts, features, statistics and all the facts connected with the series.

Farmers in Georgia Dump Milk Cargoes in Highway

Large Distributer Seeks Citations for Contempt of Court for Violation of Injunction; Shipments From Outside State Balk Strike.

Atlanta, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Angry farmers barricaded a highway near Conyers, Ga., with railroad ties and dumped several truck loads of milk in the road today despite a Federal injunction against violence in a dairymen's strike for higher prices from Atlanta distributing plants.

Still another was halted near Forsyth, Ga., far removed from the Conyers community, and 100 gallons was dumped.

Meanwhile, the Pedigree Dairies, big distributing company of Atlanta, asked Federal Judge Bascom Deaver, of Macon, to issue citations for contempt of court against farmers for violating a temporary injunction against interference with the movement of milk shipments to Atlanta.

The municipal milk inspector disclosed that distributing plants are bringing about 2,000 gallons into the city from points outside of Georgia each day. Thus far, nothing official has been learned regarding the actual decrease in Atlanta's regular milk supply of 30,000 gallons daily.

Officials of the Georgia Milk Producers Confederation, Inc., which called a holiday on milk shipments to Atlanta from 20 counties, reiterated it is opposed to violence.

So far as could be learned, milk was delivered as usual to homes and

CHINA LARGE BUYER OF CANADIAN WHEAT

Half-Million Bushels Are Shipped After News of United States Effort.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Reports that American farmers were trying to finance the sale of more than 15,000,000 bushels of wheat to China were followed tonight with an announcement that the Alberta wheat pool had sold more than 500,000 bushels in China in the last week.

It was announced definitely that the pool had disposed of two shiploads of wheat to Chinese importing companies, and it was unofficially learned that another shipload was sold during the week-end.

Sales on Cash Basis.

There was no official announcement as to the amount of wheat involved, but unofficial reports had it as 500,000 bushels. It has also been generally accepted here that the Saskatchewan wheat pool had made sales of wheat in China during the last six weeks.

It was indicated that, while western Canadian farmers admittedly were seeking the Oriental market, all sales would be on a cash basis unless the Federal Government cared to take the initiative in arranging credit.

A prominent official of a Canadian grain company tonight said a steady increase in sales of Canadian grain to China had been noted during the past few weeks and that it was his understanding the orders were being placed for export via Vancouver late in October.

Confirmed at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Confirmation of reports the Alberta wheat pool had sold two shiploads of wheat to China in the past week was obtained in grain trade circles here tonight. The pool shipments are by no means the only ones sold for export to Shanghai, however.

Sales altogether will approach eight or nine shiploads. Practically all of the wheat is from the 1932 crop and the orders call for grades No. 2 and No. 3 northern. The only 1931 crop wheat now in store at Vancouver is No. 1 northern and No. 1 hard.

Reports the Saskatchewan pool had sold wheat for Oriental shipments were not taken seriously, as very little Saskatchewan wheat moves westward owing to the higher freight rates on the haul to Vancouver than to Fort William.

Will Rogers' Daughter Knows She 'Must Work'

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Will Rogers' daughter, Mary—a blonde and beautiful miss—let it be known today that she'll just have to do something when she gets through school, because her dad "won't have a lazy daughter around the house." Here to enter the Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, Miss Rogers explained:

"Daddy doesn't care what I do when I'm through school so long as I do something. I've got to do something, he says, whatever I like to do most. But he won't have a lazy daughter around the house who's not interested in anything but loafing."

McReynolds, Tennessee, Sees Roosevelt Victory

(Associated Press.)

Representative McReynolds, of Tennessee, yesterday told newspapermen that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt would carry his State overwhelmingly.

"Contrary to what Representative J. Will Taylor (Republican), of Tennessee, said about Tennessee going Republican, it will go overwhelmingly Democratic," Reynolds said.

Representative Vinson, of Georgia, said, "The South will go solid for the Democratic national ticket and President Hoover does not have a chance."

med hats, brilliant hued shirts and neckties.

A fine white dust was stirred up by the galloping hoofs of the horses, settling over the spectators as the cowboys went through their program.

In a free-for-all race Jimmie McGee came out of the mad scramble of horses, yelling his steed on to victory. The presidential candidate laughed heartily in the next event as the cowboys in a bed race arose, packed their bedding on a pack horse, saddled their ponies and went at breakneck speed around the track.

Enjoys Cowboy Races.

"Look at the cowboy," he said, leaning forward and laughing, as the bedding came unfastened from one of the pack horses and the rider leaped down to get it back in place before continuing the race. Tom Cotton, of Williams, won.

In quick succession there followed a saddle horse race which Kelsey Barber, of Williams, won; a relay which Tom Cotton took; a ladies' race won by Frances M. Seligwick, of New York, a guest at the ranch, and a boys' race that was taken by Willis Cramer, of the ranch.

Mr. Roosevelt told the crowd that he would rather look at the horses than make a speech. He spoke of the long journey which he had made, encircling the West.

Going Into South.

"Later I am going into the South, where there aren't any Republicans at all," he told them.

The tentative plans for the Southern trip call for his departure from Albany about October 12, with stops to be made at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Raleigh, four days at Warm Springs, Ga., and a stop at Atlanta. From that point he either will return home or possibly go to Louisville and Indianapolis. A later trip into New England is being planned.

After the governor's talk, Mrs. Roosevelt, his son, James; Mrs. Greenway, Dr. Moeur, Senator Walsh, Representative Douglas and Senator Hayden were introduced by Mr. Roosevelt.

His departure from Williams tonight was set for 10:30 o'clock and the train is due in Albuquerque tomorrow at 7:30 a. m. for a ten-minute stop.

Text of Hoover's Address At Laying of Corner Stone

The complete text of President Hoover's address at the laying of the cornerstone of the new postoffice department yesterday follows:

It is a great pleasure to participate in these ceremonies. This building is a part of the great national construction program which we have undertaken for the dual purpose of more economical housing of Federal activities and of providing employment for the country. It is a part of the sound policy of speeding the growth of Government facilities in times of depression.

In September, 1793, President Washington laid the corner stone of the Capitol. We meet today in the course of a Nation-wide commemoration of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth to set, with the same trowel which he used 139 years ago, the corner stone of a new building for the administration of the postal service, which had its origin during Washington's administration.

Washington was responsible for the original plan of this city. It was a plan which permitted its orderly and beautiful expansion. This building is set into that plan and is well fitted to further beautify the city.

This ceremony today has an especial significance to the people of the City of New York, for it was there that the Government of the United States began its functions under the Constitution, and there was first organized the General Postoffice, as it was then called. I extend greetings to those who are assembled in that city today to celebrate these beginnings of our Government and to do honor to Washington's memory.

In those beginning days the country was sparsely settled; travel was difficult; postoffices were widely separated, and the postal service was primitive, slow and costly. But it was the sole means of communication among the States, and the new Government acted vigorously to increase its efficiency. By the time of the removal of the Government to the District of Columbia in the year 1800 the United States Postoffice was firmly established.

Postal facilities were looked upon by our early statesmen not merely as an end in themselves but as a powerful instrumentality for national unity and national growth. In the first years of the Republic the mails followed the pioneers into our inland territory, and as the great tide of migration set toward the West it was the rapidly multiplying post routes and the dependable communication which they afforded with the Eastern seaboard that made possible the eventual extension of our frontiers to the Pacific.

Since those early days the postal service has been a factor second to no other in the upbuilding and development of modern America. It has constantly enlarged and broadened its facilities and has steadily grown in usefulness. Today it threads through the daily social and business life of all our people and extends its benefits to every city, hamlet and fireside in the land. It furnishes quick communication for business and industry, transports the products of the farm to the city dweller, brings the goods of the manufacturer and the merchant to the farmer's gate, delivers newspapers, magazines and books into the remotest homes, provides a safe means for transmitting money and valuables, carries messages of gladness and of sorrow between families and friends and makes neighbors of our most widely separated communities.

The postoffice establishment is not a machine; it is a living service of thousands of skillful and devoted men and women. Two hundred and fifty thousand persons are regularly and continuously engaged in handling the United States mails, and 60,000 others are given part-time or contract employment of the Postoffice Department. The esteem and affection in which the postal service is held by all our citizens is a deserved tribute to the unfailing fidelity of these efficient and honorable public servants.

And as evidence of its continuity and development, we have here today a postmaster who has had 60 years of continuous service. I wish to take this occasion to express my appreciation of the willingness and zeal with which all employes have joined in the plan of sharing work in the establishment during these times so that the service shall hold its personnel and that none shall be deprived of employment.

Thirty-two years ago the Postoffice Department moved its offices into the building which it at present occupies. In these 32 years, the population of the country has increased by 65 per cent, but the postal business has increased sevenfold.

And so today we lay the corner stone of the new building which is to house the executive offices of this enlarged and growing institution for the next generation. In the future, as in the past, the enlargement of its services will bring increased abundance to the commercial, the social and the spiritual life of all our citizens.

which exists to serve all the people and which, in its proper sphere, should require little or no support from the public treasury."

He showed that since its establishment by George Washington the postal service had increased from 75 postoffices to 48,532, the number of postal employes from 118 to more than a quarter of a million, the mileage of post routes from 2,000 to more than 1,500,000, and the postal revenues from $25,000 to $200,000,000 a year.

The esteem and affection in which the postal service is held by all Americans is a deserved tribute to its employes, the President said.

Development of the United States might not have been possible without the postal service, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, declared in an address preceding the President's.

Helped Win Revolution.

"Under Benjamin Franklin, the first American Postmaster General, the colonial postal service became an efficient system of communication, breaking down the isolation of the separate colonies and building up a national sentiment without which there never could have been a successful American Revolution," the Postmaster General said.

"Without the mails, our early stage lines and our early railroads could not have existed," Mr. Brown pointed out. "Without these facilities for communication and transportation our country could have been colonized and developed but slowly, if at all.

Mr. Brown declared that the new building, which is to be eight stories in height, with a basement, will make it possible to concentrate all activities under one roof, greatly enhance the comfort of the personnnel, lessen operating costs, increase the efficiency of bureaus and divisions, and add greatly to the convenience of the public.

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Public Buildings Commission, the third speaker at the ceremony, observed that in dedicating the new postoffice building "we are simply carrying out a program which was laid out for us at the beginning of our history by our revered First President."

Mementos in Corner Stone.

Senator Smoot discussed the new Government building program, and pointed to the important place the new Postoffice Department Building will command in the triangle between the White House and the Capitol.

Among the articles placed in the corner stone were the Bible, the Constitution of the United States, the United States flag, a medallion of President Hoover, photographs of the Postmaster General and Assistant Postmaster General, copies of addresses delivered at the corner stone laying, and copies of the latest issues of the Washington newspapers.

Patriotic airs were played at the ceremony by the Marine Band. The invocation was given by the Rev. Allen Stockdale, and benediction by the Right Rev. Mgr. Edward L. Buckey.

The Washington trowel was lent for the occasion by Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, of Masons.

Former President Faces Island Exile

Brazil to Put Bernardes in Palace Prison That He Erected.

Porto Alegre, Brazil, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Arthur da Silva Bernardes, leader of the abortive Minas Geraes revolt, will be held a prisoner in the summer palace on Rijo Island, which he had built for himself when he was President of Brazil. Dr. Borges de Madeiros, prominent leader of Sao Paulo rebels, left here today under guard for Rio de Janeiro. He, too, will be imprisoned in the Rijo Island palace.

(Dr. Bernardes, President of Brazil from 1922 to 1926, and Dr. de Madeiros were captured last week by federal troops. Dr. Bernardes was taken in a cabin in a forest near Vicosa, where he was deserted by followers.)

HOOVER CAMPAIGN TRIPS TO BE HURRIED

in Washington, conferring with the President.

Originally it was planned to limit the Des Moines address to the problems peculiar to the agricultural Midwest, but this plan has been discarded. Now, it is expected, all major issues will be discussed, including programs for general economic recovery.

Two Halls Provided.

From the State of the President's birth comes word that Republican leaders plan to make the gathering the largest in Iowa's history. Two halls have been provided in the event that inclement weather prevents the delivery of the address in the open. The President's address will be carried from one hall to the other by transmitters.

Special trains will carry delegations from scores of cities in the Midwest. There will be a delegation from West Branch, Iowa, the President's birthplace and where he spent his boyhood.

President Hoover is "well on the way" to completing the address scheduled for Des Moines, Secretary of the Treasury Mills said yesterday. He declined, however, to comment on the subject matter of the speech. The Secretary and Mr. Hoover conferred yesterday on the speeches they will deliver during the campaign.

Forecasts that the electoral votes of Utah, Massachusetts and Maine would go to President Hoover were given to the Chief Executive yesterday by representatives of the States at separate conferences in the White House.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, said the result in his State would not even "be close. The whole political picture is changing in favor of the Republican party," he said.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers said she told Mr. Hoover that "Massachusetts is safe," while Representative Beedy, who scored the only Republican congressional victory in the recent Maine elections, attributed the Democratic victories in Maine to "purely local causes."

Predicts Victory in Maine.

Mr. Breedy said he believed the expenditure of large sums of Democratic money, together with funds put to work in the State by Jouett Shouse, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and by the American Hotel Association had been largely responsible for the results. "There is no doubt in my mind that the presidential electoral vote in Maine will go to President Hoover."

California will be in the Hoover column, in the belief of Leland W. Cutler, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and president of the board of trustees of Stanford University, who visited the President yesterday.

"It was the general impression, I believe, that Mr. Roosevelt did not burn 'em up on his trip to the West Coast," he said. "He has been making a lot of promises, but some of his statements have been vague."

The campagin will quicken perceptibly in the next five days, during which fourteen addresses will be made by leaders of the Republican party, eleven of which will be made by members of the President's official family.

Vice President Curtis will address a Republican rally tonight at Charleston, W. Va., and then go to Oklahoma, where he speaks at Enid Friday night and Durant Saturday night. Other dates are:

Secretary Mills, Thursday, Michigan State Republican convention, Detroit; Friday night, Republican rally, St. Louis.

Secretary Stimson, Saturday, before Union League Club, Philadelphia.

Secretary Hurley, tomorrow, Johnson City, Tenn.

Secretary Hyde four speeches in Ohio—Portsmouth tonight, Cambridge tomorrow night, Worcester and New Philadelphia, both Thursday.

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, New Hampshire Republican convention, Concord, today.

Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, Republican rally, Taunton, Mass., tonight.

R. F. C.-I. C. C. RAIL LOAN PARLEY HELD

Officials Discuss Policies to Be Followed, but Withhold Comment.

(Associated Press.)

Policies to be followed in making loans to railroads were discussed yesterday at a conference between officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The meeting, apparently a continuation of discussions between the two agencies a couple of months ago, broke up without any announcement by its participants.

All members of the finance corporation board and Commissioners Meyer, Mahaffie, Eastman and Brainerd took part in the conference and Examiners Haley and Burnside of the finance division of the commission also were present.

Two months ago plans were worked out in conjunction with railroad officials whereby so-called "work" loans might be applied for. The only loan coming directly under this heading thus far was a $2,000,000 allowance made to the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. last week to build box cars. The Central Railroad of New Jersey has an application before the commission and corporation for a loan for repairing equipment.

Prior to the conference Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Co., called on members of the finance corporation board, discussing the possibility of loans for the purchase of materials while prices are low.

Daniels Asserts West Is Solid for Roosevelt

(United Press.)

Every State west of the Mississippi River probably will be won by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presidential election, Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson administration, said yesterday at the close of a campaign tour in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

"Everywhere there is the greatest resentment and disaffection with the Hoover administration. As matters stand today there is not a State in the entire region west of the Mississippi River which President Hoover and his administration can be counted upon to carry."

Mrs. Hoover to Attend Girl Scout Convention

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary president of the Girl Scouts, will attend the eighteenth annual convention of the Girl Scout national council, Virginia Beach, Va., October 4-7, it was announced at national headquarters of the organization today.

HOOVER ASKS DELAY IN NEW RAIL PAY CUT

both to the representatives of railway labor and to the leading railway presidents who have conferred with him, that he felt it is desirable that this question should be deferred at the present time.

"The present agreement does not expire until February 1, next. The President's view was that it might be well agreed to defer further discussion until the end of the year, as the general economic situation would be much clearer at that time, and negotiations could be based on a better realization of the actual circumstances existing."

Pay Roll Cut $250,000,000.

The 10 per cent reduction negotiated last January is estimated to have lopped approximately $250,000,000 from the railroads' annual pay roll. With both freight and passenger traffic continuing well below half the normal volume throughout the term of the negotiated reduction, however, railway managers declared further reductions essential to railroad stability. To this the labor leaders responded that present wage scales readily could be maintained with the generally expanded traffic already in view for the last quarter of 1932 and throughout 1933.

When they presented their case at the White House last week the railway labor leaders reaffirmed their policy that "wage reductions are not the appropriate means to restore prosperity."

Is Declared Unsound.

"We believe that the course of the depression has demonstrated the soundness of our position," they added. "Now, however, when there are some hopeful signs that the depression may have run its course, when there is renewed hope of early economic recovery, the railway employes find themselves menaced by a threat of further reductions of wages. We submit that our Government can not be indifferent to the menace of such a program, not only to the railway employes but to everyone interested in promoting a revival of business. We submit that every effort to reduce wages, thereby further reducing purchasing power, will retard the forces of recovery."

Government officials who have followed the wage discussion closely are convinced that new scales based upon operating conditions during the last six month would be unwise and unsound.

After the turn of the new year, they contend, it will be possible for both sides to appraise the outlook more accurately.

Railroad Bankers Silent On President's Wage Plea

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Leading railroad bankers today declined to comment for publication on the Washington report that President Hoover had requested railway labor and railway managements to discontinue discussion of wage reductions until the end of the year.

Informally, it was said, railroad executives were reluctant to open the wage question, but felt that they should take such action because of the time element. A period of several months might elapse, it was pointed out, before any solution could be reached, and the executives desired to have the question settled before the existing wage agreements expire.

Unrest Called Only Hope of Democrats

Jahncke Says That Party Seeks to "Capitalize" Depression.

Farmington, Mo., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, said in an address prepared for delivery at a Republican rally tonight that Democratic campaign orators are "basing their campaign on the hope of exploiting dissatisfaction and unrest."

"The more candid of the Democrats admit their hope of electing a President rests on disturbed economic conditions," Jahncke said. "They have made every effort to capitalize depression phychology and have unscrupulously attacked the President.

"In contrast, President Hoover has waged a long and terrible battle against depression. We now are achieving victories on every front. Mr. Hoover has not played politics with the American people, nor does he play to the gallery of the front page. His accomplishments have not been spectacular, but they have been constructive and effective."

CRISP IS CONSIDERED FOR TARIFF POSITION

President May Put Georgian on Commission in Post Left by Dixon.

(Associated Press.)

Appointment of Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, to the Tariff Commission to fill the vacancy created by the death of Commissioner Lincoln Dixon, of Indiana, is being considered by President Hoover.

Friends of the representative, who recently was defeated for Georgia's Democratic senatorial nomination by Gov. Russell, said yesterday Crisp had been requested to confer at the White House. He held a parley during the day with Walter H. Newton, political secretary to the President.

Crisp acted as chairman of the ways and means committee during the formulation of the new revenue-raising bill. This committee originates all tariff legislation and Crisp has been one of the ranking Democrats on it for a number of years.

The Georgian has served more than 20 years in Congress. He first came to the House in the Fifty-fourth Congress to serve out the unexpired term of his father, the late Speaker Charles F. Crisp. He later returned to the Sixty-third Congress and has served continuously since.

It was indicated reliably last night that President Hoover had not reached a decision over the appointment, which would have to be confirmed by the Senate during the coming session of Congress. Crisp's term as representative from the Third Georgia District does not expire until next March 4.

The Tariff Commission is composed of three Republicans and two Democrats. Dixon was one of the Democratic members.

WALKER APPOINTED TO SEAT IN SENATE

lected at the State assemblies. Some political leaders believe the State executive committees have the power to name candidates in such circumstances.

The Republican central committee, which met last Friday, did name the regular long-term senatorial candidate, Karl C. Schuyler, as the short-term candidate of the party. The Democratic senatorial candidate, Alva B. Adams, of Pueblo, is understood to be opposed to standing for election for the short term.

Walker has long been active in the Democratic party in the State. His appointment by Gov. Adams is seen as a reward for service as chairman of the State central committee, which position he held until a week ago. Walker was a delegate to the last three Democratic national conventions. He was chairman of the Colorado delegation at the Chicago convention in June. He has served as State chairman for two years and in that position conducted the 1930 State campaign. He has been a confidant and adviser of Gov. Adams and has been in close touch with statehouse affairs.

Walker was born in Marion, Ky., April 3, 1883. His father, R. C. Walker, was for many years prominent in newspaper circles in Kentucky and founded and edited the Crittenden Press, published in Marion. Walker received his early newspaper training in his father's office.

In 1903 he went to Grand Junction, Colo., and has been engaged in the newspaper business in that city ever since. He has been connected with the Grand Junction Daily Sentinel for 28 years and has been its publisher and chief owner for 15 years. Walker also has numerous other business interests in Grand Junction.

Walker was married to Miss Kathie Wood, a Kentucky girl, in Louisville November 2, 1903. They have one son, Preston, aged 20, a member of the Daily Sentinel staff.

BROOKHART TO HEAD IOWA'S THIRD PARTY

Enters November Senatorial Race as "Progressive;" Raps "Slavery."

Washington, Iowa, Sept. 26 (A.P.)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, for eight years a storm center of Iowa and national politics, returned to the political wars today as a third party nominee for reelection.

Defeated for the Republican nomination by Henry Field, Shenandoah seed dealer and radio station operator, in a scorching primary fight last spring, Brookhart announced his candidacy today on the "Progressive" ticket.

That was the name decided upon by the backers organized to put Brookhart's name in the field.

They met in convention here today to organize the party, which is yet of unknown strength.

Hope for Permanency.

Its sponsors hope to make it a permanent organization with the purpose, according to Frank J. Lund, of Webster City, keynote speaker, of fighting "against peasantry and economic slavery of the great mass of common folks."

Before the formal nomination was made, Brookhart, in answer to queries as to whether he would run, said: "Sure, this rebellion is too sweet for me to keep out. Why, I have 10,000 signed pledges already."

Lund, closely identified with the candidacy of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois for the Republican presidential nomination in 1928, blamed the "long tenure of office of the present political party" as the cause of the depression, and charged the Hoover administration with forgetting "the common man" in its anxiety to cater to "great wealth and influence."

"Standard of Equality."

He declared that "we propose to raise again the standard of equality and to defend it against its enemies by opposing privilege in all its forms, whether it be the privilege of individuals, or class, of interest, or of section."

He condemned the tariff, the Federal Reserve System for its failure to issue money to prevent defiation, and national banks for promoting the issuance of foreign bonds among smaller institutions as liquid security.

He urged expansion of the currency to the 1926 commodity price level, reciprocal tariff agreements, adoption of the equalization fee and debenture plan of farm relief, and payment of the soldiers bonus.

Loss to Field Seen.

Brookhart's pronouncement today clarified a situation that has been puzzling Iowa political leaders since Field captured the senatorial nomination. They saw in it a possible withdrawal of Republican votes from Field in the general election, since Brookhart polled nearly 146,000 votes in the primary to about 197,000 for Field. Between them they polled more than 60 per cent of the Republican vote cast in a field of six candidates.

Brookhart charged that Field had been entered in the primary race to split the farm vote and permit one of the other four candidates to obtain the nomination.

The Democratic nominee is Louis J. Murphy, of Dubuque, who has been campaigning on a prohibition repeal program. Field has announced his acquiescence to the Republican national platform on the prohibition question. Brookhart is a militant dry.

New Group Plans War Debt Remedy

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Heads National Body to Settle Problem.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—With the announced purpose of turning the solution of the war debt problem to the "best possible advantage for the great mass of the American people," a committee of business men, farmers and labor leaders was formally organized today.

Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, was elected permanent chairman of the group, which is known as the committee for the consideration of intergovernmental debts.

The temporary vice chairmen were elected to permanent office. They were Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, John W. Davis, Frank O. Lowden, D. B. Robertson, Louis J. Taber, A. F. Whitney, James M. Cox, Henry P. Fletcher, Edward A. O'Neal, Alfred E. Smith, Henry A. Wallace and George W. Wickersham. Mr. Fletcher, a former ambassador to Italy, was named secretary.

Sabbath School Officers Named.

New officers for the Sabbath school of the Washington Sanitarium were elected during the special thirteenth Sabbath program held in the Sabbath school. They are Miss Maude Brook, E. E. Russell and Louis Keith, associate superintendents; Miss Idamae Melendy, Miss Ruth Melendy and J. H. Strawser, associate secretaries; Max Shoup, chorister, and Miss Ruth Melendy, pianist.

GARNER IN NEW YORK FOR SERIES CONTEST

Expresses "Hope and Belief" Smith Will Support His Ticket.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Speaker Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, arrived here today, grinning over the prospect of seeing a world series baseball game, and wearing what he called "my most optimistic expression."

From then until dusk he was rushed from one political conference to another. Between them he told whoever asked that "the whole situation is beautiful."

As he left his train he expressed a "hope and belief" that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will "give his wholehearted support" to the national ticket within a short time.

After his first conference he said: "Why, it looks as if we're going to get a lot of votes we never got before. It looks like we'd get 90 per cent of the railroad vote, for instance."

He put in a long-distance call for Gov. Roosevelt and came from the telephone beaming. "He seemed to be happy and quite content about the outlook," the Speaker said.

After he had conferred with every important leader at national headquarters, he declared: "I tell you, you'd see an overwhelming Democratic victory if the election were held tomorrow."

The only time a frown came to his face was when some one mentioned the chief purpose of his trip East—to discuss plans for his own speaking tour. Frequently he expressed his own belief that it is not necessary for him to do any stumping.

From Robert Jackson, chairman of the speakers' bureau, however, came the announcement that tentative plans call for the Speaker to make one or two addresses in the East, several in the South, and then tour the West, with particular attention to California, home of thousands of former Texans.

Reasons for People Voting Differently Are Analyzed

Variance in Behavior of Persons of Same Purposes, Environment and Social Stratum Is Declared Based on Maxim No Two Individuals Are Alike.

Editor's Note:—Some unsuspected new reasons why people behave differently, showing how members of the same household can really live in different worlds, have been found recently by scientists of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Some of these reasons are described here.

By DR. ALBERT F. BLAKESLEE
(Carnegie Institute of Washington, Department of Genetics).

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Why do intelligent citizens vote so differently, even when they have the same high purpose of promoting good government?

One might suppose that with the same facts available intelligent voters would reach the same conclusions, but they don't. Men of high intelligence are found in all parties.

It is evident, therefore, that different individuals react differently because they themselves are different.

Recent studies on the senses have shown that people are surprisingly different in their sensory reactions. Even members of the same family who live together in the same household really live in different worlds.

But what makes them different? What is it, in other words, that makes our personalities what they are, such that no two individuals are exactly alike or ever have been?

Difference of Environment.

Among the things that make personalities different is the influence of the surroundings to which the individual is exposed, such as education and the less conscious effects of the behavior of those about us.

A child brought up in the South is most likely to vote the Democratic ticket, but the same child, if trained in the country in the North, would probably behave at elections as a Republican. The habits we acquire mould our personality. All these external influences on personality may be classified under the term environment.

Other influences which make personalities different are the inborn characteristics which a person receives at birth, which may be called his heredity. A man may be conservative or radical by nature, and thus tend to vote with the conservative or with the radical party, if environmental influences do not work too strongly in the opposite direction to his natural disposition.

It is recognized that different individuals are born with different physical characteristics, such as color of hair and eyes. It is less well realized that individuals are born with as great differences in taste, smell, sight, &c., and it is these differences in the senses, as well as in the mental capacities which are the most important influences in making people behave differently.

That people differ in unsuspected ways is shown by recent studies of the senses of taste and smell. An exhibit organized by Dr. A. L. Fox and the writer, which is now on view at the American Museum of Natural History, may serve as an example. Visitors are given the opportunity of tasting a harmless chemical called P. T. C. and registering in a voting machine what they find the taste to be.

The records so far show that out of 4,570 taking the test, 940 or nearly one-quarter have voted P. T. C. to be entirely tasteless, 3,088 or about three-quarters have voted it bitter. In addition, there have been scattering votes: 229 for sour, 190 for salty, 81 for sweet and 69 for still some other taste.

Difference in Taste.

The substance is the same, but the people are different. More detailed study has shown that ability and inability to taste P. T. C. is inherited. People are born "tasters" or "non-tasters" for this particular substance. In consequence if "tasters" and "non-tasters" vote correctly, they must vote differently regarding the very same thing.

People differ in regard to the weakest concentration at which they can first detect a taste in a given substance. Some are acute tasters for one kind of bitter and poor tasters for another bitter. Many were found unable to distinguish between the taste of substances which most of us call bitter and sour.

Similar examples could be taken from the sense of smell to show that people differ in the concentrations of the odors necessary to give them a sensation. For this reason many can not detect the faint fragrance in flowers of freesias and some are unable to smell the odor of skunk. Similar differences probably exist in regard to all the senses.

It is safe to say that the senses of no two individuals tell them exactly the same story. It is the inborn or hereditary differences between people even more than the differences in our environemnts which make us what we are—persons clothed in the same style but with different personalities, living together, yet in different worlds.

EAST TO HAVE YOUNG REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

Organization in 12 States Is Announced, With A. H. Seed, Jr., as Head.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Organization of the National Young Republican League in the twelve States of the Eastern division was announced tonight at Republican Eastern headquarters by Senator Felix Hebert, director of the campaign in this area.

Allen H. Seed, jr., president of the Young Men's Board of Trade of New York, was put in charge of the campaign, which will be directed toward organizing voters between the ages of 21 and 36.

Mr. Seed is 31 years old, as is George Olmstead, of Des Moines, Iowa, who is national head of the league and who will come here this week to help form plans for the Eastern drive. Mr. Seed pointed out there are 28,000,000 voters under 36, and said:

"The league will parallel the regular party organization in each political subdivision. The younger leaders will work with and under the regular party leaders in their respective jurisdictions, and will have corresponding duties."

In a letter to John Q. Tilson, chairman of the Eastern speakers' bureau John Spargo, Vermont author, editor and friend of the late Woodrow Wilson, announced his willingness to take the stump for the Republican ticket.

THOMAS HAS PLAN FOR SOCIALIZATION

Says He Would Confiscate Industry if Owning Class Objected.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential candidate, said in the second of his seven principal campaign speeches tonight that he would not hesitate at confiscating private industry if the "owning class" objected to peaceful socialization. Such confiscation, he told an audience at Eagles Hall, would be "restitution" to the people.

He said he hoped the pooling of industrial activity under governmental leadership could be accomplished by taxation and a capital levy because "violent revolution might prove more costly than a reasonable purchase price for socialized industry."

"As this campaign goes on," he continued, "it becomes clearer how intellectually bankrupt is capitalism. It is dying, but still has a tenacious hold over men's deeds and thoughts in spite of a complete lack of outspoken intellectual defense. President Hoover is in the ridiculous and inconsistent position of defending capitalism in terms of a rugged individualism which is the direct opposite of his acts. No man alive outside of Soviet Russia has so completely flouted 'rugged individualism' as has Hoover by his doles to sick banks and railroads and by his tariff and farm program.

"As for Mr. Roosevelt, only an amiable liberal could talk such impossibilities. He is for the gold standard, but would like to give silver a hand; he wants the farmers to get the help of a tariff without encouraging overproduction, dumping or increased prices to consumers!"

business houses today, although officials of the confederation said a number of counties in the affected area had ceased shipping milk here in compliance with the holiday plan.

In the group which patroled the highway near Conyers from early morning until mid-afternoon was one man who said he was the spokesman for the crowd. He exhibited a statement from an Atlanta distributing plant which showed he had shipped more than 1,600 pounds of milk to the plant in a 12-day period. On the bottom of the statement was the penciled notation, "Owes us 52 cents."

It came about, he said, through deduction of icing and hauling charges, which were greater than the amount with which he was credited for the milk.

Prisoner Menaced By Whipping Post

Brentwood Man Will Face Court on Charge of Brutality to Wife.

Possibility of a whipping post sentence for an alleged wife beater of Brentwood, Md., loomed yesterday, when James B. Hammond was charged with "brutal assault" on his wife, Frances. Under the Maryland law "brutal assault" on a wife is distinguished from "assault and battery." The latter charge carries a fine or jail sentence, while the "brutal" charge carries a sentence of not more than 40 lashes, or a jail term.

Hammond will be tried in Hyattsville Police Court Wednesday on this charge, as well as on one of possession. He is now free on bond of $500 in each case.

IMMIGRATION POLICY OF HOOVER PRAISED

Curtis, at Parkersburg, Also Holds Tariff Benefactor of U. S. Laborer.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Vice President Curtis, speaking here tonight at a Republican rally, said the administration's tariff and immigration policies averted greater unemployment and distress in the present economic emergency.

The Vice President's address, as distributed by the Republican national committee, asserted President Hoover's strict enforcement of the immigration law had cut the number of entering aliens this year below the number of those leaving the country.

He championed the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, conceding some rate inequities in it, as protecting American workmen, farmers and manufacturers, "from the lower standards of living of other countries."

World-Wide Distress.

"Periods of economic depression," said Mr. Curtis, "and after-war, world-wide readjustment, such as every nation is now going through, apply the acid test to party policies, administrative acts and legislative enactments.

"In these trying times of world-wide economic disturbances Republican tariffs and immigration restrictions account largely for American wages being more than in other countries. Not only are our wages higher than in any other land, but American standards of living are far higher, hours of labor shorter and working conditions better than in any other nation.

"The object of a tariff is to benefit and protect our workingmen, from the lower wages, longer hours and lower standards of living of other countries and to protect our manufacturers and American producers in every industry and insure them our markets. The Republican party by its twin tariff and immigration restriction planks recognizes that our first duty is to our own and those already here, native and foreign born alike.

"Real Statesmanship."

"It is indeed fortunate that in these times of world-wide liquidation, stagnation and readjustment there were on the Federal statute books tariff and immigration laws placed there by Republican administrations, and that there was in the White House a President who, sensing the situation at its very start, with real statesmanship and administrative foresight and a keen regard for the workers and the people, two years ago adopted a policy intended to prevent any more job hunters starting for the United States.

"This action has done more good than any other thing could have done to avert more increased unemployment, more human misery and more human suffering."

Referring to Democratic attacks on the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, the Vice President said, "Their only proposal for a change was for an international economic conference on tariff rates and other subjects in connection with trade."

This same proposal, he said, carried a provision "practically destroying the flexible provisions of the act of 1930—requiring the President to transmit the report of the commission to the Congress with his recommendations."

Henderson Fights For Radio License

Louisianan Tells Examiner He Has Money to Operate Station KWEA.

(Associated Press.)

W. K. Henderson testified before a radio commission examiner yesterday that he was financially able to operate Station KWEA of Shreveport, La. He appeared at a hearing on his application to renew the station's license.

A financial statement placing the net worth of the station at $425,457 was placed in the record, while Henderson was being questioned. Profits during 1932 up to August 31, were given as $30,056.

In addition Mrs. Will Leonard, of Shreveport, Henderson's sister, said she would help financially if any aid were needed. In response to questions she said she was worth $250,000.

Testimony will be received today on an application to move the station to Baton Rouge. R. H. Hyde, the examiner, has reported adversely on both applications.

5 Injured as Auto Crashes Into Pole

Both Legs of One Woman Victim Broken as Car Skids on Road.

Five persons were injured, two seriously, last night when an automobile operated by Jessie Stiene, of Frederick, Md., skidded on the slippery surface of the Seventh street pike, near Norbeck, and crashed into a telegraph pole. The injured were taken to Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring.

Miss Evelyn Unglesbower, of Frederick, Md., who had a badly lacerated head, and Miss Catherine Norwood, Frederick, Md., whose legs were broken and who had lacerations of the face, were admitted to the hospital for further treatment.

Mrs. Chanley Norwood, Olney, Md., lacerated face; Mrs. Preston Stiene, Frederick, lacerated leg, and the driver, Frederick Stiene, scratches on knee and face, were given treatment at the hospital and went home. Clyde Stiene, 3 years old, escaped injury.

DISORDER ATTENDS OHIO WETS' DEBATE

Bulkley and Bettman Fall Into Personalities and Crowd Gets Unruly.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Ohio's rival candidates for its junior seat in the United States Senate debated the merits of their party prohibition programs tonight, ending their rebuttals in a rising storm of acid personalities and disorder in the audience.

The debaters were Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland (Democrat), and his Republican opponent in the coming election, Gilbert Bettman, of Cincinnati, Ohio's attorney general.

They concluded with Senator Bulkley heatedly demanding that Bettman prove his assertion that Bulkley had "run out" on a beer vote in the Senate, and Bettman scathingly suggesting a meeting confined to personal criticisms alone.

Heckling Marks Debate.

Order had ruled the crowd of 3,000, some 800 more than the seating capacity of the hall, as the rivals swung into their leading speeches. It vanished in a storm of cheers, jeers, and heckling toward the end as sharp exchanges built one upon the other.

Bettman declared the Democratic plank calling for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment could not surmount the barriers of two-thirds approval by Congress and by ratification by three-fourths of the States. Bulkley contended "the only way to get the eighteenth amendment out of the Federal Constitution is to vote to take it out."

Bettman's interpretation of the Republican platform as proposing repeal, with a safeguard of Federal aid for States electing to remain dry, Bulkley charged, would only continue Federal policing. He charged the Republican platform shows "no sincere purpose to accomplish any specific thing, and binds no member of the party.

Bulkley's Rejoinder.

Senator Bulkley summed up the Republican plank as "a futile thing saying nothing and binding no one." His opponent, Gilbert Bettman, Ohio's attorney general, called the Democratic plank a "gesture designed only to catch votes," and fit only to lead "the Nation into the chaos of nullification."

Both men oppose prohibition and the eighteenth amendment, but Bulkley is campaigning on a plank of outright repeal, while Bettman stands for the Republican platform he interprets as for "repeal of the eighteenth amendment with a grant or power to Congress to regulate the liquor traffic in the wet States so as to bar the return of the saloon."

Methodist Boards Preparing Reports

Baltimore Conference Will Hear of Progress at Winchester.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Each of the general boards of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will be represented at the 148th annual session of the Baltimore Conference to meet here October 5.

A speaker from each board will appear on the conference program, including representatives of the board of missions, board of Christian education and board of lay activities, with headquarters at Nashville, Tenn.; the board of church extension, with headquarters at Louisville, Ky.; the board of finance, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo.; the hospital board, with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., and the board of temperance and social service, with headquarters at Washington, D. C.

In addition to these representatives of the general boards, speakers will be heard representing the various conference boards and commissions.

Grazing Fee Moratorium Extension Is Advocated

(Associated Press.)

Extension of the Government's moratorium on public land grazing fees for two more years was urged upon Secretary Hyde yesterday by Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah.

The Government adopted a one-year policy last February of foregoing its share of fee collections on the public grazing domain. After the conference Smoot expressed confidence that this policy would be continued. Secretary Hyde said he would make a decision late this week.

Anesthetic Fatalities Cause Doctor to Resign

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Officials at the Longview State Hospital today announced that Dr. J. M. Irving had resigned from the staff, apparently as an aftermath of the deaths ten days ago of three patients from overdoses of an anesthetic.

It was Dr. Irving, the superintendent said, who ordered the anesthetic prepared and who was in charge of its injection. The three patients died within a half hour after treatment.

JUDGE DENIES DAVIS PLEA FOR ACQUITTAL

Efforts in Lottery Trial to Get Directed Verdict Held Untenable.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Efforts to get a directed verdict of acquittal for Senator James J. Davis in his fraternal lottery trial failed today when Federal District Judge Frank J. Coleman ruled that the prosecution, which rested its case before noon, had made telling points against the senator.

The defense moved for acquittal on the grounds that the prosecution had failed to make out a case against Davis.

The judge held this position untenable. "I think the evidence thus far adduced," he said, "would justify the jury in finding Senator Davis had knowledge that a lottery was being held and that in its conduct tickets would be sent across State lines."

The jury did not hear the pronouncement, having been excused while the motion was being argued. Judge Coleman denied the motion, but told the defense it might renew its motion at any time.

Defense Launches Attack.

Informed thus it must disprove points in the State's case, charging Davis with conspiracy and a part in the transportation of lottery tickets across State lines, the defense launched a brisk attack with its first witness, Fred W. Jones, shown by the prosecution to have power of attorney for Davis.

Jones declared he and Joseph Jenkins, also called an agent of Davis by the prosecution, had taken over the so-called "organization department" of the Loyal Order of Moose from Davis in August, 1930.

This was presented to support the defense contention Senator Davis knew nothing of the department or its activities from that time forward, and nothing about the alleged lottery conducted in 1930 and 1931 by the Moose order in connection with charity balls.

"Organization Department."

The "organization department," it has been brought out, was a separate unit from the Moose, directed by Davis, and operated by him on a contract with the Moose order, of which the senator holds the official title of director general.

Its purpose, it was explained, was to organize new lodges of the order, but the prosecution in the trial has contended it had an important part in operation of the alleged lotteries.

Jones said he and Jenkins agreed orally with Davis to buy this contract for $600,000 with 6 per cent interest, when the senator explained he would be too busy with his senatorial campaign in Pennsylvania to devote time to the work.

Note for $127,000.

"And what did Senator Davis say to that?" asked Charles J. Margiotti, defense counsel.

"He said he was satisfied that probably would work out all right," said Jones.

He said it was part of the agreement that in taking over the contract they would also assume current assets and liabilities of the organization department.

One of the liabilities, he explained, was a personal note of Davis, in the name of Mrs. Davis, for $127,000 and "some odd dollars."

As the defense pushed the testimony on this note, jurors listened closely to the rather low voice of the witness, a slight, gray-haired man. It was partly through testimony about this note that the prosecution sought to show Davis had profited personally from the rich returns of the charitable lotteries.

TARIFF CRISIS CALLS KING GEORGE BACK

Monarch Cuts His Holiday in Scotland to Return for Cabinet's Session.

London, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—King George, whose holiday in Scotland last year was interrupted by the cabinet crisis which resulted in the formation of the National government, will repeat himself this year by returning to London on Friday, it was announced today.

On Wednesday the cabinet will hold a crucial meeting, at which the tariff agreements reached at the Ottawa imperial conference will come up for final discussion. In political circles it is assumed the Free Trade Liberals in the ministry, headed by the home secretary, Sir Herbert Samuel, will resign because they can' not reconcile the Ottawa agreements with their antitariff beliefs.

Simon's Followers May Object.

The seriousness of the crisis was attested in hints tonight that the Liberal followers of Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, who heretofore were most closely associated with the government, might raise strong objections to the Ottawa agreements. This was indicated after the Simonite Liberals had held a meeting today.

Previously there had been no talk of defection by Sir John Simon, and tonight's hints did not go so far as to raise this point.

A year ago the king played a quiet but important part in the dramatic political events which resulted in the death of the Labor cabinet and the retention of Ramsay MacDonald as prime minister at the head of a government composed of Conservative, Labor and Liberal numbers.

Efforts were being made today by the Conservative ministers to persuade their Liberal colleagues to remain in the administration.

King's Activity Rumored.

Although the matter never was publicly announced, it was widely reported last fall that the king played a decisive part in the formation of the national government.

These reports led to an attack on the king by H. G. Wells in a speech last July at the Oxford Liberal Summer School. Such criticism is most infrequent in Great Britain, and Mr. Wells' auditors heard him in silence.

"The king was so ill-advised as to depart from his proper political and social neutrality and to lead the movement for cheeseparing and grinding the faces of the needy in the interests of the debt collector," Mr. Wells said.

Dorothy Hall, Actress, And Husband Separate

New York, Sept. 25 (A.P.).—Dorothy Hall, Broadway actress, and her husband, Neal Andrews, cosmetic manufacturer, have decided upon a divorce so they can live their own lives and become "better friends." The beautiful and successful actress and her husband, who have been married six years, signed an agreement reading

"We have decided to separate by mutual agreement. We agree to leave each other alone, permitting each to live his or her life as he or she chooses. We make this agreement in the best of faith with nothing but good will toward each other."

Von Seeckt Sees Germany As Military Power Soon

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Gilching, Germany, Sept. 26.—Germany stands ready to build up her military strength regardless of treaties or what the rest of the world thinks, Gen. Hans von Seeckt, father of the postwar German army and the most famous military genius of contemporary Germany, told the United Press in an exclusive interview here today.

"If the other powers refuse Germany the military independence to which she is entitled," Gen. von Seeckt said, "I see no way out other than that Germany expand her armed forces.

"Germany has waited long enough for others to keep their promise to reduce armaments. They have refused to do so, and the chances that they will keep their promises are slim. Consequently, the world must be prepared to see Germany help herself as far as necessary.

"In the long run, I believe there is no force on earth that can prevent Germany becoming a great military power. The speed of Germany's rearmament is a question of hard cash. If we were not hampered by financial worries we would require only a few years to reestablish our military strength. As it is, the country's financial and economic dilemma will retard that development."

Gen. von Seeckt was interviewed at his rural estate, where he takes a keen interest in his crops.

"Let me emphasize," the general said, "that Germany did not start by demanding an equal right to arm with other nations. If Germany's neighbors had consented to disarm to Germany's level, our feeling of insecurity would have vanished.

"However, if the superior armament of Germany's neighbors continues to menace us, we must insist on security by the strengthening and reorganization of our armed forces.

"We would find it very hard to attain essential security without additional military outlay if restoration of our freedom enabled us to apportion available funds as we deemed suitable.

"President von Hindenburg's recent decree establishing a central body for the physical training of German youth has been regarded widely as the nucleus or a future national militia. Actually it is far from that.

"This move must be viewed as an attempt to create a substitute for the physical training and moral education of which Germany was deprived by the abolition of universal compulsory military service.

"In my opinioin, one of the vital prerequisites of our future militia must be a close connection between the army and the German universities. This must become the starting point for reawakening the military spirit among the entire population."

Make Girls Drink, Held Goal of Plot

W.C.T.U. Says That Liquor Interest Plans Drive on Cigarette Lines.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—The W. C. T. U. believes that if prohibition laws are repealed the liquor interests will follow in the footsteps of tobaccoonists in directing their advertising to women. A statement, sent from national headquarters today to women members, read:

"The great danger in repealing or modifying the eighteenth amendment is the attempt that will be made by the makers of intoxicating liquor to exploit the young people, particularly the girls, with the same methods used in cigarette advertising.

"There are 50,000,000 young people under 21 in this country, among whom the liquor dealers will launch their drive for trade. It will be a drive by every modern device of advertising and publicity; there will be newspaper, billboard and radio appeals for the nondrinking to drink, and for the drinker to drink more. The taxes promised from liquor by some of the proliquor advocates would require an annual retail liquor expenditure of $12,000,000,000, six times the highest amount ever spent previously for liquor."

Great Russian City Named 'Maxim Gorki'

Moscow, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The great city of Nizhninovgord, chief center of navigation of the Volga River and famous in medieval Russian history, has been renamed "Maxim Gorki," for "Soviet Russia's foremost man of letters," who was born there. The fortieth anniversary of Gorki's literary activity was celebrated yesterday.

His pen name is also to be perpetuated in the city of Moscow, replacing Tverskaya as the name of the main street. (His real name is Aleksei Pyeshkov.)

BLAST IN SUBMARINE KILLS TWO, HURTS 31

Blaze Aboard French Vessel Occurs Off Cherbourg in Trial Run.

Cherbourg, France, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—An explosion aboard the new French submarine Persee during a trial run off Cherbourg today killed 2 seamen and injured 30 others, 3 of them critically. Six of the injured were seriously burned and 22 suffered minor hurts or burns.

The explosion was in the outer sheathing of the engines. It was followed by fire, which was quickly brought under control by the crew. A call for assistance was sent out immediately, and within a short time naval tugs had the submersible in tow and doctors went aboard to treat the injured.

The Persee is of the same type as the submarine Promethee, which sank off Cherbourg last July with a loss of more than 60 lives.

Three of the men injured were in critical condition tonight, suffering from fractured skulls. A skull fracture caused the death of Engineer Lecoq.

When the explosion occurred the Persee was cruising on the surface between Guernsey and the French coast, about 7 miles offshore. The ship was brought into the harbor tonight. An inquiry into the accident will begin tomorrow.

Escaped Convict Doctors Captured

Surgeons' Scalpels Used to Overcome Guards Once Outside Prison.

Kansas City, Kans., Sept. 26 (A.P.). Two convict physicians who employed a ruse and surgeons' scalpels to escape from the Missouri Penitentiary were held here tonight for return to Jefferson City, Mo.

The convicts, Dr. George Kowertz and Alvin Hetzer, serving long terms for robbery, were captured without resistance in a house today after police were informed of their whereabouts by an anonymous telephone call.

Kowertz and Hetzer, making use of a faked telephone call for their services at Algoa Farms, a reformatory near Jefferson City, were carried out of the prison by motor car Saturday night under escort of Joe Szwabo, a trusty, and Homer Yancey, guard. The trusty and guard, released in Kansas City Sunday after a wild night ride, said Kowertz and Hetzer had presented knives at their necks to overpower them.

THE RAID ON THE SABINE WOMEN

"Nature in the Raw"— as portrayed by Saul Tepper...inspired by the story of the Roman warriors' ruthless capture of the Sabine village for the express purpose of carrying off its women (290 B. C.).

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

They are not present in Luckies ...the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

PARAGUAY ACCEPTS CHACO TRUCE PLAN

Note Sent to Neutrals Here Specifies Disarming in Both Nations.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 26 (A. P.).—Paraguay today accepted a plan to end hostilities with Bolivia in the disputed Chaco jungle providing for submission by a commission of American neutrals.

The approved conditions under a reply sent to the neutrals at Washington were:

Immediate withdrawal of armies.

Complete demilitarization of the Chaco within two or three weeks.

Acceptance by both Bolivia and Paraguay of a reduction of military effectives to the minimum required for internal security.

It was added that Paraguay was leaving in the "hands of international justice" the settlement of the 60-year-old dispute.

Almost simultaneously with this announcement came a bulletin from the ministry of war that a Paraguayan force in the Chaco had repelled a Bolivian drive from Arce. Another force, the bulletin said, had prevented the escape of the besieged Bolivian garrison at Fort Fourteenth of December.

Reply Reiterates Acceptance.

La Paz, Bolivia, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The government announced tonight it had sent a reply to American neutrals in Washington "reiterating Bolivia's acceptance" of the neutral scheme for the suspension of hostilities throughout the Chaco.

The note added Bolivia accepted suspension of hostilities if Paraguay also agreed, and as for neutral supervision, it was added, Bolivia had already expressed her opinion in her note of September 18.

(Associated Press.)

What the Bolivian government described as its "acceptance" of the neutral nations' plan for stopping the fighting in the Chaco region contained some reservations, but it was said by an informed diplomat last night that Bolivia now was ready to agree on all but one point.

The Chaco neutral commission was said by this official to have learned that Bolivia was ready for a truce with Paraguay covering the entire Chaco instead of the Boqueron sector only, as the last note from La Paz stated.

This meant, he said, that only the neutral proposal for arbitration still remained to be accepted by that country. He added Bolivia had not stated in writing yet that she would accept a truce for the entire Chaco and a military instead of civil mission to supervise the troops, but that the commission was assured on these points.

Note Sent to Paraguay.

A note was dispatched to Paraguay last night asking a more general acceptance by that country of the neutral truce proposal. Paraguay included as conditions to her acceptance yesterday that troops be withdrawn and that the military effectives of both countries be reduced. The neutrals, according to a well-informed source, suggested in their note last night that this phase of the truce could be discussed with the military mission which the neutrals desire to send to supervise cessation of hostilities.

ADM. PRINGLE DIES; BURIAL ON SATURDAY

Last Rites Will Be Held at Annapolis for Commander of Battle Force.

The body of Vice Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle, commander of the Battle Force, United States Navy, who died early yesterday at the Naval Hospital in San Diego, Calif., will be sent to Annapolis, Md., for burial Saturday in the Naval Academy Cemetery.

He was taken seriously ill September 14 while at Port Angeles, Wash., aboard his flagship, the U. S. S. West Virginia. Rushed at full speed to the naval base at San Diego, Admiral Pringle died of what attending physicians described as anemia.

After two years as commander of Battleship Division, No. 3, Battle Force, Admiral Pringle assumed command of all battleship divisions of the force on August 12. His death ended a brilliant career, which was soon to bring him here as chief of naval operations, Navy Department.

Admiral Pringle was born in Georgetown, S. C., February 4, 1873. He was appointed to the Naval Academy from Illinois in 1888. Graduating in the class of 1894, he was commissioned an ensign and continued to rise in rank until 1926, when he was appointed a rear admiral.

Serving on various ships during the Spanish - American War, Admiral Pringle was later transferred to the Naval Academy, where he remained from 1903 to 1906.

As commanding officer of the U. S. S. Melville during the World War, Admiral Pringle was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal with a citation for "exceptionally meritorious service in European waters."

He served as president of the Naval War College for several years prior to his appointment to the battle force.

Surviving Admiral Pringle are his wife, Mrs. Cordelia Pringle, and a daughter, Mrs. J. D. H. Kane, wife of Commander J. D. H. Kane, U. S. N.

Farm Credit Branches To Open Within 15 Days

(Associated Press.)

Representative Vinson, of Georgia, yesterday said he had been advised by Reconstruction Corporation officials that the $3,000,000 Agricultural Credit Corporation office at Raleigh, N. C., and its branch at Macon, Ga., would be opened within 15 days.

"The opening of this institution will be a great help to the farmers in the Southeast," the Georgian Democrat added. Vinson said he came to Washington specifically to urge that the credit office be placed in operation as quickly as possible.

Funny Looking FIRE BRICK

But it will SAVE you many a dollar on OIL HEAT

CERTAINLY Fluid Heat's exclusive Top-Flame Brick looks odd to any man who has looked into oil burners. It isn't just a flame deflector. It acts as a carburetor, premixing oil vapor and heated air into a perfect gaseous mixture that burns completely, entirely, without any waste at all.

Think what a saving that means. You get every bit of heat out of every drop of oil. And the perfect, 100% burning means perfect freedom from soot, from fumes, from grime. Also, since the burning is virtually a gas flame, it is utterly silent. The premixing eliminates the noise that, in many burners, comes from the violent mixing of oil and air at the point of delivery from the burner.

That funny looking fire brick is just one of the many fuel and money-saving features of the Fluid Heat Burner. Consider, for example, the wall-wiping flame. Instead of wasting heat by having to radiate from the center of the fire-box, the flame is in direct contact with the heat conducting surfaces of the boiler. All of the heat produced goes through your house.

These features mean real savings, real economy, real comfort. Yet a Fluid Heat Burner costs no more, often even less, than other burners. $25 down puts a Fluid Heat in your home, and you can have as long as two years to pay the balance. Come in or telephone for more information.

The New BRITANNICA

THE enthusiastic verdict of owners, whether they are critics, scholars, statesmen, business men and women, or that overwhelming number who are just ordinary folk, is this . . . The latest Fourteenth Edition of the Britannica is the most useful set of books in the world.

The Britannica is the most useful set of books in the world because it represents—as no other set of books of its kind does—the accumulated experience and knowledge of the world's foremost thinkers and doers.

A Practical Library

Its usefulness is practical. It is a single instrument of education second to none. It helps you overcome your daily problems, whether in the home, at business, or in school.

It creates opportunity for you. It helps you keep the job you have and opens the way to better jobs. It helps you achieve a higher standard of living.

It helps you realize the hopes you have for yourself and your family. It helps you get the most out of life.

A Liberal Education

The purchase of the Britannica is very nearly of first importance in the life of any man, woman or child—for the Britannica is education; it lays the foundation for an education; it keeps education up-to-date.

When you buy food for today's consumption, you are investing in the future. You are, however, preparing for the future by eating up today's meals. Tomorrow you must buy other food. The purchase of the Britannica is an investment, too. It feeds the mind—a hunger quite as human and desperate as the need for meat and drink.

When you buy the Britannica, your investment promises more than even today's food. It has a good deal to do with getting tomorrow's. Besides, you buy the Britannica once and you buy it for all time. Its advantages to you begin at once and last you forever. Its advantages are your own, but they are also your children's. Raised on the Britannica—the influence shows and to their great profit and enjoyment.

The Most Useful Set of Books in the World

Bishop Manning

"There could hardly be a greater influence for education and for the spread of knowledge than the placing of these fascinating volumes as far as possible in every home and especially in homes where there are children."

Robert J. Vydra, Berwyn, Ill.

"My dad, who can hardly even understand English, gets a thrill just by going over the illustrations. My brothers and sisters, graduated from high school, read the books and study them. I'm proud of them and 'tickled pink' to own them. The books are well within a modest income."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

"One of the first things we must have for ourselves as well as our children is some kind of general reference library, and I find that the Encyclopaedia Britannica fills this need admirably."

Cass Cullis, Bryan, Ohio

"Two years ago I bought the Britannica from you, and I feel an urge to write that it has been the finest investment I ever made."

Use Your Credit Wisely $5 Down and $5 a Month

THE LEAGUE ON TRIAL.

Eamon de Valera, head of the Irish Free State, presided at the opening of the League of Nations assembly yesterday and delivered a solemn address. One of his statements was that the League of Nations "is a defendant at the bar of public opinion," and that there is laid upon it "a burden of justification which is overwhelming."

Disarmament and the settlement of the Manchurian question were in Mr. de Valera's mind, for he declared that "without progressive disarmament it is almost impossible that the league could survive," and that "no state should be permitted to jeopardize the common interest by selfish action contrary to the covenant."

It is now evident that Japan has been encouraged in its aggression by the failure of the nations belonging to the league to agree upon a scheme for reduction of armaments. Japan sees European nations refusing to yield a jot of their armed strength, while hypocritically pretending to favor disarmament. The disparity between profession and performance at Geneva is not lost on the oriental mind. The tortuosities of Japanese explanations of aggression against China are not more deliberately misleading than the statements of European powers regarding disarmament. They have placed themselves on a par with Japan in distorting their real objectives. It is little wonder that Japan confidently expects the great powers to give way in the end, and permit her to break treaties with impunity. Are they not doing the same thing when they promise to reduce armaments and then find means of evading the pledge?

The League of Nations certainly is on trial. Its assumption of authority is directly challenged by Japan. The seizure of Manchuria under the thin pretext that the inhabitants of that province have revolted from China is an act of aggression which violates Article 10 of the league covenant. China protests against invasion of her territory. The protest of one member against aggression by another is a question which the league is bound to consider, and under the covenant the aggression must be checked if necessary by universal boycott and war.

Everybody knows that the League of Nations does not dare to make the attempt to enforce Article 10 against Japan. The league's nations would fall apart if they were called upon to furnish quotas to form an army to fight Japan. The oriental empire can proceed with its absorption of the Asiatic mainland with impunity, so far as physical opposition by the League of Nations is concerned.

Nevertheless, Japan presents a problem which can not be ignored. The taking of China's territory is an act that strikes at the life of the League of Nations. Unless Japan can be called to account the league must perish because of its failure to perform the function which it was organized to perform. The only practical method of meeting this situation is that which has been adopted by the United States in insisting upon observance of the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty guaranteeing the integrity of China. That method is to refuse to recognize the validity of any territorial or treaty changes resulting from the use of force in violation of existing treaties.

Japan can not compel the world to recognize the fraudulent Manchukuo government. The nations belonging to the league can deny to Japan the fruits of conquest if they will. Their combined action in this direction is very desirable, but the course of the United States is fixed. To this Government there is no "state of Manchukuo." The territory in question is Chinese territory, and China is recognized as the sovereign.

Many embarrassing questions may arise in commercial affairs as a result of America's decision, but the world may as well know now as later whether treaties are to be respected or whether they are scraps of paper. If Japan can compel the world to condone the conquest of Manchuria in violation of Japan's pledge, then no treaty in the world is worth while, whether it is a treaty creating a League of Nations or a treaty guaranteeing the integrity of any country.

POLITICAL MISFITS.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, Bainbridge Colby, Amos Pinchot and former Mayor Murphy, of Detroit, are the first batch of star performers to be sent out to stump the country against President Hoover. They are members of the "National Progressive League," which is eager to draw into its ranks all the turncoats, renegades, cranks, and disgruntled office-seekers in the country. This league may or may not absorb the "Republicans for Roosevelt League," which seems at present to be composed solely of Richard Washburn Child.

Whether or not Senator Brookhart and Senator Blaine will join the league remains a mystery. The drawback in their case is that they are not supporting Roosevelt or Hoover, but are standing exclusively for themselves. Senator Norris is not a lame duck or an office-seeker, having palmed himself off as a Republican until he could secure another term. Mr. Child seems to believe that he would stand a better chance to secure another ambassadorial job from Roosevelt than from Hoover, and doubtless he is right.

If all the disgruntled could be gathered into one grand league it would constitute the greatest show on earth, with a more bewildering display of political monstrosities than has ever been seen before in one aggregation of wonders. But this is hardly to be hoped for, since the first impulse of this kind of politician is to disagree with everybody else. Unless a League of Grouches can be formed in which each member is president for life it is idle to hope for a national organization.

RAILROAD WAGES.

The question of railroad wages will probably be deferred until the first of the year at the suggestion of President Hoover. The representatives of the railroad labor unions have closed the discussions with the railway executives. The present wage agreement does not expire until February 1, and President Hoover has advised both sides that in his opinion it would be wise to postpone negotiations until the first of the year, when the question can be considered in the light of economic conditions then existing. These conditions are changing for the better, and it is quite possible that any agreement reached at this time would be unsatisfactory to one side or the other by February 1.

The immense relief afforded to the railroads by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the improvement of railroad business have changed the situation since the wage agreement was made. It appears probable that the 10 per cent wage cut now in effect may have to be continued for a few months beyond February 1, but this not a certainty. In any event, the demand of the railroads for an additional reduction of 10 per cent is not in harmony with improved conditions. The railroads are still hard pressed, but they are not facing demoralization as they were a few months ago. The public interest calls for maintenance of railroad wage scales whenever possible, in order that employes may contribute their share in consuming all national products, and particularly foodstuffs. The farmers would be benefited if railroad wages could be restored.

Nothing more clearly illustrates the interdependence of the farmers and the wage-earners than the railroad wage dispute. Another great market for the farmers is the factory worker, who is protected by the tariff and thereby enabled to be a consumer. An attack upon the tariff is an attack upon the industrial worker as a consumer, and therefore it is an attack upon the farmer. No doubt railway executives would like to have labor for nothing, just as opponents of the tariff would like to have foreign goods without a duty. But wage earners and farmers are joined together. The railroads, which are so heavily dependent upon agriculture for freight, could well afford to take into consideration the welfare of the farmer in considering railroad wages. If he can not sell food to the workers he can not furnish freight to the railroads.

DESCABEZADO'S ERUPTION.

The first scientific reports of the volcanic disturbances last April in the Andean mountains bordering Chile and Argentina come from a commission of the Argentine National Museum of Natural History, which has spent a month in the field studying the phenomenon. Old Descabezado, well named "The Beheaded," and other near-by volcanoes in southern Argentina have supplied much new and interesting information.

The commission reports that the eruption, which scattered volcanic ash over the Atlantic coast cities of Buenos Aires and Montevideo and far out into the ocean to the eastward, was reported as far west as New Zealand. It is estimated that more than 10,500,000,000 cubic yards of ash, sand and rock were thrown out during the activity of the volcanoes, a total bulk of material equal to two cubic miles.

Notwithstanding this tremendous volume ejected, largely from the Descabezado peaks, there was only a slight flow of lava, which indicates to the experts that the volcanoes are nearing the end of their active life and are probably ready to be classed with Vesuvius as "old," having existed even previous to the glacial age. They are, therefore, quite distinct from the new Andean volcanoes that are still in the lava-forming stage. Descabezado Grande was indeed a giant in his earlier days, it being estimated that when he blew his head off there was left a crater fifteen miles in diameter.

With the apparent approaching death of old "Beheaded" the surrounding region may look for relief from terrestrial disturbances. The manifold layers deposited by eruptions show that volcanic activity continued unabated in remote times as other geological processes took place. Mountains sank and the sea rushed in. They rose again and pushed the ocean back, and through the cycles El Descabezado continued to spout fire and lava. His last effort shows that he is finally reduced to the dust to which all things return.

POSTAL PROGRESS.

The laying of the cornerstone of the new $10,000,000 home of the Postoffice Department by President Hoover served to bring to the attention of all Americans the manifold benefits received from a service that has become such an integral part of every day life that it is simply taken for granted. The mails come and go with the regularity of the passing days and seasons, and little thought is given to the vast machine and its many thousands of employes who keep it going with such precision.

Postal facilities, President Hoover said, were looked upon by early American statesmen not merely as an an end in themselves, but as a powerful instrumentality for national unity and national growth. This was true in colonial days, but the postal service continues to be an even more vital necessity to the well-being of modern social and industrial life. It is not difficult to imagine the chaos which would result from only the most temporary suspension of this service.

Postmaster General Brown, in paying deserved tribute to his great army of devoted assistants, but voiced the feelings of all the beneficiaries of the postoffice system who pause to consider the benefits they are able to enjoy at such a minimum of cost. The extension of the postal service to every hamlet represents an enormous amount of labor and planning. The postal service, as the President said, is one that should be self supporting, and it is destined to be, but in inaugurating improvements, such as the air mail, there are inevitable periods during which the cost of establishment must be borne by the Department.

Benjamin Franklin became postmaster general for the American colonies in 1753 and served for more than twenty years. In 1760 he arranged for a fast mail to Boston by special stage wagon which left Philadelphia every Monday morning, arriving at Boston the following Saturday night. Air mail today covers the same route in half as many hours. This is a fair sample of comparison of the improved facilities that have developed in the postal service with the expanding needs of the nation.

The magnificent new building whose cornerstone was laid yesterday is another evidence of the importance of this branch of the national service. Midway between the Capitol and the White House will arise a structure that will gather up the scattered agencies of the department, adding to the convenience and efficiency of the service.

If a stitch in time saves nine, how about stitching up the nine-power treaty?

THE BONUS BATTLE

By OLIVER M'KEE, Jr., in the Boston Transcript.

The battle at Portland is over, and the delegates to the American Legion convention, over the warning of President Hoover, and some of the best known leaders in the organization, have adopted the cash bonus resolution. This does not mean that Congress will immediately proceed to do the goosestep. On the contrary, there is every indication that the Legion faces the most difficult and dangerous fight in its history. Last session the House passed a bonus bill 211 to 176—not enough to override the President's veto, and the Senate defeated it. In December, the congressional elections will be over, and the fear of the "veterans' vote," which apparently has caused many a congressman to vote for any piece of legislation demanded by a group of veterans, will no longer be the factor that it quite evidently was this spring.

No elaborate postmortem of the Portland vote is in order here. It is nevertheless well to bear two or three things in mind. In the first place many of the delegates went to Portland under ironclad instructions from their State conventions. They were not free agents. In the second place, the demand for the bonus, and for the payment of an obligation not due until 1945, has in large part arisen as a result of current economic conditions. When times are hard every one wants money, former soldiers as well as others. In the third place, every one familiar with conventions knows that the psychology of the crowd often dominates its proceedings. Men will do things in a group that, as individuals, they might disapprove. Mob psychology has often got the upper hand in the national House of Representatives. Finally, we must take note of the "rabble-rousing" tactics of certain soldier politicians. Opponents of President Hoover, from the day he called out the troops to maintain law and order in the National Capital against the threat of the bonus army, have been bending heaven and earth to stir up the veterans against him. They have not been altogether unsuccessful, and the vote for the bonus at Portland, in a measure, was a reverberation of the eviction of the bonus army.

So much by way of postmortems. What of the future? On this question an observation or two may be ventured. If the Legion has been successful in its past legislative campaigns, it has been largely due to the fact that the American public has felt that its requests were not unreasonable. There was strong opposition in many quarters to the original adjusted compensation bill, but there were also many millions of people who felt that a grateful nation owed something to its defenders, and that endowment insurance policies represented a sound method of expressing that obligation. Furthermore, the country was prosperous at the time, and even Congress found it difficult to devise ways of spending the surplus in the Treasury.

Conditions today, however, are vastly different. The country is "broke," and the individual citizen who does not complain of a pinched pocketbook is as rare as a man on the Government pay roll who does not think himself indispensable to the country. Large numbers of veterans are vigorously opposed to cashing the bonus now, and regard the request as one that breaks faith with Uncle Sam. Chambers of commerce, the National Economy League and other spokesmen for the people are getting busy, and in each congressional district the bonus seekers will find in the field a foe that may put their power to the acid test. And the foes of the bonus seekers will include many thousands of men who wore the uniform in 1917 and 1918, and who are just as keen about having the Legion keep its banners free from stain as any who voted for the bonus.

Spotless—Keep It So!

POST HASTE.

Although Gov. Roosevelt failed to mention immediate beer in dry Kansas it must be admitted that the farm relief he offered was very frothy.

Shades of Sam Houston and the Texas Rangers are restless at the prospect of another administration by proxy from behind Ma's skirts.

To hear Norman Thomas or Gov. Roosevelt talk, the remedy would be found if the R. F. C., instead of making loans to industry, would give all the money to individuals and let every man go into business for himself.

Bolivia and Paraguay, Peru and Colombia to Brazil, Chile and Ecuador: At least we pick on a neighbor and are not fighting among ourselves.

A little Child of diplomacy shall lead the Republicans for Roosevelt League, with the strong and specific program of a new deal, liberalism and greater human understanding. The depression trembles.

The National Economy League already has a membership equalling that of the American Legion, and by the time Congress meets will have the veterans fighting, not for an undue bonus, but to retain unjust favors already granted.

With disarmament, Manchuria and the depression eliminated, President De Valera had a most disappointingly tame experience as chairman of the League of Nations Assembly.

"Russia needs more experts." And about 5,000,000 just ordinarily intelligent workmen.

Progressive Republicans, Republicans for Roosevelt and Independent Republicans are going to find in November that there are a lot of just plain Republican Republicans.

Princess Dayang, daughter of the Sultan of Sulu, is demanding the return of fourteen islands. Why not slip in the other 7,000 in the Philippine group when she isn't looking?

The King of Italy has sailed for the Italian provinces on the east coast of Africa. There is no intimation that Mussolini will keep him there.

It is evident that most of the early straw ballots are being taken with those synthetic paper straws.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHILD'S GAME.

There is a game the children play;
Odd things are piled upon a tray,
Pieces of paper, dolls and blocks,
Flowers, bits of shiny tin and clocks,
And trinkets, gaudy, common, rare
At which the youngsters stand to stare.

Shortly there sounds a signal when
Out of the room they're led again
And the young minds are asked to say
Just what was stacked upon the tray.

Girls will, of course, at once recall
The doll they saw, and boys the ball.
Each will remember best and boast
The bits which pleased his fancy most
And some of them a way will find
To keep a score of things in mind,
But seldom will one manage quite
To gaze on everything in sight
Or of the trinkets, great or small
List accurately one and all.

Life like that youthful game may be.
Here on the earth is much to see
Of beauty, and a vast array
Of wonder-things both night and day
Lies here open for everyone
To stand awhile to gaze upon
Then at the end, we may presume,
Each shall be asked in that next room
To tell, unaided and alone,
The joys which he has seen and known.

The Mason Completes the Architect's Dream by Laying One Brick at a Time

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is no such thing as an accident. The happening that appears accidental is in fact the inevitable result of a cause that preceded it.

If a child drops a lighted match where gasoline has been spilled, the result may seem an astonishing accident; but the adult who is not ignorant of natural law foresees the result when the match is lighted. It is ignorance that makes the inevitable unexpected.

Suppose you are making your first journey by automobile from New York to Chicago. Each turn of the road brings a surprise. The road ahead is a mystery and you never know in what strange surroundings the next hour will find you.

But suppose there is a superman in an airship so far above the earth that he can see both New York and Chicago. To him your journey's end does not appear as something yet to come, for he can see it now. He sees your journey as a whole and knows each bridge you must cross long before you are aware of it.

Now suppose a man is plowing in a field in the midst of which is a tree. A thunderstorm appears and the man drives his team under the tree to take shelter from the rain. A moment later he is killed by a bolt of lightning and neighbors describe the tragedy as a "fatal accident."

But the thunderstorm is a result of natural laws that operated in their ordained way to produce that particular bolt of lightning at a given moment. And the man's training and mental capacity made it inevitable that he should seek shelter as he did. The tragedy completed a pattern.

A man wise enough to understand and observe the working of natural laws, and to see in each movement of the winds the inevitable result of a cause that preceded it, would have foreseen the storm as a farmer foresees the harvest that follows planting.

And one wise enough to understand and observe the working of the farmer's mind, and to follow step by step the course of his life as one event led inevitably to another, would have foreseen the impulse that prompted him to keep his rendezvous under the tree.

Does the Creator know how His creatures will function? Does the man who builds a machine know how it will operate?

He must see the journey's end as well as the beginning, for His law prompts effect to follow cause, detail by detail, from the beginning to the end. Each step leads inevitably to the next, and to understand the first is to foresee the last.

Why, then, let your heart be troubled? The thing that is to be will be, and He knows the ending.

The soldier's job is to march and leave the rest to the captain.

Straw Votes, 1892.

Kansas City Star.

An item in the Forty Years Ago column notes that straw votes in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska indicated that Cleveland would carry those States by about 2 to 1. The Democratic nominee did carry Missouri, which at that time belonged to or with the "solid South," so consistent had been its Democratic predominance; but the vote was Cleveland, 268,000; Harrison, 226,000; pretty close for a 2 to 1 forecast. Kansas was lost by both Cleveland and Harrison. Its electoral vote went to Weaver, the Populist fusion nominee. Nebraska gave Cleveland 25,000 and Harrison 87,000. In this instance, as in many subsequent elections, it was demonstrated that straw votes are mighty uncertain indications in presidential elections—especially when taken in September.

Gov. Roosevelt may be indulging in a bit of harmless political coquetry when he tells the people who flock to see him in the West that he wishes to get into contact with them so as to learn their needs. But they are the ones who are actually making the contact. The great crowds who gather to see him or to hear him in the cities through which he has passed are undoubtedly more interested in his personality than in anything he says. The great thing for them is to have a direct look at a flesh-and-blood presidential candidate.

Hi Johnson Mythology.

Baltimore Sun.

The legendary belief that Mr. Hughes lost California in 1916 because Hiram Johnson thought the candidate had snubbed him seems to have taken such deep root in political mythology that even Democrats feel they must give the password before entering the Promised Land. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Suggests Denial of Motor Driver Permits to Persons Under 21 and Over 60.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was an interested reader of Traffic Expert Ullman's article discussing the idea of psychological tests of applicants for automobile driving permits. It looks good to me, although one of your correspondents, who may possibly voice the sentiment of many others, is of the opposite opinion.

You do not need to be much of an expert to pick from among people you have known for any length of time individuals you would not recommend as safe driving risks on a country road or in a congested zone of a city. A psychological test would dispose of these readily.

Of interest here are details of an Iowa State college investigation of the mentality of motor vehicle drivers, commented on by Dr. W. A. Evans in the health column of The Post of September 21. We are told that "of those who have an excessive number of accidents some have paranoia, others are paranoid, and still others have that type of personality akin to the paranoid and commonly known as hot-headed."

There is also this statement: "Two age groups are prone to accidents. One is the older man with high blood pressure. The other is the youthful. Commercial concerns are advised to make age 22 the lower limit of employability of drivers."

Here we have data for a worthwhile reform, without taking into consideration other classes of driving incompetents. It could be accomplished (1) by eliminating the paranoiac class, which would be an easy psychological task, and (2) by refusing licenses to those under 21 and over 60 years of age. To say that 50 per cent of accidents might thus be prevented is not an excessive estimate.

There may be some who will protest that such a restriction of motor-driving would be too drastic. Very well, if you are willing to sacrifice more than 30,000 lives a year in the United States for the sake of risky speeds in the pursuit of pleasure and business. But if a satisfactory reduction of fatalities and cripplings is ever brought about, it will be by means of drastic regulations.

Debtor Nations Will Not Disarm in Return for Debt Cancellation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Borah, sensing the growth of the demand for a statesmanlike settlement with Europe and perceiving that a throne of royal upholstery awaited whoever first had the courage to ascend it, determined that this fortune must be taken at its flood. Therefore, we see him seated high above the congressional colleagues with features irradiated by international limelight and in his hand the horoscope of nations. His voice goes forth and the world pauses to listen. Boldly he broaches the question of war debts and fearlessly announces his approval of their cancellation—IF. But, alas, that IF is as high, as insurmountable, as a Pelion on Olympus. It is the condition that Europe shall disarm.

To be brief, also blunt, the proposal is superficial, even stupid. Is it so impossible to understand the psychology of Europe? Why are its nations armed? For self-protection, in obedience to the strongest law of nature. And we are simple enough to offer the bribe of cancellation for the surrender of national security and think it has a chance of acceptance. That is what is stupid and, in addition, the offer constitutes an affront that the self-respect of every debtor nation must resent. To imagine that national security is a matter to be reckoned in dollars and cents is to confess an ignorance of human nature so deep as to be abysmal.

Twenty-five Million Farmers Can't Be Wrong, but Farm Prices Are.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Twenty-five million farmers can't be wrong. Here is our prescription for saving the country from wreck and ruin. A 50 per cent cut in State, Federal, county and school salaries. Consider the way our farm products are selling in the Middle West: Oats, 6 to 8 cents per bushel; alfalfa hay, $3 to $5 per ton; wheat, 35 to 40 cents per bushel; corn, 18 to 20 cents; potatoes free for the digging; and taxes on northeast Kansas farms higher now than during the World War, when corn was $1.50 per bushel and other farm products in proportion. What do you think of that?

Suggests Classifying of Stock Market Reports by Industries.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I suggest that the newspapers consult the convenience of their readers by classifying stock exchange quotations under their proper headings, such as railroads, public utilities, steel, equipment, shipping, coppers, automobiles and general industrials. It is asking too much of the reader to require him to go through the whole list to pick out the class of stocks in which he is interested. British market reports are classified, and the reader can find a particular stock quotation in half the time it takes to get it from the American reports.

Bonus Demanded Before Relief of Human Misery.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Bonus and booze before relief of human misery! How can a veteran with a spark of humanity take the taxpayers' money when all about is human misery? The voters can thwart this payment by keeping out of power the party that approves of the bonus as demanded by the American Legion.

HIS DEMANDS MET, GANDHI ENDS FAST

Takes Lime Juice After He Is Told London Accepts Electoral Program.

Poona, India, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—With a few sips of musambi, a sweet lime juice concoction, Mahatma Gandhi today brought to an end his "fast unto death" to which he had held for six days and five hours and from which his physicians declared he would recover.

Conditional acceptance by the British government of a compromise electoral system drawn up by representatives of caste Hindus and the untouchables was the factor which impelled the mahatma to take food again. Since last Tuesday noon he had lived on water with salt or soda.

During the tedious hours just before he released himself from his vow, the mahatma was in piteous condition. Friends gathered about his cot in the Yeroda jail compound did their utmost to relieve him.

Physicians Optimistic.

He received frequent messages. He had several injections and submitted to a native treatment of mud plasters applied to the head. But food he would not take until word came that the London government had approved a voting system designed to meet his objections against perpetuating the great gulf which separates caste Hindus from the 60,000,000 members of India's depressed classes. And even then he delayed further in order that he might pray.

"As Gandhi has broken his fast and is beginning to take fruit juice and honey his system will gradually get used to these foods until he returns to his normal diet in the course of a week," said a statement from his physicans.

Similarly his tissues and strength will improve. Considering the past history of his blood pressure, however, he will have to be careful and see that it does not rise any higher.

Prayer Before Food.

The mahatma was so weak his wife had to lift him up on his cot in the Yeroda Jail compound while he read the official announcement that the government in London had accepted the compromise reached by the caste Hindus and the untouchables. When he had finished reading he lifted his head, smiled and murmured to a doctor, "This will be acceptable." Then, satisfied that the conditions for ending his fast had been fulfilled, the little Nationalist leader sank back with a low moan.

Before he would partake of food he insisted on prayer. The little group about his bedside sat on the ground. Rabindranath Tagore, Indian poet, led them as they prayed.

There was not strength enough in the mahatma for him to join in the chanting, but his lips moved feebly. When the praying was ended Mrs. Gandhi held the cup of musambi to his lips. He took a few drops and sank back exhausted.

Rejoicing in India.

The mahatma's purpose in going on hunger strike was to protest against an electroal system which he considered would perpetuate the gulf between the caste Hindus and the depressed classes. He particularly objected to the provision for separate untouchable electorates which were to exist for twenty years.

The compromise plan provides that 148 seats in provincial legislatures be held by the depressed classes and that a percentage of seats in the central legislature be received for them. It also provides a system of primary elections. These special features are to end after ten years.

In accepting this plan the British government pointed out that some details still remained under consideration. The official statement said this did not imply opposition by the government.

The news of the action in London caused great rejoicing in India. At Simla the halls of the Indian legislative assembly echoed with loud cheers and there was a similar demonstration in the council of state.

PATEL COMPARES INDIA TO COLONIES

Mrs. Mayadevi Gangulee, Indian feminist leader and a secretary.

The party is making its headquarters at the Willard Hotel.

Returning to Washington tomorrow, he will speak to members of the National Press Club at a special luncheon being given in his honor.

Commenting upon the fast conducted by Gandhi, Mr. Patel said:

"Gandhi fasted because he objected to a further breaking up the Indian populace into several distinct groups by the British. His fast did not in the slightest affect the British attitude but it did bring the Indian people closer together. There is no question that if some adjustments had not been made he would have starved himself to death."

He explained that Gandhi was born a Hindu but that he did not confine himself to that religious practice.

"Gandhi's highest ambition is to abolish violence from the world," Patel added. "The pledging of 350,000,000 of persons to a policy of nonviolence has baffled the British government. There are too many people for them to jail or to frighten."

Mr. Patel is recognized in India as one of the country's greatest statesmen. A close confidant of Gandhi, he has been described by political commentators as "the brains of the Gandhi movement."

Asked how he would be received on his return to India he said "without much doubt I shall be placed in jail."

Dorrance Estate Must Pay $21,000,000 Tax

Pittsburgh, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The Supreme Court today held Pennsylvania entitled to collect $21,000,000 inheritance tax from the estate of Dr. John T. Dorrance, creator of the Campbell Soup Co.

The court decided Dorrance was a resident of Radnor, Pa., at the time of his death September 21, 1930, in Burlington County, N. J. The decision reversed the finding of the Delaware County Orphans Court, which upheld the executors' contention that the financier was a resident of New Jersey. Dorrance's estate was variously valued at $112,000,000 to $200,000,000. The Supreme Court's decision set its valuation at $115,000,000.

"Bishop of the Bowery" Is Caller at White House

Among the callers at the White House yesterday morning was the Rev. John Callahan, chaplain of the New York City Tombs Prison and superintendent of the Hadley Hall Rescue Mission on the Bowery, popularly known as the "Bishop of the Bowery."

Rail, Lumber and Iron Industries Join Upturn

(United Press.)

Railroad business and lumber and iron ore industries in the Great Lakes region of the country have improved greatly during the last two months, Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, said yesterday after conferring with officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"Our business has shown a sharp increase since August 1," Mr. Sargent said. "Last summer our freight traffic took a nose dive, which has been continuous until two months ago. Only last week I talked with one of the largest lumber dealers in Cleveland. He told me that more inquiries have been received by his firm during the last three weeks than during the previous twelve months. People are beginning to buy. That's what we need."

GROUP CARE TESTS REVEAL COST CUTS

Medical Fee - for - Service Plan Is Found to Be Less Economical.

An experiment of group medical care in an American industrial community of 10,000 population, disclosed that this is a more economical manner of receiving medical attention than the conventional fee-for-service payment manner, it was announced at a meeting of the committee of the costs of medical care yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel.

Families participating in the group care system in Roanoke Rapids, N. C., received at low cost much more extensive medical attention than they could afford through the age-old fee-for-service payment system, it was learned when two groups of approximately equal size adopted the different systems of medical care and reported different results.

In one group the participants made fixed periodic payments for their medical care and the other employed the old system. The result was a saving of 29 per cent for the first group.

The workers in the first group each paid 25 cents per week. For this they were entitled to the services of five physicians and three visiting nurses, ward accommodations in the local hospital and virtually complete medical care.

The second group paying fee for service obtained its medical care in the usual manner and at the usual rates.

A comparison of the two groups revealed that the first group used the hospital five times as much as the other, received four times the number of office treatments and three and one-half times the number of home treatments, in addition to the services of the visiting nurses, who were seldom called upon by the second group.

Lutheran Missionary Society Meets Tonight

The golden anniversary convention of the Women's Missionary Society of Maryland Synod will open today at 8 p. m. at the Luther Place Memorial Church, Fourteenth and N streets northwest.

The Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, pastor of the church, will officiate at a communion service. Tomorrow a pageant will be given and the members of the society will present the golden anniversary missionary gift. Wednesday night a convention dinner will be held at the Hamilton Hotel.

PAY CUTS OUTSTRIP LIVING COSTS' DROP

Mary Anderson Shows Pay Rolls Down 54 Per Cent; Necessities, 18.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—A declaration that employers the Nation over are "strangling their own industries" by indiscriminate wage cutting and forced reductions was made tonight in an address by Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

Miss Anderson cited figures which she said showed the cost of living has dropped only 18 per cent in the last two years. During that same period, she said, Department of Labor statistics showed pay rolls in a large number of typical factories decreased 54 per cent and employment dropped 33 per cent.

"For some years before the depression the waves of progress had gradually carried both working and living conditions for workers to more encouraging levels.

"But now we are becoming engulfed in a powerful undertow pulling us back into the dangerous waters of lowered standards as to hours, wages and working conditions in industry and business.

"Wages have been cut before dividends, large numbers of employes have been dropped, working hours lengthened, overtime without extra wages imposed, vacations with pay abolished. Industrialists are caught in a whirlpool of competition that causes untold disaster.

"Wage earners, through no fault of their own, are slipping farther and farther from the high water standards of better times and former progress. And among the workers, women are being carried to the lowest levels of all, because in general they have been exploited more than men in regard to long hours and low wages."

Miss Anderson said the only encouraging trend in sight is sentiment in favor of a widespread adoption of a five-day week as a means of spreading employment. She warned, however, against "a tendency to make with the reduced working time too great a division of the pay of the employed workers, which in many instances has been rendered very meager through wage cutting."

AMERICAN BALLOON IS BELIEVED VICTOR

be Malkin-Dolny, 50 miles northeast of Warsaw.) This indicated the Spanish craft, too, had a chance to come in among the first three.

Race officials here said the position of the American Navy balloon, carrying Commander Settle and Wilfred Bushnell, was excellent. It was reported headed southeastward when sighted over environs of Warsaw at 4:45 p. m.

(Warsaw dispatches said a sandbag was thrown overboard when the Navy bag was flying so low at Remberpow that workmen were able to seize one of the balloon's ropes. They dodged the sandbag and released the balloon. It was reported about 12 miles from Warsaw at dusk tonight.)

The German balloon Stadt Essen came down at Zelechow, Poland, and was credited with a distance of 1,054 kilometers (about 632 miles). The Swiss bag Victor de Beauclair, down at Kalisz, less than 30 miles across the western Polish border, was given a distance of 887 kilometers (about 532 miles). The hour when these two landed was not given.

The German bag Barmen landed at Kelsch and was credited with 850 kilometers. The French balloon Lafayette came down at noon near Schedlau, in Upper Silesia, with a distance of 787 kilometers.

Distances were not compueted as yet for three which crossed into Poland to points south and southwest of Warsaw. These were the Basel, Swiss, down near Inowlodz at 2:25 p. m.; the Polonia, Polish, near Radzyn, at 2:14 p. m., and the L'Aventure, French, near Radom at 4:33 p. m. The French bag Petit Mousse came down at 12:24 p. m., but the place was unreported.

The Swiss balloon Zurich was aground at Deutsch-Raffelwitz, in Upper Silesia, at 3:51 p. b. Its distance was not given.

Two others came down in Cechoslovakia. The German balloon Deutschland grounded at Freiwaldau, about 120 miles east of Prague, at 9:45 a. m. Its distance was 748 kilometers (about 448 miles). The Austrian Ernst Brandenburg got credit for 686 kilometers when it came down at Kreisendorf at 5:15 a. m.

Orchestra Leader Injured in Wreck

Al G. Hopkins Paralyzed From Waist Down as Car Turns Over.

Al G. Hopkins, Washington orchestra leader and owner of the "Hill Billies," popular broadcasting entertainers, is in critical condition in Walter Reed Hospital, paralyzed from the waist down, following an automobile accident near Winchester, Va.

Hopkins' machine careened from the highway and overturned when he attempted to avoid striking a car which made a left turn in front of him. He was taken to the Winchester Memorial Hospital, where physicians found he suffered a fractured spinal column. He was transferred to Walter Reed in a private ambulance.

With Hopkins at the time of the accident was Herman Dykes, of Frederick County, who escaped with scratches. The accident occurred as an autoist in front gave the signal for a left turn and Hopkins swerved his car to avoid a collision.

On August 29 Hopkins married Miss Orion Leith Hiett, daughter of Mr and Mrs. S. Lee Hiett, of Capon Bridge, W. Va. He was returning to Washington from a week-end visit at his bride's home when the crash occurred. Hopkins is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hopkins, of 63 Kennedy street northwest, Washington.

Remington-Rand's Eight Plants to Increase Pay Roll 50 Per Cent; Lumber Price Rise Cheers Seattle Area; 5,000 Miners in South Resume Work.

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

New York—Remington Rand, Inc., by the first of next week will have called back to work more than 5,000 employes, increased pay rolls 50 per cent and placed its eight major plants on a basis of four days a week, the chairman of the board, James H. Rand, jr., said.

Seattle, Wash.—Col. W. B. Greeley, secretary-treasurer of the West Coast Lumberman's Association, said that lumber prices have increased from $1.50 to $2 per 1,000 feet during the last 60 days and that the industry sees renewed activity ahead.

Jackson, Mich.—The plants of the Reynolds Spring Co. will call 800 employes back to work by October 15, Charles G. Munn, president, announced.

Chicago—The Association of Commerce reported that for the last week "reports from all leading lines of trade and industry were mainly favorable" and that "the general trend toward increased business" was well maintained.

Chicago—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad reported that it handled 492 more cars of freight last week than the previous week.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Pennsylvania's unemployed decreased 2,714 in August from the July figure of 1,267,606, the State department of labor reported, due to increased activity in many lines of industry.

Chicago—The monthly report of the Seventh Federal Reserve District showed favorable actions in the slaughter house and butter and cheese manufacturing industries, with several increases contrary to the usual seasonal trend and seasonal decreases less than the average.

Detroit, Mich.—R. L. Polk & Co. said that automobile registrations during August in States having about 92 per cent of the total automobiles were about 3 per cent above those in July.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Great Northern Railway enjoyed during August its first operating profit since last December. Net income was $362,392 in August, the July deficit was $980,580, and the August, 1931, profit was $148,227.

Fort Smith, Ark.—Widespread resumption of coal mining in western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma is estimated to have furnished work for 5,000 men. A heavy demand for fuel in the North and settlement of wage disputes between operators and the United Mine Workers of America paved the way for reopening mines that had been idle through months of poor markets and wage dissension.

Labor Head Denies Navy Competition

Machinists' Leader Cites Government Saving on War Vessels.

Maintaining that national defense is a function of the Federal Government, N. P. Alisas, president of the Washington division of the International Association of Machinists, last night issued a statement denying allegations of the United States Chamber of Commerce that the Nation's navy yards were in competition with private shipbuilding enterprise.

He asserted that the navy yards performed a function with which they were endowed by legislation and cited the example of saving to the Government on war vessels constructed in the Puget Sound yard over similar ones made privately at Newport News, Va.

"The shipyards have no right to call upon the Government for business," he said.

Charles L. Wenger, Builder, Dies at 51

Rites for Lifelong Resident of Capital to Be Held on Thursday.

Charles L. Wenger, 51 years old, head of the building firm which bears his name, died in Garfield Hospital yesterday from effects of an operation he underwent on Tuesday.

Mr. Wenger was born here and lived in the Capital all his life. For many years he was a building contractor. Surviving him are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Elsie O'Dea and Miss Eileen Wenger, and two sons, C. Russell and N. Earl Wenger, all of Washington.

Services will be held at the home, 3815 Cathedral avenue, at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. Further arrangements will be announced later.

Hoover Receives Shepherds Today

Lodge Will Elect Officers; Wallis Only Nominee for Highest Post.

Members of the Supreme Lodge of the Order of Shepherds of Bethlehem, now holding their convention here, will be received by President Hoover at noon today at the White House.

New officers will be elected by the lodge this afternoon. Leslie Wallis, of Verona, N. J., is the only nominee for supreme commander. He was nominated, together with other officers, yesterday afternoon. The new officers will be installed at the closing session tomorrow morning. A memorial service will be held tonight.

A banquet and dance were held last night in the hall of nations, Washington Hotel.

Group Plans Study Of Transportation

Committee of Chamber to Seek Proposal for Coordinated System.

That a proper study be undertaken to develop a plan for a complete and coordinated system of local transportation, was unanimously agreed upon by members of the transportation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday after the belief was expressed that the District transit situation is becoming out of hand.

George E. Keneipp, presiding chairman, said such coordination must be based upon the accomplishment of a number of different objects, namely, a merger of the street railways, solution of the bus terminal problem and the question of taxicab regulation.

Mr. Keneipp was authorized to appoint a special committee to make the proposed study, upon which will be based the final recommendation of the committee.

Gen. Glassford Found In Good Physical Trim

"Feeling fit as a fiddle," Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, said yesterday on his return from the annual reunion of the Seventy-seventh Division in New York, that a recent medical examination showed that his only ailment was a slightly below normal blood pressure, which could easily be remedied with more golf and other recreation.

Gen. Glassford explained that he voluntarily underwent a medical examination a week ago by Dr. J. A. Reed, of the Board of Police and Fire Surgeons, in accordance with his practice of being examined yearly. A lack of recreation and long hours of work during the encampment of the bonus army is said to be the cause of his lowered blood pressure.

Rumrunners Abandon Car and 25-Case Cargo

Bootleggers who abandoned their car in an orchard on the Baltimore boulevard near Beltsville last night made their escape but forfeited 23 cases of whisky found in the car. Constable William Kreitzer and Policeman Arthur Brown reported they chased the car from Laurel before it sought refuge among the fruit trees.

Californians Ask Bridge Loan Today

Cutler, Visitor to Hoover, Says 6,000 Would Get Work at Once.

(Associated Press.)

Leland W. Cutler, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, yesterday talked with President Hoover concerning a loan to be applied for today from the Reconstruction Corporation for construction of a $75,000,000 toll bridge from Oakland to San Francisco.

Cutler, appearing as a member of the advisory finance committee to the California toll bridge authority, said he reported that if the money was available contracts could be awarded within 30 days and 6,000 men put to work directly upon the project. In addition, he said, 5,000 more men could be given employment in mills and 40,000,000 feet of lumber purchased in Oregon and Washington.

Cutler said he would go before the Reconstruction Corporation today with J. R. Knowland, Oakland publisher; Harrison Robinson, Oakland lawyer, and George Cameron, San Francisco publisher. Cutler estimated the loan to be requested, the amount of which has not yet been determined, could be repaid in 20 to 25 years.

Von Gronau Flying to Manila.

Hongkong (Tuesday), Sept. 27 (U. P.).—Capt Wolfgang von Gronau, touring the world in a flying boat, departed from Hongkong at 8:10 a. m. today for Manila.

Militia Sent Back to Ohio Mine Field

Troops Return When Strike Agitator and Youth Die in Renewed War.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Troops once more patroled the Hocking Valley coal fields, the answer of the State of Ohio today to a fresh outbreak of warfare between miners and operators that within the last 24 hours has claimed two lives.

Gov. George White rushed a detachment of National Guardsmen into the area today, following the killing of an 18-year-old high school boy during an early morning engagement between snipers and mine guards at the No. 267 mine of the Ohio Collieries Co., near Hollister.

Late last night, Boyd Vincent, 45, an active strike agitator, was shot and killed at Lubrig, Ohio, by Cash Tedrow, a working miner, who told authorities Vincent had threatened his life.

The high school youth, Clarmont Banfield, was fatally wounded as he huddled with his mother and three younger children in their home for protection against whining bullets.

Two guards were arrested late today on manslaughter charges filed by Prosecuting Attorney John Bolin after an investigation of the slaying. Officials charged the guards fired into the house.

Foreign News in Brief

Mexicali, Lower California, Sept 26 (A.P.).—Octavio Duplat, clerk in the Mexican customs house here, was wounded, perhaps fatally, today during a farewell party to Jesus Ramirez, customs patrolman, ordered transferred to Tikuana. Officers said the shooting grew out of the hazing of Antonio Cardenas, new member of the customs force, who fired five shots into Duplat when the latter sought to persuade Cardenas to leave the party. Police were searching for Cardenas, who fled.

London, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Col. Sir Percy Girouard, director of munitions supplies for British forces in the World War in 1915, and formerly governor of Northern Nigeria and of the East African Protectorate, died today after a long illness. He was 65 years old. Col. Girouard was born in Montreal and educated at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Communists captured a majority of seats in the Sofia City Council in yesterday's election, the returns revealed today, and if the election is recognized it means that the next city government will be dominated by the reds. Although they hold only 14,000 out of 44,000 votes the precinct divisions of the city were in their favor sufficiently to give them a majority of the seats.

Canberra, Australia, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Another member of the cabinet—Postmaster General J. E. Fenton—has resigned and other free trade members were reported today to be considering similar action because of objection to Premier Lyon's tariff proposals. E. W. Hawker, minister of markets and transport, who contended parliamentary salaries should be cut more than 25 per cent, resigned previously.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The Abitibi Power & Paper Co. was declared bankrupt today by Justice Robert F. Fisher. The company had been in receivership several weeks after failure to meet obligations.

Warsaw, Poland, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The government today outlawed the left radical Ukrafnian Peasants party on the grounds of treasonable and Communist activity. Police padlocked the party headquarters, arresting its leaders. Hereafter membership in the party will be severely punished.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin took off this morning on another transatlantic voyage to Pernambuco, Brazil.

Eva Davenport Dead; Long Famous on Stage

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 26 (A.P.). Mrs. Neal T. O'Brien, who as Eva Davenport won fame on the stage during two generations, died here today at the home of her daughter. She was 74 years old, but had been on the stage up until six years ago, playing last in "The Student Prince."

Her earlier successes were as Lady Jane in "Patience" and Buttercup in "Pinafore."

Home Loan Bank Directors Named

Eleven Are Chosen for Indianapolis and Little Rock Institutions.

(Associated Press.)

Further progress toward getting the Federal home-loan system into operation by October 15 was made yesterday by the directors in announcing selection of two regional directorates.

The board picked the eleven directors for the Sixth District Federal Home Loan Bank at Indianapolis and those for the Ninth District at Little Rock. Indiana and Michigan comprise the Sixth District, and Arkansas, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana and New Mexico make up the Ninth. The board previously had announced the personnel for the Twelfth District, comprising California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii, and the Fifth, comprising Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

While full reports have not yet been received officials of the system said reports indicate the stock-selling campaign is going on satisfactorily. The board is endeavoring to sell $134,000,000 in stock in the twelve banks and if the minimum capital is not subscribed the Treasury will make it up.

LEAGUE GETS PLEA FOR WEAK NATIONS

De Valera Opens Thirteenth Annual Assembly; Stresses Uniform Policy.

Geneva, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—President Eamon de Valera, of the Irish Free State, opened the thirteenth annual assembly of the League of Nations today with a declaration that if the league is to meet its responsibilities as the guardian of world peace it must pursue a uniform policy toward both weak and strong nations.

Mr. De Valera told the assembly that the league had been criticized as impotent and decadent. Much of this criticism is justified, he asserted, and the league now may be considered as a defendant "at the bar of public opinion."

Some of the Free State president's hearers asserted that the assembly was getting under way in an atmosphere of depression. The sense of the extreme stubbornness of current international problems was increased by adjournment of the disarmament conference steering committee for a fortnight without any material progress having been registered.

Henderson Optimistic.

Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, was optimistic, however, about the eventual outcome of his labors to impel Germany to return to the parley.

Tomorrow Mr. Henderson will confer with Foreign Minister Baron Constantin von Neurath to clear the way for renewed German participation.

After Mr. de Valera had addressed the league assembly, five constituent committees were organized and officers were elected. The customary disarmament committee was eliminated, as that problem is being worked out at the disarmament conference.

Greek Is Elected.

Nicholas Politis, Greece's representative and a supporter of French policies, was chosen assembly president, with 44 out of 50 votes. The following were selected vice presidents: Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, Premier Edouard Herriot of France, Foreign Minister Sir John Simon of Great Britain, Baron von Neurath, Haruchi Nagakao of Japan, and Thomas Francisco Medina of Nicaragua.

M. Herriot arrived in Geneva tonight shortly before Sir John Simon left for England, where his presence is necessary because of the impending cabinet crisis.

In his address opening the assembly, Mr. de Valera said that, to survive, the league must prove its value and that upon it rests "a burden of justification which is overwhelming."

Turkish Member Honored.

Without referring directly to Japan's military action in Manchuria or to the European disarmament controversy, the Irish President asserted:

"The only alternative to competitive armaments is the security for national rights which an uncompromising adhesion to the principles of the covenant will afford.

"Avoiding of wars and the burdens of preparatory armaments is such a concern of humanity that no state should be permitted to jeopardize the common interests by selfish action contrary to the covenant. No state is powerful enough to stand long against the league if the league and its peoples are determined the covenant shall be upheld."

Hope was expressed that general discussion in the assembly would be concluded tomorrow. Usually it takes a week.

The assembly recognized the presence of the new member, Turkey, by electing Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey as chairman of the agenda committee.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

New York, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—A forest of pines and eucalyptus trees is to be planted in distant Palestine in memory of George Washington, if plans formulated here are brought to completion. The project received public attention today when Harvey Lee, Brooklyn chairman of the National Jewish Fund of America, received a letter from President Hoover, expressing deep interest in the undertaking.

Atlanta, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The sheer, slippery wall of Stone Mountain, on whose face has been carved an unfinished memorial to the Confederacy, claimed another life today. Sam B. Baukhight, 24, died in an Atlanta hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries less than 24 hours after he slipped on the brink of the precipice and fell 350 feet to a workmen's tool shed perched on a ledge not far from the hat brim of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

New Orleans, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. [illegible]el Schumacher's pistol blazed today and killed a Negro who invaded her home and seized her. He was taken to a hospital in a dying condition with a bullet wound near the heart.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Charles Scribner today was elected president of Charles Scribner's Sons, the third of that name to head the publishing firm founded by his grandfather in 1846. He had been vice president seven years and succeeds his uncle, Arthur H. Scribner, who died last July.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—A thousand swallows migrating southward sought shelter from the rain in a tall factory chimney here, but found death instead. Early this morning a fireman came on duty to get up steam and gas fumes from the roaring furnaces killed the birds almost instantly. He counted 983 at the base of the chimney.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Dr. Ralph Edward Smith, prominent Jacksonville physician and son of Bill Arp, the famous writer of other days, died at his home here today. His father's real name was E. H. Smith and he was a contemporary of Walt Whitman and James Whitcomb Riley.

New Orleans, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Poisonous fumes in the hold of the freighter West Neris killed two men and overcame three others today. A customs inspector, Joseph Baker, collapsed and Second Mate William Sanker went to his rescue and perished.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—A population of 12,065,187 in the trading area of New York City, including the five city boroughs and 23 suburban counties within a radius of 60 miles, was reported today by the Merchants Association of New York after a study made in cooperation with the Publishers Association of the city.

Saito and Stimson Renew Friendship

Japanese Diplomat Met Secretary at Naval Parley in 1929.

(Associated Press.)

Hirosho Saito, counselor of the Japanese Embassy at London, who has been transferred to Washington to take charge while Ambassador Debuchi is on leave, called on Secretary Stimson yesterday to renew an acquaintance made at the London naval conference two years ago.

Mr. Saito in the past had served seven years in various capacities with the Washington Embassy. He was a member of the Japanese delegation to the naval conference in Washington in 1921.

Mr. Saito is the highest ranking counselor in the Japanese diplomatic service. Previous to his assignment to London he was attached to the press department of the Japanese foreign office in Tokyo.

JAPAN WILL INSIST ON FREE MANCHUKUO

Tokyo to Reject League Plan if It Ignores Independence, Gen. Araki Declares.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Tokyo (Tuesday), Sept. 27.—Japan will flatly refuse to accept any League of Nations proposal that ignores the independence of Manchukuo, Lieut. Gen. Sadao Araki, Japanese war minister, told the United Press today.

He said peace and order were being steadily restored throughout Manchukuo, and that he expected the new state would be safe for foreign travel about "a year hence." He declared conditions in Manchukuo "do not warrant pessimism."

Regarding possibility of renewed Japanese military activity in Shanghai, Gen. Araki said it all depended on China's attitude toward the armistice that terminated the "incident" in that area several months ago.

Gen. Araki's statements were in the form of written replies to questions submitted by the United Press.

Accumulation of Munitions.

"Is there any truth to reports the Japanese army is accumulating munitions in Manchukuo for use in connection with possible extension of military activity in Jehol?" he was asked.

"Reports of alleged accumulations of munitions," Gen. Araki replied, "probably refer to the replenishing of stores used during the Manchurian incident. Such replenishment is also in line with a policy to furnish employment to the jobless. Any suspicion in connection with this activity is unjustified."

"Would Japan hesitate to occupy Peiping and Tientsin if necessary, to quell alleged activity of Chang Hsueh-Liang (former Chinese administrator of Manchuria) in fomenting resistance to the Manchukuo regime?" was another question.

Attitude on Defense.

"If Chang Hsueh-Liang invades Manchukuo," Gen. Araki said, "it would be necessary for Japan, which is responsible for Manchukuo's defense, to assume a decisive attitude."

"Do you believe Chiang Kai-Shek (military leader of China's Nationalist government at Nanking) and Chang Hsueh-Liang are honestly endeavoring to quell anti-Japanese movements?" the United Press asked.

"China's attitude toward anti-Japanism is oftentimes make-believe," the war minister declared.

"What about reports that some American newspapers favor resumption of Russo-American trade and diplomatic relations on the ground it would stabilize conditions in the Far East and discourage Japan from further military activity?"

Silent on U. S. Trade.

"It is not Japan's business to express an opinion on Russo-American relations," Gen. Araki replied. "Japan's military activity is necessitated solely by the right of self-defense, and is not influenced by Russo-American relations."

Concerning a Japanese Monroe Doctrine for Asia, Gen. Araki said such a doctrine was proposed to Japan by Theodore Roosevelt, and was regarded as "a very effective means of establishing peace in the Far East."

As far as Russia is concerned, he declared, there is little fear of trouble arising over a Japanese Monroe Doctrine, because the Soviets "would not interfere with it."

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

crepe has detachable collar and cuffs of pale blue organdy and a double belt of pale blue and delft blue kid. (A Dah-ray design.)

SOME of the novelties of the new season are mentioned in Mamzelle's latest letter, though I do think she is getting more interested in living life as it is not lived in Paris for the Parisians than in her deah publick—but more of this anon.

Gloves in the new wrist length, embroidered with black chenille dots, for instance. And the pale blue kid gloves, combined with darker blue, which are a style note rather than just a novelty, and are seen in all the boulevard shops, while white gloves have their touch of chic red, usually in dots, as do beige gloves have their brown dots.

The ivory colored "first fall" hats are seen more and more—it does seem as though the white headgear was so dear to the feminine heart, and so flattering, that Miladi just refused to give it up merely because summer ended—so she toned her white down to ivory or cream color, and went right on wearing something she liked!

Mousse is a new rough mossy wool and silk material seen in toques and berets for fall, usually cut up and sewn together again for no apparent reason, but with artistic results.

And Vera Borea has launched a new material, which she had made for herself in America, and which she calls Borelaatex. 'Tis in silk and wool, and contains elastic yarn running both ways, which permits the material to snap back into shape on the figure—something we have long desired in dress fabrics. And while on the subject of this clever couturiere, I must mention her two sweaters in contrasting colors, which she shows with all her flat black and bottle green skiing costumes. Rust and purple are her favorite combinations.

Wooden buttons as contrasting color notes on suits and coats; large nickel twists for belt buckles; rope and leather belts used around the neck . . . and there are some of the fall novelties from Paris.

'Nif those fifty millyun lovely ladies who telephoned our delightful editor about that dragon a few weeks ago don't sit down this very minute and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this big dragon design, which is this week's leaflet! Well, I know that a good dragon design is not easy to find—sez she—patting herself on the back—so I just had a whole big leaflet made of a good dragon for you. You can trace it outright and use it to paint or embroider or whatever you wish. Send for it, even if you haven't anything in mind to do with it—the day might come when you will wish you had a dragon and won't have one available.

Color is so very important this fall, and color combinations are just so impossible to sketch in black and white! The design I made for you today, for instance, was simply lovely in color—and it has tricks, too—about its adaptability. You can wear it as a wool crepe dress without collar and cuffs, showing just the one pale blue and the one darker blue belt, worn so that the dove gray cloth of the dress shows between them, or you can baste on the delft blue band from which the pale blue organdy collar springs, and snap on the cuffs at the same time—or just the cuffs and not the collar. 'Tis the collar and cuffs that would give it its dress-up look, don't you think?

And speaking of changeability—the collar and the belt with its hanging pockets sketched in the corner—the fur ones. These can be worn with the coat or the perfectly good coat worn furless, as you please. Cute?

Au revoir!

SILVERFISH OR "SLICKERS."

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

When you give the attic its annual fall turning out this year, you may see some shiny little flat insects darting here and there, especially near books and clothing and other stored articles. They are silverfish or "slickers," which damage textiles, such as cotton, rayon, or silk fabrics, by eating the size or finish, if it contains starch, glue, or gum. This insect likes a dark place where it can live undisturbed. Frequent use and airing of clothing and other articles is the best protection against destruction by silverfish. Drying and heating readily kill these pests, as they have very soft bodies.

Silverfish may be easily poisoned by spreading poisoned paste on cardboards. The poison is made by adding a small quantity of white arsenic to half a cupful of paste made from flour and boiling water. Care must be taken to destroy all leftover paste and to cleanse the dishes and brushes used in preparing the paste and the boards. Put the cardboards where children can not get them.

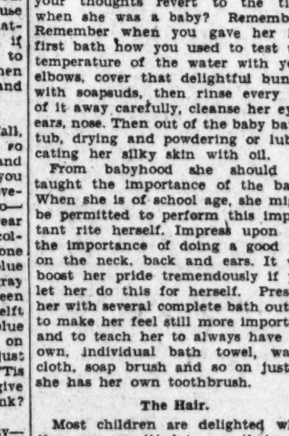
THE BIRTH OF AN EXPERT.

"OF the making of books," Solomon once complained, "there is no end." Happily for this wise ancient, he lived in an age uncomplicated of systems of Contract Bridge or he would have multiplied his claim a thousand times. Persons are given a smattering of knowledge of the subject and then the next reaction is to pass as experts in its exposition.

Mr. Leslie C. Hansel, of Arlington, Mass., finds that he has evolved a system of bidding and play which he modestly describes as unique, if not phenomenal, and gives in proof the hand below. It is perhaps damning with faint praise to say that both the bidding and play, as given by Mr. Hansel, are extraordinary.

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
3NT(1)	Pass	4♣(2)	Pass
6NT(3)	Pass	7NT(4)	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Redbl.(5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) An overbid. Many players would pass with this hand.
(2) An extremely doubtful response.
(3) This bid is justified if the opening bid was.
(4) Equally as sound as all the preceding bids.
(5) If the bidding thus far has been correct, then this is also.

Mr. Hansel stated that South's opening bid had shown a penchant for the unusual and that West passed because he feared a cheap "save" in spades.

The play of the hand was as follows: West opened the club Knave, the fourth best of one of his four-card suits, and when East played the discouraging trey, he decided to continue the suit. Discouraged because his partner had only one more of the suit, West then shifted to the diamond Ace, and followed with the other three diamond honors in sequence. On the last two leads of diamonds, East completed the echo by playing the Ace and King of hearts, and West then led his remaining club honors. He was now in a fearful dilemma as to a lead, but in view of his partner's echo in hearts, decided to lead the Ten. According to Mr. Hansel, this series of plays hopelessly squeezed South, and the result, according to the same veracious chronicler, was North and South—0, East and West—two touchdowns, two home runs and a game.

Somehow, even though the story is told with every indication of careful study and accurate analysis, I can not escape the conviction that Mr. Hansel is spoofing me. There appears to be an air of unreality about the bidding, although the play itself appears to be meticulously accurate. At least it is certain that no players, however skillful, could have taken any more tricks with the cards they held than did East and West on this particular deal, as reported by Mr. Hansel.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

West—Dealer.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Health Habits Best Beauty Start for School Girl.

WELL, mother, she's back in school! Or, perhaps it is her very first experience in the land of the three "r's." Wasn't it a thrill registering her? And didn't your thoughts revert to the time when she was a baby? Remember? Remember when you gave her her first bath how you used to test the temperature of the water with your elbows, cover that delightful bundle with soapsuds, then rinse every bit of it away carefully, cleanse her eyes, ears, nose. Then out of the baby bathtub, drying and powdering or lubricating her silky skin with oil.

From babyhood she should be taught the importance of the bath. When she is of school age, she might be permitted to perform this important rite herself. Impress upon her the importance of doing a good job on the neck, back and ears. It will boost her pride tremendously if you let her do this for herself. Present her with several complete bath outfits to make her feel still more important and to teach her to always have her own, individual bath towel, washcloth, soap brush and so on just as she has her own toothbrush.

The Hair.

Most children are delighted when they are permitted to use their own toothbrush to cleanse their teeth themselves. Of course, your child of school age has been using her toothbrush for many years and properly, no doubt. At an early age the child should also be taught the value of dental floss or tape to remove little particles between the teeth. Never allow your children to use pins or similar sharp instruments for this purpose.

Start when she is 7 to teach her, slowly but surely the proper way to brush her hair and massage the scalp. Take turns. Make an interesting game of it. Brush her hair for her today and let her try it tomorrow until you are quite satisfied that she knows how.

Her Hands.

And her little hands! The precious, chubby, bedimpled fingers should never be dirty or grimy. Teach her to wash them very frequently and dry thoroughly. Give her her own nail brush and an orange stick which she can use at a very early age. Far better to teach her to cleanse the little nails with orange stick than to allow her to dig any sharp instruments under the nails. During the winter months allow her to use a little of your hand lotion, providing it is a very mild, soothing one, to keep the hands from chapping.

Teach her to take pride in general cleanliness and good grooming. Have her guard against and watch for stains on her little dresses, see that her shoes are always shining, that no buttons are missing from her coat.

And above all, of course, teach her the value of living by a healthy routine; water within and without, fresh air, lots of it, exercise in the open, early to bed and early to rise and so on. But you know all that!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BAD TEETH, ANGINA AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

THE following story is well vouched for:

A prominent preacher and educator began about ten years ago to suffer with a pain back of his breast bone and in his heart region. The pain came in attacks. Between these spells he was reasonably comfortable. He was in the hands of very competent heart specialists equipped with apparatus for making electrocardiograms. A diagnosis of angina pectoris in its early stages was made.

As time went on and the spells did not become increasingly disabling some doubt arose as to the correctness of the diagnosis. Finally, principally for other reasons, he had all his teeth removed. It was not so very much of a sacrifice, since the teeth were crippled veterans of many wars and not much good anyway. Not very long after the teeth were lost the chest pain folded up and faded away.

This was several months ago, and the supposed anginal pains have never returned and are almost forgotten.

Every physician can recall one or more stories like this. One is of a man who had diabetes. At any rate, he had glycosuria and a lot of associated troubles. He had his teeth out and his diabetes disappeared.

This is one side of a picture. However, thousands of persons have sacrificed their teeth because of rheumatism, neuritis, pains in the arms and a variety of ills, and thereafter have not been one shade better than they were before. And what makes matters worse, no one can tell which cases will be improved by removal of the teeth and which will not. It is pure gambling, although not so covered by law.

There is another part to the story with which we began. This clergyman and educator has high blood pressure. It ranges all the way from 225 to 160. It has a marked disposition to run the scale from high C to low B, or whatever high and low may be in musical language. The point to be made here is that when a high blood pressure runs the scale, shoots up and drops down, emotion is the major factor and thickening of the arterial walls is a minor.

Perhaps all persons who have high blood pressure should deny themselves the luxury of indulgence in emotions; but, if the high pressure is the result of thickening in the artery wall, emotional calm will not accomplish much. If, however, it is of the scale running type the man who practices optimism, acquiescence, freedom from worry and anxiety, who takes life as it comes, and smiles—such a man is having the best possible treatment for his high blood pressure.

RESTRICTIONS ON DRUGS.

P. C. writes: You state that there are no legal restrictions as to the sale of barbaturic drugs.

In New York City there is a department of health regulation prohibiting the sale of these. They may be dispensed only on a written prescription of a physician, dentist, or veterinary. In spite of this regulation these drugs can be bought in practically any store in the city because no one has to keep records as under the narcotic laws, and therefore there is no means of checking up.

I think Congress ought to pass regulations making the sale of drugs of this kind as prohibitive as narcotics.

DEPENDS ON TROUBLE.

Miss J. V. T. writes: I am a girl 21 and have weak lungs. As my friends intend to go to the beach for the summer swimming, I made arrangements to go with them. Now my mother says I shouldn't go, as swimming is bad for weak lungs. What do you say?

REPLY.

If, by weak lungs you mean that you have consumption you should not go. If you mean something else, possibly your mother would change her mind.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF SEPTEMBER 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3:10 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger hours are from 10 a. m. to noon, and from 4:15 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The energizing influence that urged you forward yesterday will be, according to planetary indications, in continued evidence on September 27, and will enable you to carry on the good work that was started. In the evening, lethargy will replace activity, and relaxation should be sought.

Children born on this September 27 will be vivacious, full of harmless mischief and extremely affectionate. They will be anxious and quick to learn, and excel in studies and sports. As adults, they will reveal qualities of perseverance and their horoscope indicates both success and happiness.

Born on September 27, you are much influenced by emotion, and through your seifless actions reflect great credit on your heart, they never bring grist to the mill. You do not seek popularity, and are more satisfied to have the gratitude of one than the admiration of a crowd. You do not, at any time, play to the gallery, nor do you want the spotlight turned on you.

Your horoscope says that you will go through life helping others more than helping yourself. This, of course, is not productive of material prosperity. Your needs, however, are simple and you have no extravagant or exaggerated tastes. As a friend, you are quixotically loyal. As husband or wife, as the case may be, you are faithful, affectionate and constant.

Without being outwardly religious, you yet possess strong spiritual convictions, and you have never outlived, or discarded, the precepts that were taught you in your childhood.

Successful people born on September 27:

Henry Phipps, manufacturer.
Margaret Elizabeth Sangster, author.
Louis Franklin Swift, packer.
Alexander Proctor, sculptor.
Thomas Nash, caricaturist.
William B. Hazen, Signal Service officer.

YOUNG INSULL GOES ON PARIS VACATION

Associate Says Executive of Utility Needs Holiday With His Parents.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull, jr., son of the former Public Utilities magnate, left Chicago Saturday for Paris to join his parents, it was announced today.

The announcement, made by James Simpson, chairman of the board of Commonwealth Edison Co., of which the junior Insull was vice chairman, came at a time when officials investigating collapse of the Insull investment trusts and holding companies were preparing to call in various officers and their associates for questioning.

Simpson's Statement.

Mr. Simpson's statement read:

"Upon my return from my trip abroad I found that many officials of the companies had been working without rest and under high pressure for many months and I have asked several of them to take vacations. Among them is Samuel Insull, jr. He has been much concerned over the illness of his mother and at my suggestion he is going to Paris to visit her. He left Saturday and will return in November."

Following collapse of the Insull holdings and investment concerns, Samuel Insull was removed as chairman of the boards of the principal operating companies of the system, but Insull, jr., who was vice chairman of many of them, retained his posts.

Meantime the various State and Federal inquiries into operations of the bankrupt investment concerns got under way in earnest.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley ordered subpenas issued for P. J. McEnroe, vice president and director of Insull Investment, Inc., and John F. O'Keefe, secretary of the corporation, to appear in Federal court Thursday for questioning in civil proceedings to recover assets.

Federal Auditors at Work.

District Attorney Dwight Green and Harold Nathan, assistant to the chief of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation in Washington, assigned a corps of Government auditors to start work on a general audit of all Insull firms now in receivership to discover possible violations of Federal statutes.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson announced he will call in officers and directors of the defunct concerns to question them concerning certain transactions his investigations have revealed.

Judge Lindley's action, Federal court attaches said, will open the way for a broad inquiry into management of Insull Investment, Inc., whose present deficit is placed at $226,000,000.

It was in this company's records that a list of 205 privileged investors was found.

Federal Equality Urged by Woman

Both Sexes Should Receive Same Pay for Equal Work, Is Claim.

That women should receive the same consideration as men in the Government service and that there should be no discrimination against married women were recommendations made to the opening session of the preconvention meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Government Employes last night by Mrs. Sophie J. Bergner, second vice president.

Mrs. Bergner's recommendations were made in connection with her report on the response women Federal employes are making to the invitation organized labor is extending through the organization to seek measures conducive to their interests.

"Women should receive the same salaries as men for equal work," declared Mrs. Bergner, "and they should also compete in the Government service on an equal footing with men, both with respect to appointments and with respect to promotions. It is a well known fact that many women in the Government service today are receiving lower salaries than the men for the same class of work, and often where it is apparent that the women are the better qualified."

Gas Ends Life of Author Of "Three Faces East"

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The body of Anthony Paul Kelly, playwright, was found today in his furnished room on the upper West Side. By his own confession he had inhaled gas because of poor health. He was 35 years old.

Kelly plugged the cracks of the doors and windows and wrote notes to the landlord and police before he ended his life yesterday. He left $47 to cover expenses caused by his act and requested that his relatives be notified, among them two brothers, Charles T. and Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago. Kelly was the author of "Three Faces East," a hit on Broadway ten years ago, and "The Battle Royal."

McKee Opposes R.F.C. Loan to Build Bridge

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Mayor Joseph V. McKee today expressed himself as opposed to asking the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for aid in the financing of the Triborough Bridge to link Manhattan, Queens and the Bronx, and other municipal purposes.

The mayor said that every business man knows that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was organized for an emergency in business difficulties and that it is not a normal source of credit, and he did "not want to make it appear to the people of the United States that the City of New York is confessing bankruptcy."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is Hubbard Keavy, whom, of course, you know as head man of our West Coast finger-in-the-wind department, who relays the story of why Ralph Morgan still gets red in the face when anyone reminds him of the joke Norma Shearer played on him during the filming of "Strange Interlude," the camera version of Eugene O'Neill's first outsize drama, now being presented as a road show attraction at the National Theater.

Norma Shearer.

As a "build-up," Robert Z. Leonard, the director, asked Miss Shearer and Clark Gable in Morgan's presence if they had taken their new voice test. They had, but Morgan, who plays "good old Charlie" in the picture, said he had not, but would be glad to.

So Leonard told him to stand under the microphone and say, "What am I doing here?" six times, using a different inflection each time.

Cast and crew gathered around to listen. The instant Morgan finished the fictitious test, Miss Shearer's voice came through a large reproducing horn, saying sweetly:

"You're just making a fool of yourself!"

And a pleasant time was had by all—but one.

Ralph Morgan, by the way, although under contract on the West Coast since last September, had his first important part in the O'Neill drama. The role of Charlie Marsden is the same he had in the stage production of the play for a short time in New York, in London and for several months on the road. The excellence of his screen performance won him an important assignment in "Rasputin," the forthcoming vehicle for all the Barrymores.

Morgan gives the impression of being English, although he is an American, born in New York. His parents wished him to become a lawyer and he did, briefly, after graduating from Columbia. He labored for a year at his profession and then gave it up because he was not making enough of what it takes!

He credits the Bennett girls' father, Richard, with teaching him practically everything valuable he knows about acting. His first year in stock, reputed to have been some 21 years ago, was with Bennett, pere, in Richmond, Va.

Comes then to hand a new volume of biographies from Paramount containing brief sketches—and some of them not so brief—of some 46 stellar and featured players, and a few directors, who find themselves contributing to the 1932-33 Paramount product. A welcome and a helpful book. Now, if there is any one you'd like to know about——

Also a friendly note from Edmund Lowe, dropped into the mail chute in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Saturday, adding a little to what he had already said about what a dandy time he had during his week here at Loew's Fox. Nice boy, Eddie, and Lilyan Tashman, the Missus, wanted to be remembered to you, too.

If Max Gordon takes it into his head to refer to his production of "The Cat and the Fiddle" as a "million dollar hit," there seems to be nothing that can be done about it.

This Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach musical love story closed its run in New York last Saturday night in order to tour the major cities of the road, with Washington, D. C., and the National Theater its resting place the week of October 30. The million dollar part comes in by virtue of a letter written by Judge Mitchell Erlanger, president of Erlanger Productions, Inc., to Eddie Sobol, company manager, which was, in part, as follows:

"My auditors have called my attention to the fact that Max Gordon's 'The Cat and the Fiddle' has passed a million dollars gross, for the 52 weeks ending September 17, 1932, the correct figures being $1,005,907.65.

"This is a remarkable showing considering that your attraction has been run on depression prices."

You said it, Your Honor! And you might also have said that "The Cat" captured the honor of having the longest run of any musical in New York this past season—or did you?

Glen Echo Park, the only summer amusement resort in this vicinity that had the temerity to remain open after Labor Day, has been getting a great break in the weather these perfect early fall week-end days we've been having. The sunshiny hours are perfect for the Crystal Pool and the breezy rides, and the cool evenings are ditto for the ballroom, where MacWilliams and his band are carrying on in midsummer form from 8:30 to 11:30 nightly. Last night's free doings for the femmes packed the place, I shouldn't wonder!

Mrs. Harriet Hawley Locher, for many years director of the Public Service and Educational Department of the Crandall theaters—now the Warner Brothers' holding in Washington and vicinity—yesterday assumed the duties of director of the Department of Schools and Colleges on the publicity staff of the Pantheon de la Guerre, the mammoth panorama of the World War now being exhibited in the Panorama Building, New Jersey avenue and C street northwest. Mrs. Locher's contacts, in addition to schools and colleges, will embrace clubs, civic organizations and churches, a field in which she has had wide and useful experience.

Ann Dvorak, who will be seen on the Earle screen in "Crooner" next week, for the first time since "The Love Racket," may not have been entirely in the wrong when she took French leave from the Warner Brothers' studios and departed for Europe with Leslie Fenton, her husband. Miss Dvorak's contention is that she was entitled to a vacation, no matter how she got it! This view is based on the further claim that no star or featured player can equal her record of five feature pictures in five months. As Bill Hay would say, here they are: "The Crowd Roars," with James Cagney; "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain," with Leslie Fenton and Lee Tracy; "The Love Racket," with Doug Fairbanks, jr.; "Stranger in Town," with David Manners, and now "Crooner," also with the ingratiating Mr. Manners.

The Warner boys' defense, I presume, is that she asked for work when she came there!

And speaking of fives—as who isn't these days?—Mary Astor, so Mr. La Falce tells me, was chosen as leading woman for George Arliss in "A Successful Calamity," next week's attraction at the Metropolitan, after five other actresses had been tested for the role and eased off the lot through the side gate. The picture you will recognize, of course, as a sprightly adaptation of the stage play of the same name by Klare Kummer.

Borah Minevitch and His Rascals are making applause history at Loew's Fox this week. During the four days ending with close of business last night, I am reliably informed, they have stopped the show six times. That is to say that six times out of the sixteen the harmonica band has performed to date, the applause has been so great after the ostensibly final encore that the motion picture screen has had to be hauled up into the flies again, the feature picture cut off and the boys brought back on the stage for another number.

This is a fine tribute to Minevitch, but the management is wondering how about that overtime which, so far, has run as high as 27 minutes a performance—serious business at the end of a day.

Harmonicatastrophes like that can we afford to pay for? they are probably asking themselves. Or don't you suppose?

FEUD OF RIVAL RUNNERS SEEN IN MARYLAND HIJACKING CASE

Federal prohibition officers from Baltimore, Md., visited police headquarters here yesterday afternoon and spent several hours going over files and photographs in an effort to identify any of the alleged hijackers. They refused to comment on the outcome of their visit.

The first seizure, made on information emanating from the Washington headquarters, was made early Friday. Agents from the Waldorf office lay in wait beside Solomons Island road during the night, and at 4 a. m. seized a truck loaded with about 250 cases of valuable liquor and wines. This truck was sent to Baltimore without difficulty.

Learning that an estate at Drum Point might have been connected with the whisky, Agent J. R. Brewer led his men there Saturday. About the estate they found about 250 more cases, and telephoned to Baltimore for another truck. A light vehicle, in bad repair, which had been seized in southern Maryland previously, was sent down, loaded with the new seizure, and started back to Baltimore. At Prince Frederick Brewer and his men turned off to the Waldorf ferry, leaving the truck guarded by six men from the Baltimore office.

Force Is Insufficient.

These guards, however, were insufficient to protect the load of liquor from fourteen men in three cars, who recaptured the whisky and four of the agents a few miles up the road. Whisky, hijackers and agents then turned down the road to the Benedict ferry, following Brewer and his men. The truck overturned within a short distance, and the hijackers fled, after caching the whisky and binding their captive agents. The liquor was recovered and the agents released by reinforcements from Baltimore, summoned by two of the guards who escaped.

Word of the capture of the liquor at the estate got out by accident, so that the hijackers had time to mobilize their forces. The two men captured at the house were held incommunicado at the Marlboro Jail, while the two arrested on the truck were released on bond. These two, however, were told by a well-meaning official that the men at the house had been arrested. The hijacking followed.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Carter, who was arraigned before J. Frank Supplee, United States commissioner in Baltimore, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, interference with Federal officers in line of duty, and rescuing or causing to be rescued 153 cases of whisky which had been seized by the investigators under a search warrant. The maximum penalty under the law is ten years in the penitentiary.

At the time of his arraignment, Carter pleaded not guilty. He will be remanded to jail in default of bond.

After the not-guilty plea was entered, A. Risley Ensor, assistant United States district attorney, recommended bail be set at $40,000.

"This is one of the most serious cases ever brought to our office," Mr. Ensor told Commissioner Supplee. "It was an open attempt to thwart the officers of the Government in performance of their duty. These officers were held up with machine guns and forced to relinquish property which had been legally seized under the search warrant. It was the use of Chicago gangster methods in Maryland, and we want to be sure the man will be here to stand trial," the assistant prosecutor declared.

Commissioner Supplee said he thought $30,000 was a reasonable bail for the offense, and pointed out that John A. Williamson and John S. Bell, two of the investigators concerned, had both under oath identified Carter as one of the men in the gang of fourteen who participated in the hijacking.

At the time of the raid on the mansion, Brewer arrested George Stinnett and his son, Dorsey Stinnett, on charges of possession of liquor. Two other men, Joseph Rosso and Anthony Duerr, were also arrested by Brewer when the first truck was captured.

Chest Drive Plans Fast Taking Shape

Encouraging Reports on Organization Given by Unit Heads.

Encouraging reports in regard to organization for the coming Community Chest campaign were submitted to Chairman Newbold Noyes by the various unit chairmen at a meeting of the campaign committee yesterday.

The drive this year is divided into four units, the metropolitan unit, headed by H. L. Rust, jr.; the group solicitation unit, in charge of Lloyd B. Wilson; the special gifts unit, led by Clarence A. Aspinwall, and the governmental unit, headed by former Gov. Thomas E. Campbell.

The governmental unit, it was learned, is "ready to go" while the other three expect to be ready in a few days. The campaign committee will meet every Monday and Arthur Hellen, chairman of the meetings committee, will have charge of arranging details of the report meetings.

Federal Agents State They Took Spurious Money From 3 Suspects.

Varilios Lillas (alias Bill Hillas), Tom Mekalis and Evelyn Davis, arrested Sunday in Fredericksburg on a charge of passing counterfeit money, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John Barton Phillips, in Alexandria, yesterday, and, upon request of John Q. Slye and Capt. John N. Brooks, U. S. secret service operatives, the hearing was continued until Thursday to permit the officers to procure additional evidence. The complaint against the trio was signed by Operative Slye, and the arrest was made by the chief of police of Fredericksburg.

S. A. Wilkerson, of Accotink, Va., and C. E. Francis, of Petland, near Accotink, testified that the men had passed $10 notes in their places of business, purchasing coffee, sandwiches and cigarettes and receiving change, and they identified the notes, which had been pronounced spurious.

The secret service men placed in evidence 20 alleged counterfeit $10 notes, $262 in small bills alleged to have been received in change for the counterfeits, and $22.22 in change, all of which, they stated, had been taken from the prisoners upon their arrest in Fredericksburg.

All three pleaded not guilty, and Charles Henry Smith, attorney, for the defense, asked that Miss Davis be released, since, he claimed, there had been no evidence submitted to connect her with the alleged crime, other than the fact that she accompanied the men.

The secret service men, however, requested more time in which to accumulate evidence, and all three defendants were held in default of $10,000 bond each.

Arlington Board Hears Zone Change Advocates

The Arlington County board in special session last night at the courthouse received recommendations and a number of suggestions for changes in the present zoning ordinance.

Frank G. Campbell pointed out the need for the proper filling of the many marsh sections within the county and suggested changes in the zoning ordinance whereby by proper supervision by the county authorities they could be filled and remove many undesirable sections of the county.

Hotel's Cash Drawer Forced; $192 Stolen

Theft of $192 from a cash drawer in the office of the Wardman Park Hotel was reported to police yesterday by Oliver W. Burgess, night clerk.

Burgess said the drawer was forced open and the money taken after 3:30 a. m. yesterday. The office was unoccupied at the time, he said.

Hyattsville Defers Phone Rate Action

Chamber Awaits Results of State Inquiry Into Company Situation.

Action by the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce on a reduction in telephone rates in Prince Georges County will be postponed until the Maryland Public Service Commission has finished its study of the rate situation, the chamber decided last night at its first meeting of the fall.

The chamber also decided to appoint a special committee to investigate a report that woman workers in a laundry in the county were being paid only $8 for a 70-hour week.

The members voted against a proposal that necessary street railway extensions be financed by assessments against benefiting property owners when the railway was unable to finance the extensions. This was part of a poll being taken by the national chamber on mass transportation problems. In the same poll the Hyattsville chamber voted in favor of preventing unfair competition, lower rates during slack periods, regulatfon of taxicab rates and the use of meters, and relief for transportation utilities from special taxes and paving requirements.

Montgomery County's Democrats Pick Perry

Thomas W. Perry, of Chevy Chase, Md., was elected chairman of the Democratic State central committee for Montgomery County yesterday at a meeting of the committee in Rockville. Miss Ruth E. Shoemaker, of Bethesda, was elected secretary., Z. M. Waters, of Rockville, remains treasurer.

Berry E. Clark presented his resignation as chairman of the committee. The resignation was accepted and the election followed. The committtee discussed dates and places for meetings in the campaign, but no announcement was made as to when the meetings are to be held, except for the State-wide meeting which is to be held October 14.

Hog Farm Applications Heard by Fairfax Board

The semimonthly meeting of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors was held yesterday in the courthouse at Fairfax. Public hearings were held on a number of applications for permits to establish commercial hog farms in the county.

The members discussed the tentative classifications of the former county roads, now part of the new State secondary highway system. It was voted to attend the public hearing on the tentative classifications, which will be held Thursday in the courthouse at Orange Va., by the State Highway Commission.

Dryden Man Clear on Rum Charge.

Lee McKay, of Dryden, Md., was yesterday freed on charges of manufacture, possession, possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor, and maintaining a nuisance after a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro. McKay was arrested after Federal agents found a still on his property, but Commissioner Parran held there was no evidence to show that McKay was operating the still.

Hoover-Curtis Club to Meet.

The recently organized Hoover-Curtis Club in Lyon Park precinct will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Magrum. Mrs. Frances A. Harris, president of the League of Republican Women of Arlington County, will speak.

Dahlia Show Ready For Opening Today

The Washington Post to Award Trophy at Carlton Hotel.

The fall dahlia show sponsored by the National Capital Dahlia and Iris Society will open at the Carlton Hotel this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will continue through tomorrow. The show will be open to the public today from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., and tomorrow from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. There will be an admission charge of 25 cents.

One of the many features of the show will be a popularity contest trophy offered by The Washington Post for the best basket of dahlias to be decided by popular vote.

The main feature of the show today will be a lecture by Warren W. Maytrott, of Vineland, N. J., on the breeding and growing of dahlias. Mr. Maytrott is recognized as one of the world's best authorities in the production of dahlias for both commercial and exhibition purposes.

VENIZELOS WINNER IN GREEK ELECTION

Nationalists Lead Royalists of Tsoldaris in Voting for Parliament.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Neutral political observers tonight said there appeared to be no doubt that Premier Eleutherios C. Venizelos had won a decisive victory over the Royalists of P. E. Tsaldaris in Sunday's parliamentary election.

Their opinion was based on tentative returns that continued to show Venizelos candidates under the Republican banners of Liberal Nationalism in the lead.

It also was evident that the election contest had turned into a duel between Venizelos and Tsaldaris, and that other parties, such as the Progressivists and the Agrarians, seem to have been almost annihilated.

"Hour for Reconciliation."

The Eleutheron Boma, the Venizelos organ, remarked on the results of the balloting thus:

"What we must now try to do is to settle the question of the form of government of Greece definitely. We must consolidate internal tranquillity and lay the foundation for future progress.

"In the republic's action there will be nothing hostile against the sections which composed the last forces of the monarchist front. The hour for reconciliation has come. It will be imposed on a basis of the people's will.

"Let us hope the Populist (Royalist) party will submit without discussion."

Attacked Royal Family.

Official returns on the election of the lower house of the Grecian Parliament and one-third of the Senate on Sunday will not be known for three more days because of the several counts necessary under the proportional representation system that obtains in Greece.

In the last election of a lower chamber in 1928 Venizelos won 228 out of the 250 seats filled. The preelection duel between Venizelos and Tsaldaris came to a climax early in the month when the premier attacked former members of the royal family and Tsaldaris demanded his removal on the ground that he was treating with military groups. The premier promptly submitted his resignation, but was persuaded to remain at the helm by President Alexander Zaimis until the election.

Red Cross Renews Call For Sewing Volunteers

Thousands of yards of material to be made into clothing for the District's unemployed recently have been received at the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross, but there is a great need for additional volunteer workers to do the cutting, assembling and sewing.

It was announced yesterday that a night class will be formed Friday from 7 to 10 p. m. to assist in the making of these garments. Any assistance that can be given during the day also will be greatly appreciated.

Washington-Lee High Begins Night Classes

Night classes at Washington Lee High School opened last night with an approximate enrollment of 100 students. Classes will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 7 to 10 o'clock, with one hour for each subject. The tuition will be $10 per semester, with a deposit of $2 for books, which will be returned at the end of the term.

Classes will be in English, mathematics, history, government, science, Spanish, bookkeeping, short-hand, typewriting. Other courses will be given if the enrollment warrants.

MOB FOILED AS 25 MINERS ARE FREED

Men Seized in Springfield's Fatal Riot Spirited Away From Jail.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—While a threatening mob of striking coal miners were held in check by police in the streets outside, 25 officials and organizers of the United Mine Workers of America were released on bond today from the City Jail, where they had been held on charges of inciting to riot.

The officials and organizers were arrested yesterday after a battle in which a police officer was shot and killed and a score of persons injured, two critically. With about 50 others they had attended a meeting at which the strikers were urged to return to work under a wage scale reduced from $6.10 to $5.

As fast as they were released on bonds of $500 each, the union representatives were taken away under police guard in taxicabs from a rear door of the jail. A mob of 300 miners waited across the street, but did not see the prisoners being released until the last taxicab sped away.

Among those released was William J. Sneed, former State senator and an official of the United Mine Workers. Sneed said no further meetings will be held "until the situation changes."

"Peace of the community is most to be considered," Sneed said. "'I am still of the opinion that four out of five miners want to return to work. They tell us so in their homes, but they are afraid to attend meetings."

Critically wounded from two knife wounds in the back, Garnett H. Smith, president of the United Mine Workers at Herrin, Ill., was under guard in a hospital tonight charged with murder. The warrant charging him with the offense was sworn out by a brother of Detective Sergeant William Porter, the man killed.

Yankees Work Out in Wraps; Ticket Sale Is Lagging.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—They nailed the bunting to the front of hundreds of sun-lit boxes in the Yankee Stadium today, broke out the flags and tuned up the bands, for the world series show is back on Broadway again after a lapse of three years.

Down on the playing field of the big American League ball park, the championship Yankees frolicked through the first of two workouts that will fit them for the invasion of the Chicago Cubs and the start of baseball's annual fall hysteria Wednesday.

Ruth, Gehrig Don Rubber Shirts.

There was Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, in rubber shirts, their jaws champing busily on a fine brand of rough cut, whanging baseballs into the vacant reaches of the right-field bleachers where, starting at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, the frantic faithful will rise and scream for a similar feat each time one of them comes to bat.

As big "Red" Ruffing, the people's choice to face Guy Bush, of the Cubs, in the opening game, joined left-handed Ed Wells, Danny MacFayden and Charley Devins pitching for the Yankees, the big and little sluggers, all in a gay mood, rattled the fences with line drives.

Echoes of these smashes, the shrill banter of the hitters, rang through the hollow park in tune to the hammers of the carpenters. The workmen paused to work each rousing clout into their own arguments. They like the Yankees.

Around the town the excitement and allure of the big series cropped out in the usual places. At the bleacher entrance the solitary wait of Bill Cunningham, from Kansas City, already in line several days for the annual honor of being No. 1 into the far-flung stands Wednesday, was broken by the appearance of Ruth himself to autograph a ball for the most persistent patron of the series.

While the Yankee business offices were crowded with purchasers, the rush for tickets fell far below that of the three-year reign of the Yankees from 1926 through 1928, when a single strip of tickets, covering three games, was no harder to get than an audience with royalty.

Plenty of Seats for Games In New York.

This year there will be plenty of seats for the New York games for everyone. Prospects now are for crowds here ranging from no higher than 50,000 for the opening game down to 40,000 or so thereafter. Apparently the interest is there, as great as ever, but the $16.50 asked for a single reserved seat for the three home games stretches just a bit beyond the reach of many of the old guard. Most of them will join the bleacher line Wednesday morning, when the $1.10 seats go on sale with the $3.30 unreserved grand stand seats.

Stadium capacity now is about 69,000. The world series single game record of 63,600 was set here in 1926.

A fresh injection of enthusiasm is due tomorrow with the arrival at 10 a. m. of the Cubs, racing eastward with the cheers and pleas of Chicago's faithful bolstering them against the might of the Yankee siege guns, and the sharpshooting of Ruffing and Lefty Gomez, the latter the logical choice to pitch the second game for the Yankees against either Charley Root or Young Lon Warneke.

The Yankees will turn their ball yard over to the Cubs after finishing their own morning workout tomorrow, giving the National League champions their first opportunity, about noon, to test the sod and clout for the distant bleachers of one of baseball's finest stadiums.

Cub Southpaw Hitters to Aim for Stands.

While the peering experts watch every motion, the three left-handed Cub regulars, manager Charlie Grimm, Mark Koenig and Young Johnny Moore, will try for the distance Ruth, Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Earle Combs and Joe Sewell get on their soaring drives into "Ruthville," a section of the right field stands. Koenig, an old Yankee, knows the system well, but the problem is new to Grimm and Moore.

Club Given Rousing Send-Off; Cheered Along Route.

Manager Is Confident of Victory; Koenig Will Start.

ABOARD Cub Special, Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—To the tune of cheering thousands at Chicago and along the route, Charlie Grimm's Cubs steamed toward New York and their big world series adventure tonight.

Despite a dreary, rainy blue Monday more than 1,000 fans jammed the Union Station to give the team a noisy send-off at noon, while en route across Indiana groups of fans gathered at almost every station to cheer the champions.

All in Happy, Cheerful Mood.

In direct contrast to the dreary weather, every one seemed happy and cheerful on the Cub special as it rolled along. Manager Charlie Grimm and President William L. Veeck headed the party of 74, including 27 players and coaches, and promised anything but a pleasant welcome for the Yankees in the opening world series battle at New York Wednesday.

"Every man is in shape and we hope to nab the first two games in New York and finish it right at Wrigley Field," Manager Grimm said. "We aren't afraid of the Yankee batting attack, and are convinced our pitchers can stop em. We're underdogs in this fight and I'm glad of that. We'll fight that much harder to win."

Grimm said he planned to send his regular line-up against the Yanks in the opening game with Guy Bush and Leo ("Gabby") Hartnett as the battery and Mark Koenig at shortstop.

As soon as the train left Chicago, most of the players settled back to bridge, poker and heart games, although Burleigh Grimes and Charlie Root went in for ping-pong and were targets of an old-fashioned razzing. "Woody" English, the bridge expert of the team along with Riggs Stephenson, also promoted a laugh by sitting on a photographer's flashlight bulb.

Bush Hoping for Hot Day.

Guy Bush spent most of his time smoking cigars and wishing for a hot day when he pitches the opener.

"Ah sure hope it's a hot day Wednesday," Bush drawled in his best Mississippi accent.

Wives of twelve players accompanied the party, Mrs. Grimm presenting each one with a sewing kit; when Mr. Grimm invaded the party, he was cornered and escaped a rough hair cut by quick base running.

The Cub special is scheduled to arrive in New York at 10 a. m. Eastern standard time. After getting located and some lunch the players will go to Yankee Stadium for a workout.

Newark Choice to Win Little World Series

Newark, N. J., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The Newark Bears and the Minneapolis Millers, champions of the International League and the American Association, respectively, were ready tonight to swing into baseball's second biggest attraction, the little world series.

With the opening game scheduled for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Newark wound up its training. Minneapolis arrives here tomorrow morning.

It will be the first little world series for both clubs.

The Bears, owned by Col. Jacob Ruppert—perhaps better known for his New York Yankees—will be favored to win the series, which after three games here, will move to Minneapolis. They will match youth, strength and speed against a more experienced, longer hitting and slower Miller combination.

Foxx, Klein Picked As Most Valuable

Monte Weaver Is Fifth in American, Newspaper Poll Shows.

St. Louis, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The Sporting News today announced its selection of Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder of the Phillies, and Jimmy Foxx, the Athletics' new homerun king, as the most valuable players in the major leagues for 1932.

It was Klein's second straight selection in the National League, the first for Foxx in the American. Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, who was chosen the most valuable in the American last season, was runner-up to Foxx for the honor this year. Both are first basemen.

Foxx was given a total of 56 points out of a possible 88. Klein received 46 points, barely beating out Lefty O'Doul, of Brooklyn, with 40. Following are the leaders in each league as designated by the Sporting News:

National—Chuck Klein, Philadelphia, 46; Lefty O'Doul, Brooklyn, 40; Pio Traynor, Pittsburgh, 91; Bill Terry, New York, 19; Lon Warneke, Chicago, 16.

American—Jimmie Foxx, Philadelphia, 56; Lou Gehrig, New York, 47; Earl Averill, Cleveland, 29; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, 20; Monte Weaver, Washington, 19.

CHATTANOOGA GAME OFF.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 26 (A.P.). The fifth game of the Dixie series, between the Chattanooga Lookouts and the Beaumont Exporters, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed until Tuesday because of rain.

Helen Hicks' 89 Fails to Qualify

Defending Champion Off Her Game in Women's Golf.

Maureen Orcutt and Virginia Van Wie Tie for Medal.

By BILL KING.

PEABODY, Mass., Sept. 26 (A.P.). The qualifying round, which has humiliated so many men champions, today was too much for Helen Hicks, the 21-year-old Long Island girl who upset the golf world a year ago by defeating the great Glenna Collett Vare for the women's national title.

Weighed down by her crown, she suffered the first attack of nerves in her competitive career when she started over the Salem Country Club course. Her first drive was hooked out of bounds, and she went from bad to worse, finally ending up with an 89, which was twelve over par and one stroke higher than the qualifying deadline.

Her failure made history for women's national golf, as she became the first defending champion in 36 tournaments to falter during the opening round.

Misses Orcutt, Van Wie Tie With 77's.

Another historic touch was added when Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., and Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, an unsuccessful semifinalist last year, finished in a first-place deadlock with par 77's. This low score has been equaled only twice before, by Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, in 1925, and by Ada MacKenzie, former Canadian champion and one of today's qualifiers, two years later.

Enid Wilson, the British champion and the most feared player in the starting field of 95, finished two strokes behind the deadlocked pair with an easy 79. She missed at least five putts of less than 3 feet as she played without exertion or mental strain.

A stroke behind the English girl came Mrs. Vare, who has won the title five times in the past ten years. She left a sick bed to start the attempt to regain the title stripped from her by Miss Hicks.

The great Glenna was stricken with a tonsilitis attack on Saturday and yesterday her physician was on the point of ordering her to withdraw. She was in poor condition when she arrived at the first tee, but she played splendid golf, especially with her iron, to score an 80 and qualify in the national play for the fourteenth time.

Three-time Net Champion Qualifies.

Dorothy Richards, from nearby Weston, put together an 81 to get into tomorrow's match play and a stroke behind her came Mary K. Browne, of Willoughby, Ohio, who held the national tennis championship three times before turning to competitive golf.

Four were bunched with 83's, Jane Brooks, of Sparkill, N. Y.; Jane Armstrong, of Winnetka, Ill.; Lucille Robinson, of Des Moines, and Rosalie Knapp, of Glenhead, N. Y. Three more were a stroke inside of 85: Dorothy Hunter, 19-year-old Weston girl; Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, the Western titlist, and Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo.

To facilitate the numerical draw used for tomorrow's match play, the tied medalists were forced to engage in sudden death play to determine the top ranking. Miss Orcutt and Miss Van Wie halved their first two, extra holes with fives and the New Jersey girl was placed at the head of the draw when she took a five to Miss Van Wie's six on the third.

Mrs. Meckley First D. C. Qualifier Since 1908

Special to The Washington Post.

Peabody, Mass., Sept. 26.—By qualifying in the national women's golf tournament with an 88, Mrs. Betty Meckley, of Washington, representating the Indian Spring Golf Club, today became the first District entry since 1908 to be a contestant in the opening round of match scheduled tomorrow. Twenty-four years ago, it is recalled, the former Mary McCain qualified in the national competition.

Mrs. Meckley, who has been twice champion of the District, shot a 43 for the first nine, and came home in 45 to barely get in the select circle of 32.

Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Columbia Country Club, Middle Atlantic champion, failed to make the grade. Mrs. Haynes had 45—45—90. Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, of Elkridge, Md., shot a 91, having a 44 on the first nine.

In the first round of match play tomorrow Mrs. Meckley meets one of the tourney favorites, Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS

(Associated Press.)

ROUND ONE—Walker, paying no attention to the size of the German, jumped right into him with two left hooks to the body and a short left to the side. Moving slowly and carefully, Schmeling banged Walker's body in a clinch and as they pulled away Max ripped into Walker with both hands, smashing his right to the head, shaking the little Irishman with a volley of whistling hooks to the jaw. Mickey shook his head, held for a moment, then whaled back in again with a thudding hook to the body Schmeling claimed was low. Walker rolled away from a right-hand smash and ripped his left to his chin. Schmeling floored Walker with a right to the chin for a count of six, the bell ending the round, stopping the motion of the timekeeper's arm. Mickey went to his corner unassisted and seemed not badly hurt.

ROUND TWO—Cooly and with great care Schmeling followed the dancing Irishman, watching for a chance to land his right. Mickey slapped Schmeling on the chin with a right and belted his body in close quarters. A right flush to the chin staggered Walker. The little fellow with the pug dog features fought back gamely, but again Max nailed him with three straight rights. Walker was wobbly, badly hurt, but he flung himself on the big German, belting away at Schmeling's body. Max ripped back with a half dozen uppercuts in close. As they pulled away, Max whaled three more rights at Walker's head, but Mickey shook them off and stormed back to close quarters. He pinned Schmeling on the ropes and was hammering his head and body in a great rally that set the crowd in an uproar as the bell sounded.

ROUND THREE—The swarthy faced German with the high cheek bones and beetling bronze of an Indian dancer, walked slowly out to pin Walker's arms as Mickey rushed to close quarters. Walker bounced a left hook off the careful Teuton's chin, but took another sharp right on the jaw. They clipped each other's body at close quarters and Walker dropped a short right on Schmeling's chin as they pulled away. Walker leaped in with a left hook to the head and again they slugged at close quarters, where Mickey's experience gave him a decided advantage. The little fellow nailed Schmeling's chin with a perfectly timed uppercut and swarmed in on him again, drilling to the body. Max tried to catch Walker with his right as the Irishman tore in but it landed hard on Mickey's temple. They were pumping away at the bell.

ROUND FOUR—Frantically, Doc Kearns in Walker's corner pleaded with Mickey to continue his fight at close quarters. Mickey promptly dug a left hook in Schmeling's body and caught a hard right on the chin. As Walker bounded in again Schmeling met him with a sharp left hook to the jaw, but Mickey sneaked over both hands to the head in close. They locked heads and swung fists to the body. Gaining momentum with every charge, Walker shook off two smashing rights to the head to hammer Schmeling across the ring as the crowd roared at his brave stand. He had the Teuton slightly befuddled as he danced around him and suddenly whipped into close quarters with his sharp left hooks to the body. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND FIVE—Schmeling was wild with a left hook and Mickey slipped in close to nail him with a right uppercut. Walker nearly floored Schmeling with a left hook to the body that echoed all over the arena. Schmeling bent in pain, as Walker ripped him around the ring, flailing at the German's head and sides with both hands. Max covered desperately, his arms wrapped around his head, but he finally fought Walker back in a torrid head-to-head slugfest that set the crowd to howling. Mickey sank another left hook deep into Schmeling's body and shot the German's head back with a left hook. As Mickey shot home another left hook Schmeling knocked his mouthpiece from between his teeth with a right-hand smash to the jaw. Walker took another hard right to the head at the bell.

ROUND SIX—The crowd roared at Walker's grand comeback as they met in the ring and thumped to the body. Schmeling became more aggressive and shot his right to Walker's head as Mickey landed a left hook to the chin. A short right opened a gash in Walker's upper lip, but he brushed

ALEXANDRIA FIGHT ENDS IN DRAW

De Angelo-Schwartz Even in Feature at Portner's.

By DAVE HERMAN.

FRANKIE DE ANGELO still is a good fighter, but not good enough to defeat Benny Schwartz.

The courageous little Italian's attempt to decision Baltimore's sturdy bantamweight flash after a year's absence from the ring brought him a draw last night in the eight-round feature of the opening boxing program of the season sponsored by the Alexandria Day Nursery at Portner's Arena. One thousand attended.

Opinion among the three officials on the outcome of the fight was divided. George King, one of the judges, cast his vote for De Angelo. The other, Denny Hughes, called it a draw. Charley Short, nationally known referee, the third man in the ring, whose boxing judgment is as good as that of the next expert's, favored Schwartz by a wide margin. Charlie gave Benny five rounds, Frankie two and called the other even. Charlie knows his business.

DeAngelo Sluggish At Start.

De Angelo appeared sluggish at the start. Schwartz, relying on a wicked left, used it to good advantage in the early rounds and went after the Italian boy carefully. Benny looked the victor in the first three, and they punched on even terms in the fourth. Covering up nicely and jabbing with every opening, Benny took the fifth. Into the sixth and seventh were crowded the thrills of the match. Here Frankie showed a flash of his old-time self, peppered Benny with stinging punches, and easily won the two rounds. The crowd was in an uproar in the seventh when Frankie waded into Schwartz and jarred him with a barrage of rights. Benny braced to hold his own in the final beat.

The fight card as a whole was very good. In the semiwindup or six rounds, Roddy Davis, local battler, easily whipped Bob Kid Cosden, of Cardova, Md. Billy Essinger slugged his way to a unanimous six-round decision over Young Raspi, of Baltimore.

Raspi had to have three stitches taken in a cut under his left eye. Cocky Tommy Horn, of Baltimore, who yelled for action at the start, told Referee Short he was "all in" in the third round of his bout with Doug Swetman, and Charlie promptly raised the Washington boy's hand in victory. Tony Ross, of Baltimore, opened the card with a victory over Benny Toothman in a four-round match that saw two tough boys battle hammer and tongs throughout.

National Names Klem, Magerkurth Umpires

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—William J. Klem, veteran National League umpire, today was selected to officiate in his sixteenth world series since 1908—a record for umpires in major league baseball. It also is the second successive year that Klem has been picked by President John Heydler as one of the officials.

George M. Magerkurth, new to world series officiating, was the other umpire named by President Heydler to work with the two American League officials. Magerkurth joined the National League staff in 1929 following several successful seasons in the International League.

The American League has assigned William Dinneen, dean of its working staff, and Roy Van Graflan.

MAX'S PURSE IS ORDERED WITHHELD

Court Action Taken as Result of Suit by Carnera.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The Madison Square Garden Boxing Club was temporarily restrained by a Supreme Court order today from paying Max Schmeling a $150,000 guarantee for his fight tonight with Mickey Walker.

The court's action was taken on the application of counsel for Primo Carnero, who is suing Schmeling for $100,000 for failing to keep a contract to box the Italian in September, 1931.

It was explained the court's action would not interfere with the staging of the fight tonight.

Released by Ring Body, Schmeling Claims.

Schmeling claims to have been released from his contract to fight Carnera by the boxing commission because of an injured hand.

Alfred E. Herz, attorney for Carnera, told the court he had been seeking for some time to attach property of Schmeling without success. He said he learned this morning the Madison Square Garden Boxing Club deposited $150,000 with the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co. several days ago as a guarantee to Schmeling that they would pay him 42½ per cent of the receipts for his match with Walker.

He said the funds were suddenly transferred to the Trust Co. of New Jersey in Jersey City and asked for an injunction to restrain Madison Square Garden officials from certifying payment to Schmeling. Justice Bernard L. Shientag granted the motion and ordered the Madison Square Garden Boxing Club to show cause on September 30 why the injunction should not be continued.

Justice Shientag recently ordered Schmeling to appear for examination on September 28 as to his defense of Carnera's action. The court also imposed a $250 fine for his failure to appear for cross examination on August 4, last.

Decision also is pending on Carnera's application to enter a judgment for $100,000 against Schmeling immediately if he fails to appear on September 28 or if the nature of his testimony is unsatisfactory. If Schmeling appears and testifies fully the $250 fine will be remitted and Carnera's action will have to be tried by a jury.

Killefer, Browns' Pilot, Hurt in Auto Mishap

Butler, Pa., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Bill Killefer, manager of the St. Louis Browns, was severely injured today in a motor accident a half mile west of Butler.

Dempsey Surprises By Greeting of Kearns

Madison Square Garden Bowl, New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey created the major sensation at the Walker-Schmeling heavyweight bout here tonight. He shook hands with Jack Kearns.

The bitter feud between Dempsey and the man who managed him into a world's heavyweight championship had become proverbial in fistic circles, and had left the men so far apart that mutual friends had abandoned all hopes of ever getting them together again, but tonight, just before the main bout went on, Dempsey was called into the ring and amazed the critics by dashing over to grasp Kearns' hand and mutter a greeting.

Walker, Floored Near Start, Fights Way Into Lead.

55,000 See German Win Third Chance at Sharkey.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL, Long Island, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Mickey Walker, New Jersey's famed toy bulldog, was muzzled with a mask of gore tonight as Max Schmeling climbed back on the return path to the world heavyweight championship.

With the permission of Referee Jack Denny and the approval of 55,000 spectators in the Garden's new bowl of punch, the fight was stopped at the end of the eighth round and goes into the record books as a technical knockout for Schmeling in eight rounds.

Peering out of eyes that saw not, blood gushing from his nose and mouth, a fighting heart alone keeping him upright at the end of the eighth round, Walker was beaten as the bout took a sudden and dramatic turn in favor of the German after Mickey (himself) had threatened to confound the boxing world with a mauling victory over the German.

Walker Fights Way To Front.

Until the eighth began, Walker had risen from the floor, saved by the bell from taking a count of nine, and then punctured prefight predictions with a sensational show of body punching to win four of the first seven rounds. The bowl's 72,000 who had turned out in a capacity crowd, hoping to see the good little man beat the good big man, were transformed into an uproarious mob as Walker carried the fight to Schmeling and appeared to be getting away with it.

And then came the eighth. Schmeling discarded his earlier caution as it was apparent to the ringsiders that he came out full of fight. In full stride he walked across the ring, meeting Mickey himself coming out of his corner. It was the beginning of the end for Walker.

A left jab snapped Mickey's head back. A whistling right caught Mickey's head as Max stepped far forward. It carried the power of the heaviest right-hand punch of the prize ring today. Mickey went to the floor in a semiswan dive, feet high in the air as his upper torso collided with the canvas

It was a clean knock down.

Mickey's fighting heart brought him up at six. But Schmeling now was a killer. The German pummeled Walker the full length of the ring, landing with lefts and rights as Mickey attempted to cover. Max ceased his fire for a moment to measure his man.

Posing Mickey's chin with right, he jammed a straight left true to the mark. Mickey took the count of nine.

Summoning the courage that had

Godwin Outpoints Barry In Slugfest in New York

Special to The Washington Post.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL, Long Island, N. Y., Sept. 26.—As the fashionably late customers strolled into the arena that was to present Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker in the featured engagement, Bob Godwin, of Florida, punched out a six-round decision over Donald (Red) Barry, Washington, D. C., heavyweight.

It was a close and a good fight. Barry elected to slug it out with the Dixie slugger and took too many in the exchanges. A left hook that landed flush on Barry's chin slowed the Washingtonian in the third round, but he fought himself out of the haze and beat Godwin around the ring before the session was over.

Godwin retreated steadily before Barry's leads, but in good order and firing punches steadily, a right uppercut and a left hook doing the most damage. Barry scored on his own account in the last three rounds, driving Godwin about the ring and apparently making a successful rally to gain at least a draw.

Barry outweighed Godwin 16 pounds, but found Godwin's crouch hard to fathom. The Florida boy, fighting in flurries, piled up an advantage in the first three rounds and held Barry even in the toe-to-toe slugging in the last.

Technical K. O. For Baer Over Griffiths in Seventh

CHICAGO STADIUM, Chicago, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Max Baer, of California, fought his way further up the heavyweight ladder tonight by scoring a technical knockout over Tuffy Griffiths, of Chicago, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Referee Phil Collins stopped the bout after 58 seconds of the seventh round, with Griffiths still on his feet but hopelessly beaten.

A crowd of approximately 9,000 persons saw Baer score his eleventh straight victory, and his twenty-seventh knockout in 44 bouts during his less than four years in the ring. The receipts were estimated at $20,000, of which Baer was to receive 30 per cent and Griffiths 22 per cent.

Although Griffiths failed to win a round, he was only on the floor once and made a game comeback in the fifth and sixth rounds, after being virtually out on his feet in the fourth.

Starting slowly, and giving as much effort to clowning and showing off his perfect physique as he was to fighting in the early rounds, Baer was unimpressive until he opened up a vicious attack in the fourth round.

The fifth was Griffiths' last stand, and Baer beat a steady tattoo on him in the sixth round. Toward the close of the sixth Baer beat Griffiths to the punch with a right-hander and sent the Chicago boy down in a sitting position. Griffiths got up after a count of one, and the bell rang a few moments later.

Baer was pounding away with both fists at the almost exhausted Griffiths when Referee Collins stepped between them and gave the bout to Baer on a technical knockout. The officials scored four rounds for Baer and the second and third even.

Whitney Filly Wins by Head

Crazy Jane Second When Late Challenge Fails.

Workman Puts Up a Good Ride on Favorite to Win.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 26.—Portden, speedy son of The Porter, with Jockey Leishman giving him one of his best rides, won the Glenwild Purse, the day's feature race, witnessed by some 12,000 fans. Swatter, from the Branncastle Farm barn, was second and Chief John third.

It was a catch-me race, with Portden "it." Chief John and War delayed the start. The former was quieted with a twitch, while the latter finally gave in to Bejshak's whip. With the field away, Portden swung into the lead as the group banked the clubhouse turn and first one and then the other took a shot at Leishman and his mount. But they were out there winging, never to be seriously threatened until the last quarter, when Swatter, a longshot, which had been having a lot of trouble far back in the field, came up with a rush and would have won in a few more strides. Chief John just lasted for the show.

The day was ideal for racing—the more one was winner, the more ideal.

Midshipman Winner.

Midshipman earned board money for the Audley Farm in the opener, leading home a field of 2-year-olds. The surprise of the race came when Polar Brush, a 161-to-1 shot, finished second, to pay off a $106.50 mutuel to place and $46.30 to show. Keltwick, another long one, was third. Espinetta and New Sun, well backed, were unable to match speed with the top ones.

Favorites made it two in a row in the second when Burnside hotfooted it down the stretch to take the purse for A. L. Wynstop, jr. Worthington was second and Sir Kendall third. Bellizzi whipped Burnside out in front and the gelding made every post a winning one.

Higher scored a nose victory over Contribute to take the third. Backers of the latter booed the decision, but those who had a kick coming were the supporters of Protractor and Vishnu. This pair hopped to the front at the start and opened up a five-length lead over the others. It looked like they would be one, two until the stretch turn, when they went wide by many yards. Higher came up on the rail and Contribute also cut the turn. Protractor took the third money.

Disdainful Worthy Favorite.

Disdainful and Sonny Workman went to the post even money favorites in the fourth race and performed in just that fashion, hugging the rail all the way to defeat Crazy Jane and Muslet, the latter a field horse. These three escaped much of the crowding at the far turn.

Watch Him scored by a nose over Black Jacket, the favorite, in the sixth race with Delicacy a fast finishing third. Black Jacket had a hard time getting to the leaders and just missed taking the purse.

The last race produced the closest finish of the day with five horses thundering over the wire together. When the judges had their say, it was Jolly Pilot, Night Patrol and Raccoon.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Joe's system horses won one race and finished third twice out of four picks yesterday. The code horse finished third. The bank rolls now are Asbestos, $15.83; Joe, $150.75. Watch for Joe's uncle's new scheme to beat the ponies. It will make the bookies hate him.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MIDSHIPMAN, $6.70, $4.00, $4.20; POLAR BRUSH, $106.50, $46.30; KELTWICK, $9.30.

MIDSHIPMAN, hurried into a prominent position, raced TIGER CAT into defeat, saved ground and drew out easily during the stretch run. POLAR BRUSH, kept under strong pressure while holding a contending position, outstayed KELTWICK in the final drive. Latter made a stout effort when midway of the turn, but faltered when the real test came. ESPINETTA, caught in tight quarters after the break, entered contention with a rush, but she weakened from her early efforts when the final test came. NEW SUN, pinched back following the break, secured racing room after the initial furlong and closed fast. TIGER CAT displayed early speed. ELECTRIC GAFF stopped.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:00. Off at 3:01. Winner, A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURNSIDE, $4.80, $3.00, $2.40; WORTHINGTON, $4.40, $3.50; SIR KENDALL, $3.20.

BURNSIDE outran his field to the first turn, withstood stout contention from SIR KENDALL in the first six furlongs, saved ground and drew clear when shaken up. WORTHINGTON, kept within striking distance of the leaders, finished in game fashion when put to a drive. SIR KENDALL, racing lapped with BURNSIDE for the first six furlongs, weakened thereafter. AIR KING improved his position on the outside after breaking from outside the barrier. BROWN SINNER raced evenly. M'DONALD H. could not threaten the front runners.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 1:37½. Winner, Audley Farm's b. c. HIGHER, slower than usual getting into full stride, came to the outside when moving into contention, finished resolutely and was up in the concluding strides. CONTRIBUTE, away quickly and rated close up, came around the faltering leaders and finished with a rush. PROTRACTOR had a lot taken out of him racing with VISHNU in the hard-fought stretch duel in the final furlong. VISHNU displayed rapid speed for five furlongs and tired. HYMAN was gaining fast after being outrun early. AVALON could not reach a forward position. STOCK MARKET had no mishaps. BETTY FARRELL had brief early speed.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Gadabout. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:18. Winner, C. V. Whitney's ch. f. (2), by John P. Grier—Pandora. Trained by F. Hopkins. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 2-5, 0:47, 1:07 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DISDAINFUL, $4.20, $3.50, $3.00; CRAZY JANE, $4.50, $3.70; MUSLET (field), $10.30.

DISDAINFUL, tiptoed and ridden hard to gain command, raced BOHEMIAN GROVE and WATCH HIM into defeat, drew clear when straightened into the home stretch, but tired suddenly in the final furlong. CRAZY JANE, buffeted about soon after the start, secured racing room midway of the turn, swerved over on MUSLET when nearing the end. The latter pair responded stoutly and were coming on slowly. MUSLET forced a rapid early pace and held on gamely after meeting with slight interference. SPEED BOAT worked her way up on the outside to close stoutly. HAPPY ANNE came again after dropping back midway of the turn. ILLUSIVE showed a dull effort. SUE JONES had early foot.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Glenwild Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:49. Winner, Linton Farm's b. c. (3), by The Porter—Margaret Ogden. Trained by W. Brooks. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 3-5, 1:43 4-5.

LADINO	112	6	6	3²	3½	6²	7²	7	Coucci	13.75

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTDEN, $10.30, $6.60, $3.90; SWATTER, $16.30, $8.10; CHIEF JOHN, $5.10.

PORTDEN, handled in improved fashion and permitted to take command at once, went to the front under restraint until straightened into the home stretch, held SWATTER safe approaching the finish. SWATTER gained stoutly after five furlongs and finished courageously. CHIEF JOHN, urged hard all the way, responded to punishment and just lasted to stall off ANNIMESSIC. The latter, slow to get going, came through a narrow opening on the inside in the final half mile and was gaining fast. SWEEPING LIGHT stopped after six furlongs. WAR was out of it. LADINO stopped badly.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Federal Hill. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:20. Off at 5:23. Winner, Mrs. J. D. Hertz's ch. g. (3), by Fair Wind—Watch Me. Trained by F. S. Hackett. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39, 1:43 2-5.

MARSE ROBERT	103	6	7	7	7	7	7	7	Meade	101.55

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WATCH HIM, $8.90, $3.60, $2.90; BLACK JACKET, $3.00, $2.40; DELICACY, $3.50.

WATCH HIM, allowed to take command without effort when reaching the back stretch, resisted strong contention from MONEL and OLD MASTER and, holding on stoutly when placed to a drive, just lasted to stall off BLACK JACKET. Latter, taken in hand until reaching the final turn, finished wearing the winner down during the stretch run. DELICACY, outpaced early, closed a good gap. MONEL weakened from chasing the pacemaker, as did OLD MASTER. MAD WIND had no excuses.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:55. Off at 5:59½. Winner, Audley Farm's b. g. (3), by Sir Barton—Alice McLuke. Trained by F. Trueman. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40 3-5, 1:48.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOLLY PILOT, $14.10, $6.50, $4.10; NIGHT PATROL, $3.40, $2.50; RACCOON, $3.50.

JOLLY PILOT, away clearly and hustled into a brief lead, was kept under pressure from the start, continued resolutely for the final test and stuck it out gamely. NIGHT PATROL, crowded back going to the first turn, fell far out of contention, moved up in the final three furlongs and, coming through on the inside, was going the fastest at the end. RACCOON, a stout factor the entire trip, fought it out willingly under a strong drive. MARCASITE closed with good energy. SUNVIR was used up chasing JOLLY PILOT and tired. MOCKER went well all the way.

AT THE POST

with Bill Benniag

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, SEPT. 26.

Mike has dug up a brand new angle on racing where positions of the horses are announced through loud-speakers. He claims that jockeys in front listen to the calls and can locate horses they must beat. This may or may not be an advantage and it may not even be true. However, I must have some message for you, Al. I can't tell you much about my picks.

Kerry Patch, surprise winner of the Futurity, is due here tomorrow for his stake engagement. BILL.

FIRST RACE—KEEP OUT ran with good ones in New York and gets in a field he may beat here. STANDOUT disappointed the last time and may make up. POSTPONEMENT did well at Hagerstown.

SECOND RACE—FILTER was forced out of yesterday's race. This one gave an excellent performance in his victory here. Asking a lot to beat GOLDEN SHIP but I believe it can be done. STROLL ALONG for the show.

THIRD RACE—HYGRO seems to have a wide margin over these sprinters. FAIRBYPAIR'S recent good race makes him a threat. POLONAISE could be the third one.

FOURTH RACE—HER GRACE will have PARRY to beat in the Martha Washington. Bost have fine races here to recommend them. VALENCIENNES looked good the other day.

FIFTH RACE—SEMAPHORE was a beaten favorite last week but may be rated off the pace tomorrow and it will be a different story. WELL PLAYED has won three straight and may be better than rated. POLO BAR beat maidens.

SIXTH RACE—COLOSSAL has gone back but not far enough to be beaten by these. HAGERSTOWN is serious contender. Comes off that brilliant sprint. BOSCOBEL for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—WILLIAM T., provided he moves out of the also eligibles, is the class of this race. SYRIAC has promised a victory soon and this may be the vehicle. MONOCLE'S last was a sizzler.

McCarthy, G. U. Prep Gridman, Breaks Leg

Joe McCarthy, local aspirant for a guard's berth on the Georgetown Prep football team, broke his leg yesterday in scrimmaging at Garrett Park. McCarthy, who virtually had his post clinched by reason of showing fine form to date, will be out for the season.

G. U. IN SECRET GRID SESSION

First Game Listed Here Saturday

Mount St. Mary's Is to Be Battled in Stadium.

Surprise Hoya Team Likely to Be Named by Coach Mills.

GEORGETOWN, the dark horse among the local college football teams, will hold another secret drill today in its canvas inclosure at the Hilltop training field.

Yesterday the team went through a brisk scrimmage, with particular stress being laid on speeding up the play of the line.

Rumors seeping out of the Georgetown camp are thickening. The consensus of opinion in local grid circles is that Coach Tom Mills is going to unfurl a totally unlooked-for combination Saturday against Mount St. Mary's at Griffith Stadium.

Hoya Backs Developing Fast.

The raft of Hoya backs are developing in splendid style, showing a burliness and leg drive which, added to their native speed, threatens to make them the most sensational back field in the nearby vicinity.

The team will average 180, making it the biggest in Washington.

The only two positions that have been actually decided upon are the end posts, with Capt. Ray Hudson and Tom Carolan standing head and shoulders above rivals. There is a hot race for the remaining berths. Donoghue, Kennedy, Costello and Lione are leading andidates for quarter back; Viskovitch, Kelly and Saverine for left half; Alenty and Stanley for right half and Simmins and Bradley for full back.

In the line, Katalinas appears to have outdistanced his rivals for right tackleship, and Callahan his opponents for center, but great doubt remains over the other line posts.

Golfwomen May Enter Tourney at First Tee

An entrance fee of 50 cents will be assessed women from Mafyland and District golf courses who compete in the eighteen-hole medal handicap tournament sponsored by the Maryland State Association, Thursday morning at the Columbia Country Club, it was announced last night by Mrs. H. A. Knox, chairman.

Entries will be accepted at the first tee. The tourney is open only to members of member clubs of the association, and is expected to attract a large entry.

An attractive prize list has been arranged. There will be two classes, one for women with handicaps up to 20 and one for those with handicaps ranging from 21 to 35.

Mrs. Meyer Medalist In Woodmont Event

Mrs. Jerome Meyer, carding a 47—45—92, topped Mrs. Jack Sulman, defending champion, by two strokes yesterday to take the medal prize in the annual women's golf championship at the Woodmont Country Club.

Match play, starting today, will find Mrs. Meyer arrayed against Miss Bertha Israel. The finals will be held Wednesday.

Pairings for the first round follow:

FIRST FLIGHT—Mrs. Jerome Meyer (92) vs. Miss Bertha Israel (103). Mrs. Ralph Goldsmith (99) vs. Mrs. L. B. Schloss (97). Mrs. Theodore Peyser (98) vs. Mrs. Martin Baum (98). Miss Sylvia Straus (100) vs. Mrs. Jack Shulman (94).

SECOND FLIGHT—Mrs. Gilbert Hahn drew bye. Miss Vera Reiskin vs. Mrs. Jess Miller. Mrs. I. Goldenberg vs. Mrs. L. E. Harris. Mrs. Sylvia Wineberg vs. Mrs. S. W. Straus.

TROJANS DRILL TONIGHT.

The Northeast Trojans, a 135-150-pound football team, practices tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth and B streets. They are looking for games.

EAGLES CLOSE AUSPICIOUSLY.

Anacostia Eagles won three games over the week-end to wind up their season. They beat the Woodley A. C. 7-4 and 6-1, and the Riggs A. C. 12-0.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

the blood away and bounced into Schmeling with another harsh left hook to the body. There was new fire in Schmeling's attack as he jabbed Walker with his left to the head a half dozen times and forced Mickey to cover. They traded lefts and rights to the head in a blistering exchange and blood flowed freely from Walker's lips. Again they locked heads at close quarters and punched to the body. Walker drilled a right and left to the body as the bell rang.

ROUND SEVEN—Schmeling jabbed away at Walker's face, apparently in an effort to widen the deep cut in Mickey's lip, but Walker met him on even ground and banged three left hooks to the body. Walker traded rights to the head with the Teuton and then drove him across the ring with a thunderous body attack. He pinned Schmeling to the ropes and shot his head back with uppercut lefts and rights to the jaw.

Schmeling got away and again they traded rights to the head before Mickey got the upper hand and flailed Schmeling with both hands. Both took tremendous rights to the head, apparently without flinching, flinging to close quarters as the crowd roared again and the bell sounded.

ROUND EIGHT—Schmeling jabbed Mickey neatly on the nose and rammed his right to the jaw. Walker bounced right back at him with a left to the chin, but again the German shot his head back, with rights which sent Walker reeling. Mickey went down for a count of six under a right to the chin. He was almost helpless as Schmeling smashed him about the ring, his left eye closed. Another right floored Walker for a count of nine. Schmeling followed the helpless little man trying to nail him. Walker reeled and stumbled from one side of the ring to the other gamely firing, but in a terribly weakened condition. He stood up under a fierceful firing, swinging back, but Schmeling could not put him down again. He was reeling in his own corner when the bell rang. The referee granted Kearns request to stop the fight.

Schmeling wins technical knockout.

Central, Saint John's Gridmen Meet Today

Two once perennial high school football rivals will renew relations today when Central and St. John's meet in Central Stadium at 3:30 o'clock.

Both teams present squads today in which there will be many new faces, for both teams were hit hard by graduation. It will be the first appearance of St. John's under its new coach, Jack Dunn.

NALLY HURT IN C. U. DRILL

Line Star May Be Out of Saturday Game in New York.

MONDAY generally is a slow day at the college football camps, when the coaches revel in long diatribes on the mistakes of the preceding Saturday, but no such rest was visible at Brookland Stadium yesterday when Catholic University's Cardinals went through a vigorous session that lasted nearly three hours and included a full hour of scrimmaging.

Tom Nally, dreadnaught lineman, was a victim of the tough workout, his right hand having come in contact with something bigger and less yielding. He may be out for the remainder of the week.

Injury Follows Shift To Tackle.

The injury happened shortly after he was transplanted from guard to left tackle, the position at which he started at the beginning of the season.

There may be a new face in the line-up Saturday when C. U. formally opens its season against City College of New York, in New York. Tom Gearty, stocky sophomore, has developed by leaps and bounds since the start of the practice season, and may supplant John Jankowski on the strength of his extra carriculum merits of passing.

Top Flight, Lamed, Through for Season

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 26 (A. P.).—C. V. Whitney's Top Flight, leading money-winning filly of the world, has probably run her last race this season.

The 3-year-old daughter of Dis Donc came out of the Potomac Handicap, in which she finished fourth, very lame and showed little improvement this morning. She was scheduled to go to the post of the Havre de Grace Handicap Saturday.

SCHMELING WINNER ON TECHNICAL K. O.

marked his fourteen years in the ring, Walker came back to the battle, but his heart and his ring lore were lost in his weakened condition. Reeling, but fighting as he reeled, he pawed futilely at Schmeling, who with half appeal in his look turned to Referee Denny for authority to continue the slaughter. The look received only silence and Schmeling went back to the chopping block as a merciful bell saved Walker from further punishment.

The end of the round saw Jack Kearns swabbing the blood from Mickey's features. That task done, he sidled over to Referee Denny, received that individual's authority to concede the battle to Schmeling by a technical knockout, and the bid of the Toy Bulldog for the heavyweight championship expired in the gore of his defeat.

Mickey made the fight for the $72,000 in the bowl, getting up off the floor in the first round to take charge of the battle through the seventh. He made Schmeling fight Walker's kind of a fight, inside, where Mickey's short arms could get in their deadly work and where Schmeling's long range ability counted for naught. At no time was Schmeling in distress, but the German did not appear like a man who had held the world championship as Mickey mauled him in the infighting and wrestled him about the ring, landing with short right and left hooks when the German was driven to cover.

German Cautious At Start.

It was a strange Schmeling that came out for the opening round. There was none of the dash that had marked his work against Sharkey. Tonight, Walker met Schmeling more than half way at the opening bell as the German cautiously sidled to a neutral corner.

Walker wasted no time in making his bid. He beat Schmeling to the punch to get inside and gave the pro-Walker crowd their first reason to cheer as he landed short hooks to Schmeling's body. But with the battle under way, Max appeared to regain his confidence.

Backing out of a clinch, although breaking cleanly, he slammed Walker with a straight right to the chin and Mickey toppled to the floor in the German's corner. He took the count of six as the bell ended the round.

Still full of fight and more dazed by the suddeness of the blow than hurt, Walker returned to the battle in the second round to cuff Schmeling smartly and earn a draw for the round, but beginning with the third he won three straight rounds on this correspondent's score sheet and appeared to be making a winning fight of it with Schmeling in strange restraint, either because he didn't like the buzz-saw style of the man he outweighed 14 pounds, or because he had decided on a waiting plan of battle.

Schmeling Wins Tame Round.

Schmeling won the only tame round, the sixth, but Walker renewed his bulldozing tactics from close range to win the seventh going away and despite the blood spurting from his mouth, there was no indication that the eighth would bring the end.

The good big man beat the good little man tonight, a good little man who was hog-fat at 174 pounds, an overgrown welterweight. Schmeling was the good big man only when he chose to fight as he can fight. From the second to the eighth he was outfought, but the transformation that took place in the last round was complete. Then he was the black Uhlan of the Fatherland, as he likes to hear himself called and the good little man was not good enough.

G. W. ELEVEN DUE TO FACE HEAVY FOE

Westminster Holds Weight Edge in Friday Game.

REPORTS emanating from the wilds of New Wilmington, Pa., have it that Westminster College, which invades Griffith Stadium Friday night for a meeting with George Washington University, will outweigh the Colonials by an average of several pounds, particularly in the line.

The Westminster Team boasts of a 240-pound guard and a 215-pound tackle, while Walter Slaird, 202 tackle, is the heaviest man on the G. W. squad.

G. W. Scouts Predict Victory.

But G. W. scouts, who saw Westminster play Slippery Rock Teachers Saturday, say the team is slow and probably will fall prey to the crafty Colonial overhead attack, which spelled the doom of Washington and Lee Saturday.

Coach Jim Pixlee plans to start his first team Friday night, pile up as much of a score as possible, and then retire them in favor of the reserves, whom he is counting upon heavily in the Alabama game October 8. While G. W. is not overlooking any bets with the Westminster game, it is overshadowed in preparations for the meeting with the Crimson Tide the following week.

What use G. W. made of substitutes Saturday against W. & L. was particularly pleasing to Pixlee. Johnny Matia, reserve quarter back, hurled the pass that was instrumental in the scoring of the third touchdown, while Ozzie Wray more than held up his post at end. Chris Doose, in the line, played spectacularly, downing a punt receiver in his tracks, 45 yards down the field and offering fine interference for Parrish on his 50-yard run to a touchdown. Bob Galloway looked good in Fred Mulvey's place on end.

Trio of Casuals Return To Game.

Among the reserves to see service Friday night will be three unknown quantities of the Camp Letts training season—John Baker and Nig McCarver, backs, and Hardy Pearce, lineman. The trio has been on the injury list since almost the start of the training season, but the few days they did perform, they appeared worthy of regular berths.

Tickets for the G. W.-Westminster game go on sale today at Griffith Stadium, Spalding's and the Colonial athletic office, 2010 H street.

Practitioner Golfers Are Topped by Folsom

H. D. Folsom led the field with a net 143 in yesterday's first two rounds of the Interstate Commerce Practitioners' 72-hole handicap medal play golf event at the Manor Club. The remaining 36 holes will be played today, starting at 8:20 a. m.

Net scores of the 24 qualifiers for the final two rounds are:

42 Golfers Enter Maryland Open

Fourteen From District Seek Honors Tomorrow at Columbia.

Forty-two golfers from the Middle Atlantic sector, including fourteen from District courses, are entered in the 36-hole Maryland open championship at the Columbia Country Club links tomorrow.

The Maryland State Golf Association, in announcing the pairings and starting times, indicated that post entries would be accepted before 9 o'clock in the morning and after the last threesome tee-off at 10:18. This is expected to boost the field to approximately 60. Those planning on participating are requested to call Freddie McLeod at Columbia.

Ralph Beach, of Suburban Country Club, Baltimore, is the defending champion, and will find himself pitted against one of the strongest fields in history.

Pairings and starting times follow:

9 a. m.-1 p. m.—Al Houghton, George Diffenbaugh and D. H. Borden, 9:06-1:06—Cliff Spencer, Archie Clark and H. T. Crocker. 9:12-1:12—Al Tredor, William Schrieber and Spencer Overton. 9:18-1:18—Ed Barnard, Chester Barnard and Dave Crook. 9:24-1:24—Alex Armour, Warner Mather E. L. Caldwell.

9:30-1:30—A. B. Thorn, Glenn Spender and Edgar Lucas. 9:36-1:36—Fred McLeod, William D. Waxter, jr., and Alex Taylor. 9:42-1:42—Ralph Beach, Warren Corkran and T. F. Cole. 9:48-1:48—James Roche, C. T. MacMaster and Martin Kinney, jr. 9:54-1:54—William Scott, Cliff McKimmie and Gene Larkin.

10:00-2:00—Henry Johnston, K. J. Allen and William H. Johnston. 10:06-2:06—Leo Colliflower, John Bass and Carroll Spencer. 10:12-2:12—Bob Scott, Claude Orndorff and Charles Benna. 10:18-2:18—Dick Scott, Bill Malloy and Eddie Stevens.

STANTONS PRACTICE.

Stanton gridmen will practice tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at Washington Terminal field. The team is looking for a back field coach.

EAGLES CANCEL.

The Anacostia Eagles are forced to concel their game for Sunday with the Mercury A. C.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

(Associated Press.)

PRINCETON, N. J.—Princeton has lost the servica of her first string center, Dan Hinman, for the opening game with Amherst. Hinman is suffering from an arm injury, and will be out for at least a week. Jack James, back field star of two years ago, appeared in uniform for the first time today and worked out in a signal drill.

Philadelphia—The Penn varsity battered the third team, but suffered two casualties, Carl Perina, full back, going out with a wrenched shoulder, and Howard Colehower, tackle, from a kick in the chin.

Both probably will play against Franklin and Marshall.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Cornell, which rolled up 72 points on Buffalo last week, held only light practice today in preparation for Niagara. The only casualty of Saturday was Switzer, sophomore back, who has a wrenched leg and may be out several days.

MARYLAND U. GRID HOPES HIGHER

Rout in Opener Peps Up Old Liners for Virginia Game.

WHEN the advance publicity condemns a team as the worst ever to represent an institution and then that team, Maryland's 1932 squad, goes out and beats Washington College, 63 to 0, it is no time for dirge music.

And so the air is considerably lighter this week at College Park, where the Old Liners are preparing to meet their traditional and geographical rivals, Virginia, next Saturday afternoon at Virginia.

Five Old Liners who played against Virginia last year, when Maryland won, 7 to 6, will be available this year—Ray Poppelman, Al Woods and Paul Kiernan, backs, and John Mitchell and Ted Keenan, linemen.

Kiernan Saved Day Last Year for Old Liners.

Kiernan won last year's game when Curly Byrd sent him in the game in the last quarter to relieve the fumbling Poppelman, and the youth all but single-handed advanced the ball 55 yards in successive first downs to a touchdown.

Kiernan was kept out of the Washington College game Saturday by injuries.

Others who will desert the injury bench for the fray Saturday are Tom Webb, promising sophomore center, and John McDonald, burly sophomore guard, both of them rated as regulars.

Virginia has eleven men on hand who figured in the game a year ago—Stevens, Harris and Sackett, backs; St. Clair, Condon, Wager, Poss, Reiss, Gentry, Burger and Dial, linemen.

Previous Maryland-Virginia football scores follow:

1898—Virginia, 6; Maryland, 0.
1919—Maryland, 13; Virginia, 0.
1923—Virginia, 6; Maryland, 0.
1926—Virginia, 6; Maryland, 6.
1927—Virginia, 21; Maryland, 0.
1928—Maryland, 18; Virginia, 2.
1929—Maryland, 13; Virginia, 13.
1930—Maryland, 14; Virginia, 6.
1931—Maryland, 7; Virginia, 6.

Tech High Eleven Is Promised Test

Meets National Training School Team in Contest Friday.

The high school football season, hardly begun, may reach its most interesting point Friday afternoon when Tech, four times winner of the scholastic crown here, meets the hard-driving National Training School team at the Training School field at 3 o'clock.

The ruinous scores by which the Training School team has beaten Central and Emerson bodes no good for Tech. The game will be played on a field unblessed by turf.

A disciple of the Warner system, taught it by Ed Crandall, noted George Washington University football player of two years ago, the Training School team depends largely on power plays. It has a sterling line-bursting back in Koski and an illusive broken-field runner in Signs.

Tech again is depending on its illusive spinner plays, expert kicking by Foley and Brinkman, and a fine passing attack, with Al Meikeljohn, captain and end, on the receiving end of a majority of the aerials.

There will be no admission charge.

Roosevelt Loses Two Basket Ball Stars

The 1932-33 basket ball hopes of Roosevelt High were dealt a blow yesterday when two youths who were figured to shine during the season—Carroll Shore, a member of last year's all-high, and Nick Gregorio—transferred to Central.

Neither will be eligible to compete in Central athletics until the close of the first advisory period. Both originally went to Tech, where they were unable to make the basket ball team, only to shine at Business last season. Business has since been amalgamated with Roosevelt.

EAGLE PREPS CHALLENGE.

Hitting the Headpin

Lorraine Gulli, perennial holder of the national women's bowling championship, was awarded the diploma emblematic of that title again last night at the opening of the Washington Ladies' League matches at Columbia. The presentation was made by Miss Bronson Quaites, president of the women's league, and first woman bowler to become a member of the executive committee of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress.

Billie Butler was ranked sixth among the country's women tennis players; Catherine Quigley, 11; Marie Whalen, 14; Lucille Young, 18; Catherine Fortney, 20; Evelyn Ream, 21, and Margaret Leaman, 22.

All records for high individual game and high set in the Petroleum League were broken last night by Eldred Wilson, of the Lord Baltimore filling station team, with marks of 164 and 405. His team took high set honors with 1,690, and high game laurels with 583.

Results of the King Pin League matches were New England Restaurant, 2; Maccabees, 1; King Pin, 2; Shoe Mart, 1; Frankie's, 2; Hecht, 1. The Frankies took high game and set marks, with 593 and 1,673, while Hausler, of New England Restaurant, copped individual huzzahs with a 143 game.

Charlie Bernhardt, who used to be quite a shortstop in his salad days, rolled a 149 game and 384 set to help boost his team, Highways, into the spotlight at Arcade in the D. C. Government League last night. His club had a game of 571 and a set of 1,660.

St. Mary's Celtics Football Team will practice tonight at 8 o'clock at Baggett's Field in Alexandria, and all candidates are requested to report to Coaches Ike Dreifus and Tubby Farrell.

The Whitehaven A. C., 135-pound football team, wants a game Sunday. Call Cleveland 2413.

BERKELEY SUBMITS REDISTRICTING IDEA

Declares Attorney General Admits Lack of Equality in Population.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Submitting their idea of how the redistricting of Virginia should have been done, Charles C. Berkeley and William Moseley Brown today continued their efforts to prove by the Supreme Court that the redistricting act of 1932 is unconstitutional.

Acting as counsel for Mr. Brown, in his petition for a writ of mandamus forcing electoral boards to place his name on November election ballots as a candidate for Congress at large, Mr. Berkeley in reply to the attorney general's demurrer, contended that the State official admitted the "lack of contiguity, compactness, and the lack of equality in population of the nine districts."

Five Days Allowed.

Given five days in which to file their reply to the Supreme Court, where the petition and the demurrer were filed in Staunton last week, Mr. Berkeley and Mr. Brown sent it today.

In conclusion, Mr. Berkeley set forth a division of the State, in nine districts, which he said would have been constitutional. It follows:

First District — Cities: Newport News, Hampton, and Williamsburg, and the counties Accomac, Northampton, King George, Westmoreland, Northumberland, Richmond, Lancaster, Caroline, Essex, Middlesex, King and Queen, Gloucester, Mathews, King William, New Kent, Charles City, James City, Warwick, Elizabeth City, Surry, York, Stafford. Total population, 268,092.

Second District — Cities: Norfolk, Suffolk, Portsmouth and South Norfolk, and the counties Nansemond, Isle of Wight, Norfolk and Princess Anne. Total population, 275,845.

Third District—City, Richmond, and the counties of Louisa, Hanover, Henrico, Goochland, Fluvanna and Powhatan. Total population, 266,119.

Fourth District—Cities, Petersburg, Hopewell, and the counties, Prince George, Southampton, Sussex, Greensville, Brunswick, Mecklenburg, Lunenburg, Charlotte, Dinwiddie, Nottoway, Amelia, Chesterfield, Prince Edward and Cumberland. Total population, 276,226.

Fifth District—Cities, Martinsville, Lynchburg, Danville, and the counties, Henry, Pittsylvania, Halifax, Franklin, Bedford, and Campbell. Total population, 269,721.

Roanoke Section.

Sixth District—Cities, Roanoke, Radford, and the counties, Patrick, Carroll, Grayson, Pulaski, Wythe, Floyd, Roanoke, Giles, Montgomery, and Bland. Total population, 260,075.

Seventh District—Cities, Charlottesville, Staunton, Harrisonburg, Clifton Forge, Buena Vista, and counties, Appomattox, Amherst, Rockbridge, Alleghany, Bath, Highland, Nelson, Albemarle, Augusta, Rockingham, Buckingham, Craig, and Botetourt. Total population, 270,014.

Eighth district—Cities, Fredericksburg, Alexandria, Winchester, and the counties, Spotsylvania, Orange, Greene, Madison, Culpeper, Pauquier, Prince William, Fairfax, Loudoun, Clarke, Rappahannock, Page, Warren, Shenandoah, Frederick, Arlington. Total population, 270,844.

Ninth District—City, Bristol, and the counties, Smyth, Tazewell, Washington, Russell, Scott, Wise, Dickenson, Lee and Buchanan. Total population, 264,919.

The reply says "It is practicable to make the districts compact, and have them contain an equal number of inhabitants," as illustrated by the districts set forth. It said this division was made "with little difficulty, and wholly with a view to making the districts compact and as nearly equal as practicable in population according to the census of 1930," which caused the State to reduce its representation from ten representatives to nine.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The life work of Harry Staley, official photographer of the Shenandoah National Park, was wiped out yesterday when fire destroyed his studio in his home on West Market street. More than 10,000 photo negatives of outdoor scenes in Virginia, 2,000 of them in the park area, were destroyed.

The collection, many prints of which had been published all over the country, represented twenty years' work.

The negatives destroyed included those of Shenandoah Valley caverns, scenes in which phase of photography Mr. Staley was considered an authority. Another negative which required several years to obtain showed the moon setting in West Virginia and the sun rising in Virginia. This photo was taken atop the Shenandoah Mountain, 20 miles west of Harrisonburg.

The house was only slightly damaged, but the laboratory was ruined. Firemen had to don gas masks to combat the flames because of the gas generated by the burning photo films. The fire started in the dark room of the laboratory. Little, if any, insurance was carried. Several thousand of the destroyed negatives can not be replaced.

WATER DEFICIENCIES OF ALEXANDRIA TOLD

Chamber President Asserts City-Owned System Is Only Remedy.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The first meeting of the water committee of the Alexandria City council, appointed to investigate water rates, pressure and other matters, met last night in the city council chamber and heard testimony of a number of city officials and employes, industrial concerns and private individuals.

J. William May, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, presented a statement containing figures submitted to the State corporation commission in its protest against rates charged. He stated that, in his opinion, the only remedy is a municipally owned water system. He stated that the rates charged in Alexandria are 45 per cent higher than in 66 cities of the same size as Alexandria, investigated, and that Alexandria is the only one of these cities paying a rental charge for fire hydrants. Of 3,496 cities and towns in the United States, he said, 77.3 per cent own their water systems, while 22.7 per cent have privately owned plants.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., told of inadequate water pressure for fire protection purposes in certain sections of the city, and suggested as a remedy larger mains and more initial pressure. He gave the results of tests conducted at 15 different street intersections, showing static pressure from 1 pound to 22 pounds, with an average of 14.6 pounds, and flow pressure from 17 pounds to 26 pounds. He cited several fires at which the department had been handicapped by insufficient pressure.

Dr. W. Lewis Schaeffer, city health officer, testified as to the condition of the water from a health standpoint, and said his tests, conducted every other day, showed it to be excellent. His tests, he said, are bacteriological, and had not reference to the use of water for industrial purposes. Several private citizens residing in various parts of the cityy complained of the pressure.

The committee, which consists of Councilmen E. C. Davison, chairman; Henry O'Bannon Cooper and Michael T. Dwyer, will hold a series of meetings, and later make recommendations to the council as to its course of action.

$1,500 Asked in Taxi Suit.

A suit asking damages of $1,500 for loss of his wife's services after an auto accident was filed in Prince Georges County circuit court yesterday by Norman A. Pruitt against William Bickerdyke. Pruit is a councilman of Mount Rainier, Md., and Bickerdye is a resident of the same town. According to the petition, filed through Attorney Bird Dolby, Pruitt and his wife were riding in the defendant's taxicab when it overturned near Laurel in October, 1931.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO CONVENE TODAY

State President to Address Session of Fairfax County Circles.

The Fairfax County convention of the King's Daughters Circles will be held today in the Woodlawn Community Hall on the Washington-Richmond highway near the entrance of Fort Humphreys. Mrs. Henry S. Ely, State president, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker. Mrs. John Butcher, of Norfolk, second vice president of the order and chairman of the junior work, will also speak.

The business sessions will be held in the Woodlawn Baptist Church with the Rev. R. C. Cline, pastor of the church, leading the devotional services. Memorial services will be held for three members who have died during the last year.

Miss Sula Fleeman, of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association; Dr. William P. Caton, of Accotink, president of the Fairfax County Medical Association, and Mrs. Warren N. Watson, president of the County Tuberculosis Association, will outline the campaign against tuberculosis now being waged by the varidus organizations in the county.

The circles to be represented at the convention today are Woodlawn, Rachel Walker, Mount Vernon and Community Builders of Fairfax County; the Whosoever Circle of Alexandria and the Circle from Washington. Members of the Falls Church Circle, which was disbanded some time ago, have also been invited to attend.

Dump in Arlington Closes This Week

Completion of Incinerator in District Makes It Unnecessary.

Traffic on the Highway Bridge into Arlington County will be greatly relieved due to the end of the stream of trucks which have passed over it daily with trash from the District of Columbia to the dump in Arlington County near the Washington Airport, according to the announcement that the dump will be abandoned this week.

The dump is the only one operated with county authority and its continuation has been permitted only pending the completion of the District of Columbia incinerator. This plant is said to be ready for operation, which makes it no longer necessary for the dump to operate to handle trash either from the District of Columbia or Arlington County. The latter has been permitted to make use of the incinerator in Georgetown.

The incinerator having been completed, the officials at the airport have notified county officials that they will cease dumping operations Saturday.

ALEXANDRIA GREETS W. C. T. U. CONCLAVE

State Convention Is Told of 50 Years' Progress in War on Liquor.

The fiftieth annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Virginia convened last night in its first business session in the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Alexandria, with Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, of Lincoln, Va., State president, in the chair. A meeting of the executive committee was held in the afternoon.

An address of welcome on behalf of the City of Alexandria was delivered by Mayor Edmund F. Ticer; Roy Braden, manager of Arlington County, welcomed the visitors in the name of that county, and the Rev. E. V. Regester, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Church and president of the Alexandria Ministerial Association, spoke for the churches of the city. Responses were delivered by Mrs. Clarence Hawkins and Mrs. B. T. Taylor.

Mrs. Howard M. Hoge then delivered the president's address, which was followed by an informal reception.

Mrs. Hoge reviewed the result of 50 years activity by the W. C. T. U., and told of the progress made in combatting the liquor evil. She referred to the Virginia Association Against Prohibition Enforcement, and said that the prominent men who formed that association did not like prohibition because it was enforced too much.

The W. C. T. U. refuses to indorse the platform of either major political party, she said, and stands for observance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment—not repeal. She believes that eventually a new major party will be evolved which will stand for the complete enforcement of prohibition.

The first business meeting of the convention will begin at 9 o'clock this morning, and meetings will continue through Thursday, the final event being a banquet in the George Mason Hotel.

Prince Georges County Raids Net Nine Arrests

Week-end raids in Prince Georges County netted nine prisoners to be tried on liquor, slot machine or disorderly charges. Frank Dent, of Mellwood, was arrested when Policeman Oscar Beall led a raiding squad to his house, finding fifteen cases of alleged whisky.

Thomas Avaunt, said to be proprietor of a barbecue stand on the Crain highway, was charged with permitting gaming by Policemen Elon A. Turner and R. Arnold Naylor, who seized two slot machines at the stand. Brooke Watkins and John Chaney, of Queen Anne, were charged with possession of liquor by Constable Andrew Gasch, who led a raid on their place. Five other men were seized and charged with disorderly conduct.

Alexandria Delegates Named by War Mothers

Mrs. John H. Trimyer and Mrs. Rosetta Dove yesterday were elected delegates to represent the Alexandria Chapter, American War Mothers, at the State convention in Richmond October 13-14. Mrs. Norman L. Williamson, president of the chapter, presided.

Mrs. Lydia L. Spofford, of Alexandria, is president of the State organization.

Adoption of Child Is Sought.

A petition asking permission to adopt Howard Johnson, 5 years old, was filed in Prince Georges County circuit court yesterday by Bennie S. and Maggie V. Shorter, through Attorney George B. Merrick. The couple state that the child was turned over to them by the Board of Public Welfare, and that his parentage is unknown. They also ask the court to change his name to Howard Shorter.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE PROSPEROUS BLACKSMITH.

BE BUSINESS what it may in other lines, the horseshoers are doing well. Blacksmithing is fundamentally sound. Prosperity is just around the anvil.

* * * *

Delegates to a horseshoers' convention the other day declared that, contrary to the public impression, there are more horses in the United States than you can shake a second-hand flivver at. And that, due to the fact the profession escaped inflation and is not overcrowded, business is good.

* * * *

Longfellow Revised.

Under the spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith is now a specialist
And free of those demands
That came when every fellow had
A horse upon his hands.

II.

His hair is crisp and black and long,
His face from care is free;
No overcrowded trade is his
As once it used to be;
He looks the whole world in the face
And owes no R. F. C.

III.

Week in, week out, from morn til night,
You can hear his bellows blow;
His trade escaped expansion and
Its trail of want and woe;
He hears no bankers calling when
The evening sun is low.

IV.

His was the one industry that
In nineteen-twenty-eight
Was never over-boomed on tales
That brokers might relate;
"A horse in every home!" was not
Predicted by the great.

V.

No grave financial experts said
In statements, day by day,
That shoeing horses was a line
In which great profits lay—
That horses soon would double in The booming U. S. A.!

VI.

He stuck intently to his trade
With mind undazzled and
He didn't go to Wall street for Assistance to expand
And run a chain of blacksmith shops
To stretch across the land!

VII.

He knew two horse-legs would not grow
Where one had grown before—
That on each horse there were four legs
And never any more;
Four horseshoes to a horse, he knew,
Was par in peace or war.

VIII.

Toiling, rejoicing, chuckling,
Onward through life he goes;
He still controls his blacksmith shop—
No creditors foreclose,
And when he goes to bed at night
He gets a night's repose!

IX.

Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson true and just;
In crazy times you kept quite sane—
To praise your sense, I must;
You knew you were a blacksmith, not
A big investment trust!

THE PROSPEROUS FEELING.

SOME of the boys who cleaned up in the recent market rise are already saying that what the country needs is a good 75-cent cigar.

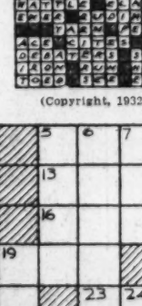
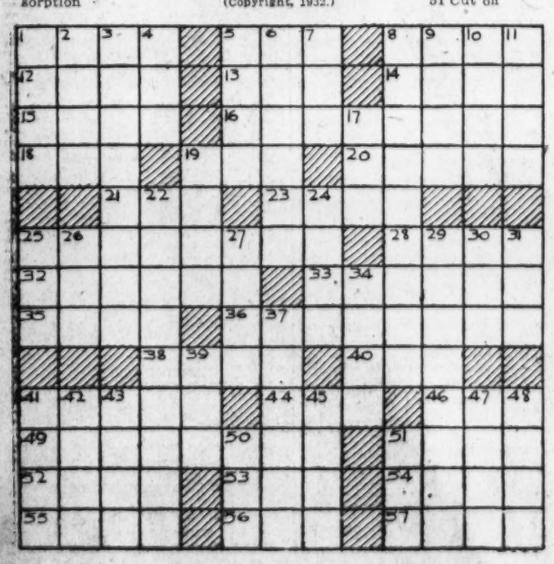
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1932.)



Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

THE rival world series managers will be interviewed tonight, when Hal Totten introduces them as guests on Ben Bernie's broadcast (WRC, 9 o'clock).

Both WRC and WMAL will broadcast the opening world series game, beginning at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Yankee Stadium, in New York.

Following Ralph de Palma's recent broadcast the speed king offered to drive Patrick Kelly, supervisor of announcers, home. Kelly accepted, anticipating a wild and speedy dash through Long Island traffic. Instead De Palma drove slowly and cautiously. Kelly commented on the fact.

"Certainly I drive carefully," De Palma responded. "I value my life."

LEON ROTHIER, French basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will introduce a new song to radio listeners, "Dear Yesterdays," a melody which has been chosen as the song of the Actors' Fund of America (WRC, 8:30 p. m.).

Charles Carlile, young tenor, will be interviewed before the microphone by Bob Taplinger in "Meet the Artist" (WMAL, 5 p. m.).

Joseph D. Kaufman will dedicate his program tonight to Les Colvin for long and faithful service (WMAL, 7:30 o'clock). Colvin, who leaves to accept an orchestral engagement, has appeared on 213 consecutive weekly radio programs with Radio Joe and during that time only missed one.

Abe Lyman and his Californians will return to the air tonight in a new series of triweekly broadcasts over WMAL each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8 o'clock.

AROUND-TABLE discussion of "Constructive Economy in State and Local Government," led by Prof. Thomas H. Reed, of the University of Michigan, and Prof. H. W. Dodds, of Princeton, will be heard during the broadcast of "You and Your Government" over a WJZ network tonight at 8 o'clock.

The life story of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge will be related by Ida Bailey Allen (WMAL, 11:15 p. m.).

Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer of "Music That Satisfies," will sing by popular request the entire melody of his signature song, "Marta" (WMAL, 9 p. m.).

Stocks Lose Under Selling Pressure After Early Rise

Average Drop Is Nearly 4 Points in Sale of 2,082,570 Shares.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Stocks back-tracked in a quiet market today, closing with numerous losses of 1 to 4 points.

Profit-taking and some selling for a reaction, combined with an absence of speculative interest on the long side, seemed to have governed the day's movement in shares, for little in the day's news had much direct bearing on Wall street sentiment.

Rallies of a point or two in the first half hour carried scant conviction and were dissipated before noon. From then until the close prices worked downward. Activity quickened in the last hour, but a late flurry of covering brought final quotations in most instances moderately above the lows. Sales totaled 2,082,570 shares.

In U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, General Motors, Du Pont, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, North American, International Telephone and United Aircraft declines ran from about 2 to slightly more than 3 points. The rail group, which had led the early rise, concluded the session with virtually the same range of losses.

Saturday's favorable car loadings statement and one steel review's estimate that operations had risen 2 points to 17 per cent of capacity were prominent in the week-end news, although the market found little inspiration in them.

Some weekly advisory services thought the market was approaching another testing period, recalling that seasonal peaks in industrial fields would be reached before long and that the country would then see whether the pickup evident in many directions had real staying powers. It was pointed out, however, that a year ago virtually no autumnal revival was experienced.

Money markets appeared unperturbed by the approach of October 1 requirements, which usually are large. Political happenings at London, where opposition to the Ottawa tariff agreements has been brewing, had their chief reflection here in the heaviness of sterling.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Mon.	Sat.
Advances	81	311
Declines	443	105
Stocks unchanged	97	108
Total issues traded	621	524

Stocks.

Back-tracking in a quiet market sent prices down one to four points. An early rally yielded to selling and profit taking. The average loss was 3.9 points. Sales totaled 2,082,570 shares.

Bonds.

Prices sank two-tenths in reactions of speculative loans. High-grade issues firmed. Several rail loans gained, but lost a portion in the selling. The turnover was $16,167,000.

Curb.

Heaviness in utilities helped to give the curb a setback. Losses of one to seven points were recorded. The volume of sales reached 210,000 shares.

Wheat.

The market fluctuated with securities and wheat closed almost unchanged. Other grains were down. Wheat sold at 53¼ cents.

Cotton.

An early gain of $1 per bale was trimmed by Southern selling to 2 to 6 points up at close. December advanced to 7.48. Liverpool reported buying.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Prices on the stock exchange were generally steady today. Gilt-edged securities, Japanese bonds and textile issues were the best features. Transatlantic and oil shares improved and then developed irregularity together with other speculative issues. The market closed quiet.

Paris—Lack of support and uncertainty over the international situation created heaviness on the bourse despite the success of the conversion scheme and firmness in Wall street. Prices declined generally but rentes were fairly well held. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were affected adversely by Premier Herriot's speech despite the favorable reichsbank statement. The closing was stagnant and weaker.

More Russian Oil On Way to Canada

Cargo Will Be Exchanged for Aluminum Products; First Lot Refined.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—It was reported in shipping circles today that a second cargo of Soviet oil, to be exchanged for Canadian aluminum products, will arrive soon.

The 9,000 tons of Russian crude oil, brought here by the tanker Aase Maersa from the Black Sea as part of the deal between the Aluminum Co. of Canada and the Soviet government, was undergoing refining processes here preparatory to being placed on the Canadian market.

News of a crude oil contract between Russia and a private Japanese enterprise revived interest in the Canadian-Russian exchange.

Steel Orders Increase.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.)—Steel trade circles hear that Chicago makers are booking a somewhat larger volume of orders, mostly small. Republic steel in the Youngstown district is experiencing a small improvement in shipments and production, and anticipates a further expansion over the remainder of the year, according to B. F. Fairless, executive vice president.

CURB SETBACKS LED BY UTILITY LOSSES

Oils Also Continued Drop; Day's Trading Totals 210,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Heaviness of the utilities helped to give the curb market a setback today, although volume was light, transactions approximating 210,000 shares which equaled last Friday's turnover.

Electric Bond & Share was rather freely offered and dipped about 4 points at the worst, closing slightly above the bottom. This issue has recently been extremely erratic. American Gas and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore sagged a couple of points, while Commonwealth Edison reacted 7 points in light dealings.

Oils continued under pressure, reflecting further reductions in gasoline prices. Gulf's loss was about 3 points, while Standard of Indiana sagged fractionally. Humble did not trade.

Specialties were somewhat ragged. Deere threw off most of its early heaviness, cutting an extreme loss of more than a point to a minor fraction. Aluminum of America slumped nearly 8, while A. O. Smith and Safety Car Heating sagged several points. Singer Manufacturing, on the other hand, recovered 5 points of last week's decline. Western Air Express and Parker Rust Proof were other firm spots. Great Atlantic & Pacific was steady.

Canned Foods Firmer.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Canned foods continued to show encouraging price firmness during the past week, according to dealers.

BONDS SELL LOWER; HIGHER GRADES FIRM

Rails Unable to Hold Gains, Yielding Portion in Sale of $10,167,000.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The bond market followed the lead of stocks today and retreated to a moderately lower level.

While there were some rather drastic reactions in the more speculative groups, higher grade bonds generally followed a narrow range with price changes limited to fractions.

Notwithstanding the gyrations of the low-priced department, trading volume tended to dwindle on the decline. Sales totalled only $10,167,000, par value, while the average for 60 corporate bonds was off two-tenths of a point.

Nickel Plate 6s, along with a number of others of the more volatile carrier liens, firmed substantially at one time, but were unable to retain all of their advances. Principal losses were suffered by some issues of Allegheny Corporation, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Frisco and Southern Pacific.

The utilities were unsettled by the weakness of International Telephone which lost from 3 to 3½ points. Among the industrials some of the oils, rubbers and amusement company loans were in supply.

In the foreign section, the Argentines reacted moderately, along with the Australians, after several days of steady advances.

United States Government obligations were fairly active and steady. Liberty 4th 4¼s reached another new high for the year on a fractional gain.

Public Service Shares Suspended on Curb

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The New York Curb Exchange today suspended dealings in the participating "A" stock, common stock and voting trust certificates for common stock of the Standard Public Service Co. The exchange gave no reason for its action.

The company is a holding concern, owning virtually all of common stock of the Utilities Public Service Co., against which a receivership suit was filed at Wilmington, Del., last month.

Westinghouse Electric Boosts Copper Order

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—F. A. Merrick, president of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., announced today that his company had placed orders for 4,000,000 pounds of copper, an amount "far in excess of current general business demands."

This large scale commitment, Mr. Merrick asserted, was influenced by "sound economic factors" and a "firm belief that business had turned the corner," as well as by a desire to stimulate employment in the basic industries.

Utility Rates Cut Halted in Arkansas

Court Holds Ordinance Void on Insufficient Notice.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Three utilities companies won preliminary legal skirmishes in Federal Court here today against attempts to reduce their rates.

Judge John E. Martineau granted temporary injunctions to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to prevent enforcement of a recent Little Rock city ordinance ordering a reduction of its rates, and to the Southwestern Gas & Electric Co. of Texarkana to prevent a reduction in gas rates at Mena.

An ordinance, ordering a reduction in gas rates in Little Rock was declared void by Judge Martineau on the ground the city council did not give the Little Rock Gas & Fuel Co. the required 30 days' notice.

Kansas Oil Plant Sale To Standard Approved

Neodesha, Kans., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. (Kansas) voted here late today their approval of the sale and disposition of properties at Neodesha, including a refinery and a 50-mile pipe line, to the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

More than 90 per cent of the outstanding stock was voted in favor of the sale announced August 19 by the board of directors. Holders of 200 shares voted against it.

EARLY COTTON GAINS REDUCED AT CLOSE

December Closes at 7.48 as Prices Rise 2 to 6 Points; Liverpool Buys.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—An early advance of approximately $1 a bale in cotton today attracted sufficient realizing and Southern selling to cause partial reactions and rather irregular fluctuations in the later trading.

After selling up to 7.65 early, December broke to 7.46, rallied to 7.56 and closed at 7.48, compared with 7.43 at the previous close. The final tone of the market was steady at net advances of 2 to 6 points.

The opening was 10 to 15 points higher in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of rains in the South. After the close of Liverpool the market lost most of its advance under profit taking and scattered selling. October sold off to 7.33 and March to 7.60 and the close was at or within a point or two of the lowest.

Liverpool cables reported speculative buying and covering on the Southern rains and the agreement in Lancashire labor disputes, adding that British home trade in cotton goods was improving, with a fair business pending.

Liverpool closing quotations for delivery during 1933-34 were 17 to 18 English points higher, at 5.93d for December and 5.97d for March. Exports today, 25,414, making 994,605 so far this season. Port receipts, 40,-268. United States port stocks, 3,544,-120.

WHEAT VALUES HOLD ALMOST UNCHANGED

Market Follows Changes in Securities; Other Grains Are Down.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—In a zigzag market that duplicated the action of securities, wheat prices today ruled alternately strong and weak.

The end was inconclusive, almost exactly at Saturday's closing level, persistent reports that a way would be found to sell another big amount of wheat to China were largely offset for the time being by absence of definite details and by announcement of increased visible supplies both in Canada and the United States. Corn dipped to a new bottom price record for the season.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to ⅛ lower; corn, ⅛ to ½ down; oats, ⅛ to ¼ off and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 25 cents.

Trading Follows Securities.

At first wheat values tended upward, responsive to the course of the New York Stock Market and to talk of unfavorable prospects for the new domestic winter crop. Subsequently, however, securities wavered, and grains followed suit, influenced also by assertions that 1932 wheat production in Italy has been the largest ever known. Another bearish factor was 3,440,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat afloat for Europe, as compared with a week ago.

Buying on price downturns, however, gave the wheat market timely power to rally, and was ascribed to Eastern sources, whereas Northwestern interests were credited with hedging on the hard spots. Meanwhile European markets were generally firm, and Liverpool noted that British stocks of wheat were decreasing in spite of recent liberal arrivals, indicating a good consumer demand. Reports the Farmers National Grain Co. would make sales of United States wheat to China and would discount a Chinese government note with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were widely circulated after the market here had closed.

DIVIDEND DECLARED BY MONTANA POWER

Regular Quarterly of $1.50 on Preferred to Be Paid on October 10.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Announcement was made here today at the offices of the Montana Power Co. that the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share of outstanding preferred stock of $6 series of the Montana Power Co. has been declared.

The dividend is payable November 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business on October 10.

Earnings for the first 31 railroads reporting for August showed net operating income of approximately $9,194,000, against $19,731,000 for the same month last year. This was a decline of 53.4 per cent.

The roads disclosed earnings for the first eight months of 1932 of about $39,575,000, or 68.5 per cent below the $125,571,000 total for the same period last year.

Other roads reporting for the last month were:

Dress Goods in Demand.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Men's wear suitings and women's dress goods continue to move in heavy volume and signs of betterment are noted in overcoatings and topcoatings markets and in women's cloakings, it is reported in the clothing trades.

TAX-EXEMPT ISSUES ATTRACT INVESTORS

Buyers With Large Incomes Looking to Such Loans for Security.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Tax exempt securities, especially those of the municipal, county and State variety, are just now attracting much of the attention of the bond-buying public.

While considerable local government financing is being planned for the next few months, dealers point out that there is little likelihood of the market suffering any congestion owing to the fact that most contemplated issues are relatively small.

"Under the present circumstances," explained one of the larger dealers, "when a man's income passes the $30,000 mark, it is practically impossible for him to get the same security and yield in a taxable investment that he can obtain in a tax-exempt bond. Naturally, this situation has driven many large investors into tax-free securities, creating a scarcity of supply which may become even more pronounced."

Pacific Coast Lumber Business Looking Up

Seattle, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The lumber business in the Pacific northwest is "looking up."

Col. W. B. Greeley, secretary-manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, today said that factors contributing to the improvement of the last six weeks were depletions of stock in lumber yards, a tariff of $4 a thousand feet on imported timber and anticipation on the part of dealers for an increased demand for small home building purposes.

Frisco Extends Time For Depositing Bonds

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, will continue to receive deposits of its bonds under the recapitalization plan, it was announced today following a meeting of the readjustment managers. No time limit was fixed for the future deposits.

Today was to have been the final day for accepting securities under the plan, but it was stated by the readjustment managers that deposits have been received in good volume during the last few days and that because of this an extension of time was felt justified.

FARM CREDIT GROUP PLANNED IN VIRGINIA

Pollard Studies Steps Needed to Aid Crop Production and Cattle Breeding.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today began consideration of steps for the organization of an agricultural credit corporation for the Virginia land bank district, under provisions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act.

The agency will be designed to aid crop production and cattle breeding. It is to be separate from the farm and home loan agencies.

Under terms of the act the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to create in any of the twelve Federal land bank districts a regional agricultural credit corporation with a paid-up capital of not less than $3,000,000.

The money is to be subscribed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and paid for out of the unexpended balance of money allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under Section 2 of the act. The corporation is to be empowered to make loans or advances to farmers and stockmen for agricultural purposes such as crop production and the raising, breeding, fattening and marketing of live stock.

Under the provisions of the law the corporation may charge rates of interest or discount subject to the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It may rediscount with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Reserve and intermediate credit banks any paper it may acquire which is eligible for such purpose.

U. S. Crude Oil Exports Gain 590,000 Barrels

(Associated Press.)

The Department of Commerce reported yesterday that crude oil exports from the United States in August were 2,839,000 barrels, an increase of 590,000 barrels over July, but 17,000 barrels less than August, 1931.

The total August exports of refined products was 5,295,000 barrels, an increase of 610,000 barrels over July and a decrease of 3,051,000 barrels compared with August, 1931.

Cuban Sugar Stronger On Delay of Release

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The decree postponing release of the 700,000 tons of segregated sugar in Cuba to July instead of January, as originally intended, unless the price was established at 1½ cents, cost and freight, for five consecutive days, was signed by President Machado.

It had a steady effect on the market, although it failed to inspire any increased trading, and in quiet trading prices moved within narrow limits. At 2 p. m. the list was net unchanged to 2 points higher.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The American Smelting & Refining Co. today announced a reduction of 10 points in the price of lead, to 3.30 cents a pound, New York.

Brig. Gen. Wade Hayes has been elected a director and deputy chairman of Greater London & Counties Trust, Ltd., which controls numerous public service companies in Great Britain. Gen. Hayes was a member of Gen. Pershing's personal staff during the war.

Reading Co.'s August statement reveals an increase in net operating income as compared with the same month of 1931, and marks the seventh consecutive month of such improvement. The net of $1,069,719 compares with $446,073 in the same month last year, and $649,779 for July this year. It is reported that Reading's September car loadings have been running ahead of August, though well below the same month last year.

Business failures in the past week, as reported by Dun's, totaled 529, compared with 515 in the preceding week. During July and August the insolvency rate ran above 600 weekly.

Charles G. Munn, president of Reynolds Spring Co., said today that 800 employes would go back to work at the Jackson, Mich., plants between now and October 15.

Standard Oil Co. of Pennsylvania has reduced tank wagon and service station prices of gasoline 1 cent a gallon in eastern Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and 1½ cents in the western part of the State.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, will make the principal address at the launching ceremonies for the Grace liner Santa Lucia at Kearny, N. J., on October 3.

Wall street is inclined to look for declaration of the regular dividends by the Allied Chemical and American Can boards tomorrow. The rate on Allied Chemical is $1.50 quarterly, and on American Can, $1.

Plans are maturing for a reconstruction of the properties formerly owned by the American Natural Gas Corporation under a new company, in which certain security holders of the liquidated company will share, it was reported today. The company was formerly a unit in the Tri-Utilities Corporation.

Cotton Consumption Increases.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—World consumption of American cotton increased 112,000 bales from July to August, the New York Cotton Exchange Service reports. Spinners used 1,028,000 bales during August, against 916,000 bales in July, and 940,000 in August, 1931. The increase was entirely due to a larger consumption in the United States, according to the service.

Sugar Melting Decreases.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The melt of fourteen United States sugar refiners from January 1 to September 19 totaled 2,835,000 long tons, compared with 3,210,000 in the same period of 1931. Deliveries totaled 2,915,000 long tons, against 2,990,000 a year ago.

Dollar Is Firm Abroad.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The dollar again opened firm in the foreign exchange market, the British pound sterling reacting ⅞ cent, to $3.45½.

Security Frauds Listed at Billions

National Real Estate Group Told "Bluebeards" Racket Leads.

Cincinnati, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The National Association of Real Estate Commissioners was told today that "bluebeards in the securities field rob the public of more money each year than all the petty thieves, bandits and bank robbers combined."

The statement was made by E. R. Hicks, of Little Rock, Ark., president of the association, at the opening of its annual meeting here today. His group is composed of securities commissioners from throughout the United States, banded to combat sale of "wildcat" securities.

"The 'racket' in fraudulent securities in New York alone," he said, "according to State crime commission, amounts to $400,000,000 annually. * * * The reward of racketeering in the United States, according to the crime commission, is from $12,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000 a year. That would pay the expense of running all the departments of the National Government, including bond interest, amortization of the national debt, and leave billions to spare."

ROBERT H. McNEILL and LEVI H. DAVID, Attorneys.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE District of Columbia. Holding an Equity Court. In re: National Contracting Corporation, a body corporate. In Equity No. 54187. Notice is hereby given, as follows: On April 4, 1932, the court appointed Robert H. McNeill and Leonard J. Ganse, ancillary receivers of the above-named National Contracting Corporation, a body corporate, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Virginia, with power and authority to receive and take into their custody all the assets, property and estate of the said corporation, located in the District of Columbia, and with specific power and authority to demand, collect and receive from the United States, or the Secretary of the Treasury, or the Treasurer of the United States, or any other official of the United States, any warrant, check or money due or payable to said National Contracting Corporation, in connection with the contract between the United States and the said National Contracting Corporation for performance of work at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, and receipt therefor, and hold the same subject to further orders of the court. On August 19, 1932, said receivers filed a report in said cause, informing the court that on July 21, 1932, they received from the United States Treasury a United States Treasury check in the sum of $7,503.30, payable to the order of National Contracting Corporation, H. Woodward Windburn and F. W. Acklis, domiciliary receivers, and Robert H. McNeill and Leonard J. Ganse, ancillary receivers, the same being balance in final settlement under contract No. W-6118-qm-27, dated September 11, 1932, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing work required for construction and completion of officers' and non-commissioned officers' quarters at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland. Upon consideration of said report, the court ordered, as follows: "1. That Leonard J. Ganse be and he is hereby appointed attorney for said ancillary receivers. 2. That this cause be and it is hereby referred to the auditor of this court, to whom shall cause notice by advertisement to be given to all persons and corporations having claims and accounts against the said National Contracting Corporation to prove the same before the auditor, who is hereby given authority to pass upon the same, and who shall thereafter report his recommendations with reference thereto to this court; and the auditor shall also state and audit the account of the ancillary receivers herein, and he shall recommend to this court proper and reasonable allowances to the said ancillary receivers, and to their attorney, for services rendered by them in this cause." In pursuance of said order, the auditor has fixed and appointed TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1932, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., as the time, and the Auditor's Office in the United States Court House, Washington, D. C., as the place for a hearing and the taking of testimony under said order, at which time and place all persons and corporations having claims and accounts against said National Contracting Corporation are hereby warned to appear and prove such claims and accounts. A. LEETWICH SINCLAIR, Auditor of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. se12.27oc12

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ONCE a semipro baseball player around his home town sandlots, Michael J. Flanagan, of Bridgeport, Conn., gave up baseball in his youth to become an attorney—and in so doing paved the way for his becoming one of the outstanding baseball champions. He is a champion baseball fan; he holds a record of having witnessed every game of every world series since 1903.

When the championship play-off rolls around, Attorney Flanagan gives up his duties as clerk of the Superior Court in Bridgeport and goes wherever the teams go. He has become one of the traditions of world series play, and in the 1931 series was a guest of Connie Mack, riding on the Athletics' special train back and forth between St. Louis and Philadelphia.

Mr. Flanagan owns one of the most complete private baseball libraries in the Nation. He values it so highly that it is kept safely under lock and key at the Fairfield County Courthouse. His reason for following baseball so closely for many years: He was in the game himself.

All the vast treasures that lie on the bottom of the ocean account for but a very small percentage of the gold that is actually in the sea. In solution with sea water, scientists find there is $14,000,000 worth of gold for every person on earth. The catch is: It takes $10 worth of work to get $1 worth of gold from sea water.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

WHEAT VALUES HOLD ALMOST UNCHANGED

Market Follows Changes in Securities; Other Grains Are Down.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—In a zigzag market that duplicated the action of securities, wheat prices today ruled alternately strong and weak.

The end was inconclusive, almost exactly at Saturday's closing level, persistent reports that a way would be found to sell another big amount of wheat to China were largely offset for the time being by absence of definite details and by announcement of increased visible supplies both in Canada and the United States. Corn dipped to a new bottom price record for the season.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to ⅛ lower; corn, ⅛ to ½ down; oats, ⅛ to ¼ off and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 25 cents.

Trading Follows Securities.

At first wheat values tended upward, responsive to the course of the New York Stock Market and to talk of unfavorable prospects for the new domestic winter crop. Subsequently, however, securities wavered, and grains followed suit, influenced also by assertions that 1932 wheat production in Italy has bee nthe largest ever known. Another bearish factor was 3,440,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat afloat for Europe, as compared with a week ago.

Buying on price downturns, however, gave the wheat market timely power to rally, and was ascribed to Eastern sources, whereas Northwestern interests were credited with hedging on the hard spots. Meanwhile European markets were generally firm, and Liverpool noted that British stocks of wheat were decreasing in spite of recent liberal arrivals, indicating a good consumer demand. Reports the Farmers National Grain Co. would make sales of United States wheat to China and would discount a Chinese government note with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were widely circulated after the market here had closed.

Big receipts of corn in Chicago, 523 cars today, put a weight on corn and oats prices.

Dress Goods in Demand.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Men's wear suitings and women's dress goods continue to move in heavy volume and signs of betterment are noted in overcoatings and topcoatings markets and in women's cloakings, it is reported in the clothing trades.

TAX-EXEMPT ISSUES ATTRACT INVESTORS

Buyers With Large Incomes Looking to Such Loans for Security.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Tax exempt securities, especially those of the municipal, county and State variety, are just now attracting much of the attention of the bond-buying public.

While considerable local government financing is being planned for the next few months, dealers point out that there is little likelihood of the market suffering any congestion owing to the fact that most contemplated issues are relatively small.

"Under the present circumstances," explained one of the larger dealers, "when a man's income passes the $30,000 mark, it is practically impossible for him to get the same security and yield in a tax-exempt that he can obtain in a tax-exempt bond. Naturally, this situation has driven many large investors into tax-free securities, creating a scarcity of supply which may become even more pronounced."

Pacific Coast Lumber Business Looking Up

Seattle, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The lumber business in the Pacific northwest is "looking up."

Col. W. B. Greeley, secretary-manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, today said that factors contributing to the improvement of the last six weeks were depletions of stock in lumber yards, a tariff of $4 a thousand feet on imported timber and anticipation on the part of dealers for an increased demand for small home building purposes.

Frisco Extends Time For Depositing Bonds

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway will continue to receive deposits of its bonds under the recapitalization plan, it was announced today following a meeting of the readjustment managers. No time limit was fixed for the future deposits.

Today was to have been the final day for accepting securities under the plan, but it was stated by the readjustment managers that deposits have been received in good volume during the last few days and, that because of this an extension of time was felt justified.

FARM CREDIT GROUP PLANNED IN VIRGINIA

Pollard Studies Steps Needed to Aid Crop Production and Cattle Breeding.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today began consideration of steps for the organization of an agricultural credit corporation for the Virginia land bank district, under provisions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act.

The agency will be designed to aid crop production and cattle breeding. It is to be separate from the farm and home loan agencies.

Under terms of the act the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to create in any of the twelve Federal land bank districts a regional agricultural credit corporation with a paid-up capital of not less than $3,000,000.

The money is to be subscribed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and paid for out of the unexpended balance of money allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under Section 2 of the act. The corporation is to be empowered to make loans or advances to farmers and stockmen for agricultural purposes such as crop production and the raising, breeding, fattening and marketing of live stock.

Under the provisions of the law the corporation may charge rates of interest or discount subject to the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It may rediscount with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Reserve and intermediate credit banks any paper it may acquire which is eligible for such purpose.

U. S. Crude Oil Exports Gain 590,000 Barrels

(Associated Press.)

The Department of Commerce reported yesterday that crude oil exports from the United States in August were 2,839,000 barrels, an increase of 590,000 barrels over July, but 17,000 barrels less than August, 1931.

The total August exports of refined products was 5,295,000 barrels, an increase of 610,000 barrels over July and a decrease of 3,051,000 barrels compared with August, 1931.

Cuban Sugar Stronger On Delay of Release

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The decree postponing release of the 700,000 tons of segregated sugar in Cuba to July instead of January, as originally intended, unless the price was established at 1½ cents, cost and freight, for five consecutive days, was signed by President Machado.

It had a steady effect on the market, although it failed to inspire any increased trading, and in quiet trading prices moved within narrow limits. At 2 p. m. the list was net unchanged to 2 points higher.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The American Smelting & Refining Co. today announced a reduction of 10 points in the price of lead, to 3.30 cents a pound, New York.

Brig. Gen. Wade Hayes has been elected a director and deputy chairman of Greater London & Counties Trust, Ltd., which controls numerous public service companies in Great Britain. Gen. Hayes was a member of Gen. Pershing's personal staff during the war.

Reading Co.'s August statement reveals an increase in net operating income as compared with the same month of 1931, and marks the seventh consecutive month of such improvement. The net of $1,069,719 compares with $446,073 in the same month last year, and $649,779 for July this year. It is reported that Reading's September car loadings have been running ahead of August, though well below the same month last year.

Business failures in the past week, as reported by Dun's, totaled 529, compared with 515 in the preceding week. During July and August the insolvency rate ran above 600 weekly.

Charles G. Munn, president of Reynolds Spring Co., said today that 800 employes would go back to work at the Jackson, Mich., plants between now and October 15.

Standard Oil Co. of Pennsylvania has reduced tank wagon and service station prices of gasoline 1 cent a gallon in eastern Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and 1½ cents in the western part of the State.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, will make the principal address at the launching ceremonies for the Grace liner Santa Lucia at Kearny, N. J., on October 3.

Wall street is inclined to look for declaration of the regular dividends by the Allied Chemical and American Can boards tomorrow. The rate on Allied Chemical is $1.50 quarterly, and on American Can, $1.

Plans are maturing for a reconstruction of the properties formerly owned by the American Natural Gas Corporation under a new company, in which certain security holders of the liquidated company will share, it was reported today. The company was formerly a unit in the Tri-Utilities Corporation.

Cotton Consumption Increases.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—World consumption of American cotton increased 112,000 bales from July to August, the New York Cotton Exchange Service reports. Spinners used 1,028,000 bales during August, against 916,000 bales in July, and 940,000 in August, 1931. The increase was entirely due to a larger consumption in the United States, according to the service.

Sugar Melting Decreases.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The melt of fourteen United States sugar refiners from January 1 to September 19 totaled 2,835,000 long tons, compared with 3,210,000 in the same period of 1931. Deliveries totaled 2,815,000 long tons, against 2,990,000 a year ago.

Dollar Is Firm Abroad.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The dollar again opened firm in the foreign exchange market, the British pound sterling reacting ⅛ cent, to $3.45½.

Security Frauds Listed at Billions

National Real Estate Group Told "Bluebeards" Racket Leads.

Cincinnati, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The National Association of Real Estate Commissioners was told today that "bluebeards in the securities field rob the public of more money each year than all the petty thieves, bandits and bank robbers combined."

The statement was made by E. R. Hicks, of Little Rock, Ark., president of the association, at the opening of its annual meeting here today. His group is composed of securities commissioners from throughout the United States, banded to combat sale of "wildcat" securities.

"The 'racket' in fraudulent securities in New York alone," he said, "according to State crime commission, amounts to $400,000,000 annually. * * * The reward of racketeering in the United States, according to the crime commission, is from $12,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000 a year. That would pay the expense of running all the departments of the National Government, including bond interest, amortization of the national debt, and leave billions to spare."

ROBERT H. McNEILL and LEVI H. DAVID, Attorneys.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. Holding an Equity Court. In re: National Contracting Corporation, a body corporate. In Equity No. 54187. Notice is hereby given, as follows: On April 4, 1932, the court appointed Robert H. McNeill and Leonard J. Ganse, ancillary receivers of the abovenamed National Contracting Corporation, a body corporate, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Virginia, with power and authority to receive and take into their custody all the assets, property and estate of the said corporation, located in the District of Columbia, and with specific power and authority to demand, collect and receive from the United States, or the Secretary of the Treasury, or the Treasurer of the United States, or any other official of the United States, any warrant, check or money due or payable to said National Contracting Corporation, in connection with the contract between the United States and the said National Contracting Corporation for performance of work at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, and receipt therefor, and hold the same subject to further orders of the court. On August 19, 1932, said receivers filed a report in said cause, informing the court that on July 21, 1932, they received from the United States Treasury, a United States Treasury check in the sum of $7,503.30, payable to the order of National Contracting Corporation, H. Woodward Windburn and P. W. Ackiss, domiciliary receivers, and Robert H. McNeill and Leonard J. Ganse, ancillary receivers, the same being balance in final settlement under contract No. W-6118-qm-27, dated September 1, 1932, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing work required for construction and completion of officers' and non-commissioned officers' quarters at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland. Upon consideration of said report, the court ordered, as follows: "1. That Levid H. David be, and he is hereby appointed attorney for said ancillary receivers. 2. That this cause be and it is hereby referred to the auditor of this court, who shall cause notice by advertisement to be given to all persons and corporations having claims and accounts against the said National Contracting Corporation to prove the same before the auditor, and he is hereby given authority to pass upon the same, and who shall thereafter report his recommendations with reference thereto to this court; and the auditor shall also state and audit the account of the ancillary receivers herein, and he shall recommend to this court proper and reasonable allowances to the said ancillary receivers, and to their attorney, for services rendered by them in this cause." In pursuance of said order, the auditor has fixed and appointed TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1932, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., as the time, and the auditor's office in the United States Court House, Washington, D. C., as the place for a hearing and the taking of testimony under said order, at which time and place all persons and corporations having claims and accounts against said National Contracting Corporation are hereby warned to appear and prove such claims and accounts. A. LEFTWICH SINCLAIR, Auditor of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. se12.27oc12

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ONCE a semipro baseball player around his home town sandlots, Michael J. Flanagan, of Bridgeport, Conn., gave up baseball in his youth to become an attorney—and in so doing paved the way for his becoming one of the outstanding baseball champions. He is a champion baseball fan; he holds a record of having witnessed every game of every world series since 1903.

When the championship play-off rolls around, Attorney Flanagan gives up his duties as clerk of the Superior Court in Bridgeport and goes wherever the teams go. He has become one of the traditions of world series play, and in the 1931 series was a guest of Connie Mack, riding on the Athletics' special train back and forth between St. Louis and Philadelphia.

Mr. Flanagan owns one of the most complete private baseball libraries in the Nation. He values it so highly that it is kept safely under lock and key at the Fairfield County Courthouse. His reason for following baseball so closely for many years: He was in the game himself.

All the vast treasures that lie on the bottom of the ocean account for but a very small percentage of the gold that is actually in the sea. In solution with sea water, scientists find there is $14,000,000 worth of gold for every person on earth. The catch is: It takes $10 worth of work to get $1 worth of gold from sea water.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

MODEL IS ADJUDGED SUICIDE AND SPEIDEL IS FREED OF BLAME

Artist Nearly Collapses on Hearing Detective Tell Jury of Romance.

The death of Sylvia Rochkin, 23-year-old artist's model, was self-caused, a coroner's jury decided yesterday and exonerated George B. Speidel, who was asleep in the houseboat moored in Little River, where the model strangled herself with a bathrobe cord.

In four hours of testimony, the existence together of the 30-year-old amateur artist and the Corcoran Art School model was described to the curious throng that jammed the District Morgue.

Frequently during the testimony of Detective Sergt. John C. Dalglish, Speidel was on the brink of emotional collapse as the homicide detective told the lurid tale of their relationship.

Questioning Is Denied.

Again the proceedings were interrupted when Mrs. Laura Kramer and Benjamin Rochkin, sister and brother of the dead girl, sought to interrogate the witness. This was declined after a conference of Coroner Joseph D. Rogers, Assistant United States Attorney John R. Fitzpatrick and Joseph D. Kelly, attorney for Speidel.

"We're all conventional people," Mrs. Kramer testified, adding that she did not know Speidel and her sister were unmarried until after the sister's death.

For the most part, those who listened to the story of the unconventional lives of Speidel and the model were those of the Capital's art colony and students of the George Washington University School of Art and the Corcoran School of Art who had painted or etched in life the figure of the model.

Will Not Reopen Case.

After the verdict of the jury, the sister and brother conferred with Mr. Fitzpatrick. Neither the assistant United States Attorney nor the girl's relatives would comment on the nature of the discussion. It is understood, however, that no attempt will be made by them to reopen the case.

The aged and widowed mother of the dead girl is at the family home in Ozone Park, Long Island, still ignorant of the death of her daughter. The news of the tragedy has been withheld from her because of her ill health. The girl has been buried, her sister said, but declined to say in what cemetery.

Contrary to previous announcements by Speidel's attorney, the amateur artist did not testify. All of his story was told by Dalglish, who read a statement of Speidel. The girl was in "extreme mental anguish" the day before her body was found, the statement said. Her body was found on Friday. On Monday she underwent a criminal operation. This anguish was attributed by Speidel to the loss of her child.

Seek to Clear Girl's Name.

Questions suggested by the relatives of the dead girl to Mr. Fitzpatrick indicated that their chief concern was the clearance of the girl's name. In New York, the testimony showed, Speidel referred to himself, in a conference with Mrs. Kramer, as "your new brother-in-law."

The romance between Speidel and Miss Rochkin was made with full knowledge "on her part of my marital status," the statement of Speidel said. Speidel is separated from his wife and 5-year-old son.

The statement told of Speidel's discovery of the girl's body, suspended by the bathrobe cord from a nail in a rafter in the galley of the houseboat which was moored near Rosslyn. Speidel then tore the nail and cord from the rafter and carried her to a couch. Then he summoned aid.

Note Pasted Together.

Patrolman Carl G. McCormick said he found the girl's body on a couch, with the bathrobe cord and nail under her head. A suicide note, written in Miss Rochkin's handwriting, which had been torn to pieces, was introduced in evidence.

The note was found by Dalglish and pasted together. It asked that "George" be not blamed for "what I have done," and asked that "no one should grieve for me." This was compared with a specimen of Speidel's handwriting and shown to be dissimilar.

Once, during the summer, Speidel's statement said, he sent money to her in New York to have the illegal operation performed, but she did not go through with her plans. Then on Monday Miss Rochkin called him at the city postoffice, where he is employed, and told him she had had the operation. He then rented the houseboat from Harry Lindenschmidt, a friend.

Friend Killed Self.

In an oral statement, Dalglish testified, Speidel repeated a statement attributed to Miss Rochkin that a sweetheart of hers named "Philip" had committed suicide in New York last winter.

The jury which returned the verdict was composed of F. E. Huxley, William Fitzhugh, Clifford Allder, George C. Dalglish, brother of the detective sergeant; Ernest Jasper and Andrew Peterman.

Two Sue for $50,000 After Car Collision

Thelma L. Taylor, of 1418 K street northwest, yesterday was named defendant in two damage suits aggregating $50,000. The suits, filed in District Supreme Court, are the outgrowth of an automobile accident at Eighteenth and L streets northwest on May 27.

Helen Nachman, of 4315 Fifteenth street northwest, and Melvyn L. Kraft, of 4319 Fifteenth street northwest, brought the suits. They claim Miss Nachman and Kraft were badly injured when they were struck by another car while riding in the Taylor machine. Each ask $25,000.

Boy, 6, Is Bitten by Dog Led by Policeman's Son

William E. Teachout, 6, of 3520 W place northwest, suffered slight abrasions to his hip yesterday when he was bitten by a dog as he walked along the street near his home.

The dog was in custody of John Ostrom, son of Policeman Walter R. Ostrom. Private Ostrom took William to Georgetown Hospital, where it was found the dog's teeth failed to break the skin.

TWO-ZONE TRACTION PARLEY IS DUE SOON

Proposal Is Seen as Help to Autoists in Parking, and Trolley Company.

A conference between traction company officials and the Public Utilities Commission on the proposed two-zone, 5 and 10 cent fare, will likely be held within the next two weeks, People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech last night told the Mid-City Citizens Association at a meeting in the Thomson School.

To date, he said, the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. have indicated a willingness to confer on the proposal, while action of the conference on the suggested changes is expected to be taken tomorrow by the board of directors of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

If the two-zone system is placed in effect, Mr. Keech said, there will be a decided alleviation of parking congestion in the downtown areas. The 5-cent zone, which would encompass an area within a radius of 1 mile of Fourteenth street and New York avenue, would permit autoists from the outlying sections to drive to a suitable parking space within the outer bounds of this zone and then continue to their offices for 5 cents.

In this manner, he said, many who have to pay for parking privileges would save money. "The traction companies," he said, "are in desperate circumstance and unless something is done, we may lose this method of transportation."

A resolution was adopted thanking the Public Utilities Commission for its action in reducing telephone and gas consumption rates.

Capt. Hugh H. Groves, who was recently transferred from the Second Police Precinct, was praised for his work while in charge of that area, and his successor, Capt. J. W. Pierson, was welcomed by the association.

The association voted to participate in the Halloween parade. Election of officers will be held at the next meeting.

LEGAL PROFESSION DECLARED AT PEAK

Now Is Best Time to Enter, Justice Booth Tells National University Group.

Advances in the field of invention and discovery make the present "the most auspicious" time to enter the legal profession, Chief Justice Fenton W. Booth, of the United States Court of Claims, declared in an address last night at the opening of the sixty-fourth fall term of National University.

Judge Booth was one of six members of National's law school faculty to address the student assembly.

"With the great inventions, innovations, discoveries and practices that have come in during the last few years and are continuing to come," Judge Booth said, "I believe that you new law students are entering the legal profession in the most auspicious era of its history. These 'new things' mean new problems for legal solutions and you can solve some of these problems. I say further that because of the complicity of present life, there never was greater opportunity for a lawyer to make a name than the present."

In his introductory, Dr. Hayden Johnson, chancellor of the university, reviewed the development of legal education.

Commenting upon the serious injury Sunday of Dr. Percy Hickling, alienist for the District and professor of medical jurisprudence at National, Dr. Johnson announced that Dr. Hickling's course, originally scheduled for this term, will be presented in the spring term.

Other speakers at the opening of the law school included Justice Peyton Gordon, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, who outlined his course in bankruptcy, and Justice Oscar R. Luhring, associate justice of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, who introduced briefly his course in suretyship.

Boy, 11, Bitten by Dog.

Eleven-year-old Conrad Cumberland, of 121 Gales street northeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital for a dog bite which he suffered while playing near his home.

M'DUFFIE AND WOOD JOIN IN MODIFYING WAGE-CUT DEMANDS

Democratic Whip in Favor of Restoration of Pay When Conditions Warrant.

Representative John McDuffie, Democratic whip of the House and leading exponent of Government wage reductions, yesterday lined up with Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, in modifying salary slashing demands of the last congressional session.

Simultaneously, Typographical Union officials here, who pressed both representatives for their present views on wages, announced they are not satisfied with the positions taken by either.

In Favor of Restoration.

Representative McDuffie advised the Democratic national campaign committee he is "in favor of restoring the wages taken from the Federal employes just as fast as the income of the Goverment will make this possible."

This is substantially the position taken by Representative Wood, who initiated the wage cut offensive. The McDuffie statement was in response to a question directly put by Clyde M. Mills, president of Columbia Typographical Union No. 101.

"Columbia Typographical Union now has on file the policies of the leading wage cut advocates of the last Congress, both Republican and Democrat, and is not satisfied with either," Mr. Mills said in a statement commenting on the McDuffie views.

Same Line of Reasoning.

"We requested information from Representatives Wood and McDuffie in the belief that their individual convictions are reflected in their respective parties. Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the House appropriations committee, recently followed the same line of reasoning as Representative McDuffie.

"The statements say, in substance, that when, in the opinion of certain members of Congress, the income of the Federal Government justifies, the wages will be restored to former levels. But we fail to find anywhere a statement advising the taxpayers that Congress determines the income and the expenditure.

"The Typographical Union, with more than 80,000 members in 800 cities and towns in the United States, will oppose, by every means at its command, the election of candidates who have in the past supported wage reductions as the principal means to economy or those who expect to do so in the future. Fair treatment must be accorded our members in every employment, governmental or private."

Woman Taken in Liquor Chase Pleads Not Guilty

Miss Frances Windsor, 24 years old, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of possession of liquor, following her arrest after a hectic chase from Prince Georges County into the District, during which the car in which she was riding was abandoned by the man who was driving.

Miss Windsor refused to name her companion. The car was found to have a load of half-gallon jars of alleged liquor. Policeman Knight pursued the car from Hyattsville to the city line. She pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial.

Prisoner's Charge Of Brutality Falls

X-Ray Fails to Disclose Arm Fracture, Alleged Result of Arrest.

An investigation launched by Capt. W. E. Holmes, of the First Precinct, when a prisoner claimed that his arm was broken by a policeman who twisted it, was dropped yesterday as an X-ray of the arm disclosed no fracture and the prisoner decided not to prosecute the case, after a hearing in the District Attorney's office.

A painter, who gave his name as "Charles Young," 25, who police later identified as Charles Laughter, claimed that Policeman Paul G. Withers had broken his arm with a pair of steel nippers while placing him under arrest on a charge of being drunk.

Capt. Holmes discredited Laughter's statement and said that if there was some injury to the man's arm that it was probably caused previous to his arrest. Another prisoner, Joseph C. Oxford, who was placed in the same cell as Laughter, told police that the man told him conflicting stories of his injury.

Bricklayer Is Injured In Fall From Scaffold

A 10-foot plunge from a scaffold on a house at 5927 Georgia avenue northwest, yesterday sent William McCoy, 26-year-old bricklayer, to Emergency Hospital with a fractured left wrist and severe lacerations.

McCoy, who lives at 1631 S street northwest, was working on the scaffold when he apparently lost his footing and fell.

$95,000 Suits Filed In Saturday Car Crash

An automobile accident Saturday resulted in the filing of damage suits totaling $95,000 in District Supreme Court yesterday. Henry Warren, of Scott Inn, was named as the defendant. Mrs. Sarah S. Porter, her husband, Frank S. Porter, 4512 Thirteenth street northwest, and Charlotte M. Wood, 1326 Quincy street northwest, are the plaintiffs.

The suits charge that Warren failed to stop his car at a stop sign at Thirteenth and Euclid streets northwest, with the result that it struck the car occupied by the Porters and Miss Wood. All were injured. The wife wants $25,000; her husband asks $20,000, and Miss Wood seeks $50,000 for injuries.

Speeder Draws Jail Term.

A sentence of 25 days in jail for speeding was imposed on Eldridge B. Shipley, of Baltimore, when he was unable to pay a fine of $25 levied on him in Hyattsville police court yesterday.

Police Rout Skunk With Water Hose

"I came, I saw, I conquered," might have been the answer of a stoic little denizen of the woods which sauntered out of its habitat to inspect the front porch of the residence of Francis Dorsey, of 4714 Forty-eighth street northwest, yesterday, and returned after creating a furor in the neighborhood and a problem to police.

Household pets in the vicinity and children who lived within a radius of a mile gathered to eye "Jimmy" the skunk, but the gentle creature let no one hinder its rambling gait. Police were hastily called and when Privates Frank Savage and John W. Peters, of the Eighth Precinct, arrived, their first concern was to remove every one from the immediate vicinity.

Persuasion failing, police thought it ill-advised to use force, and finally decided to try bathing the furry creature with a hose. "Jimmy" took the stream of water in good faith and after glorying in its coolness, took a leisurely amble back to the nearby forest.

107 PER CENT RISE IN RELIEF SHOWN

Total Expenditure Here for July, 1932, Was $67,461, Survey Reveals.

An increase of 107 per cent in relief expenditures for July, 1932, over the corresponding month last year was reported yesterday by the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department, following a survey of the relief work conducted by twelve agencies here.

Total relief expenditures here during July amounted to $67,461 as compared with $32,576 in July last year.

Relief expenditures in 125 cities during July totaled $21,760,238, a decline of 4 per cent from the June total, but an increase of 87 per cent over July, 1931. The bureau said its figures came from 976 agencies and totaled approximately the same amount spent in December, 1931.

The greatest increase in relief work expenditures, the bureau reported, between July, 1931, and July, 1932, came in the field of general relief which increased 124.2 per cent. During this period, work relief increased 76.5 per cent and special allowances 15.8 per cent.

While all types of direct relief declined between June and July, the bureau reported, 782 agencies reported a total increase in the number of families receiving certain types of assistance, 761,372 in July, as compared with 755,715 in June, a rise of 0.7 per cent. Emergency relief committees gave aid to 46 per cent more families than in June, while other agencies also showed an increase.

Man Beaten by Robber Who Steals His Watch

Attacked and severely beaten by a thug who robbed him of a gold watch valued at $15, Walter Johnson, 38 years old, of 5735 Sherrier place northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital yesterday, after reporting the attack to police.

Johnson said he was standing at Fourteenth and N streets northwest, when he was struck from behind with a blunt instrument. He fell to the sidewalk, he told police, and was forced to surrender his watch to a colored man. The man fled, Johnson said, after striking him again as he lay on the ground.

GREAT RALLY URGED TO INCREASE VALUE OF RELIEF EFFORTS

Monday Evening Club Sees Need of Coordinating Private and Public Aid.

Aroused by reports of huge deficits in relief funds and by the warning that Washington faces a graver winter than the last one, the Monday Evening Club last night adopted resolutions urging its executive committee to call a mass meeting of citizens with the view to bringing about better coordination between public and private relief organizations.

"It is essential that there be developed in the immediate future a city-wide program for the financing and administration of relief, both public and private, during the coming year, which will meet with the approval and enlist the participation of public officials, the directors of private welfare work and the community as a whole," the resolutions stated.

The club recommended the Board of Public Welfare to study social and environmental conditions in Washington, with the view to safeguarding children and diminishing poverty, disease and crime. The results of such an investigation, the club recommended, should be presented to the District Commissioners. This would result, it is hoped, in institution of remedial measures to meet existing needs.

Welfare Board Deficit.

In asking that a mass meeting of citizens be called, the club recommended that the date be set at the time of the opening of Congress and the inauguration of the Community Chest campaign.

Leroy A. Halbert, supervisor of the division of emergency relief of the Board of Public Welfare, told the club that the board faces a deficit of $700,000 for the coming year. He outlined the causes and consequences of this situation and stressed its gravity.

Walter S. Ufford, general secretary of the Associated Charities, declared that relief disbursements of $370,000 will be needed this year to care for the unemployed, aged, destitute and sick. This sum is nearly double the relief expenditures of last year, Mr. Ufford pointed out.

$50,000 Needed Monthly.

"If private charity is to care for those not eligible for public unemployment relief or those for whom the present public appropriation is insufficient, the sum of $50,000 a month during the coming year will be the minimum that must be provided from private funds if the actual need is to be met," Mr. Ufford said.

Mr. Ufford followed this announcement with the presentation of the resolution asking for a study of conditions by the Board of Public Welfare.

The Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, minister of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, stressed the importance of keeping up the morale of destitute citizens through a definite appeal to the sense of spiritual values of the community.

Other leaders of relief societies indorsed the recommendations of the speakers.

Veteran, 89 Years Old, Hurt in Crash of Autos

John T. Cavanaugh, 89-year-old Civil War veteran, was taken to Walter Reed Hospital yesterday, suffering from lacerations to his knee and severe shock following an automobile accident at Eighth and Longfellow streets northwest.

Mr. Cavanaugh was a passenger in the machine of his wife, Mrs. Mary L. Cavanaugh. Their machine was in collision with a car driven by Audrey Gerber, 25 years old, of 4609 Ninth street northwest. The aged man was thrown against the side of the car. The couple live at 719 Sheridan street northwest.

ENGINEERS TO VIEW ROLES IN RECOVERY

Technical Men Are Urged to Organize as One Closely Knit Society.

The part that engineers can take in economic reconstruction will be discussed this morning by Dr. Henry Arnstein, of Philadelphia, noted consulting chemical engineer, at the convention of the American Association of Engineers at the Shoreham Hotel.

Dr. Arnstein's address is expected to be one of the high lights of the convention, which opened yesterday. The engineer is one of the world's outstanding specialists in producing alcohol from base materials. He has established plants for this work in a number of foreign countries.

David Lawrence, editor of the United States Daily, will address the engineers at a luncheon today. This afternoon the engineers will inspect the Navy Yard. Wives of the delegates will be received by Mrs. Hoover at the White House and will attend a tea at the National Women's Country Club. This evening a smoker and entertainment will be held for the men and a bridge party for the women.

Separate Societies.

The engineers were welcomed at their opening session yesterday by Maj. Paul A. Hodgson, Assistant Engineer Commissioner of the District. Bishop James E. Freeman pronounced the invocation.

Erle K. Ramsey, national president of the association, told the engineers that they should make efforts to form themselves into one powerful organization.

The profession, he said, has been diverging into an increasing number of separate component parts, each with its own society—the civil, mechanical, electrical and mining engineers.

Criticism Is Voiced.

Mr. Ramsey criticized engineers for being content to allow the profession to remain open to any charlatan who may call himself an engineer, because it is unlicensed and unregistered.

At the opening business session this morning the engineers are expected to discuss methods of protecting their profession against indiscriminate operators.

Chester Leasure, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, spoke at the luncheon yesterday. In the afternoon the engineers inspected the Bureau of Standards and visited National Cathedral on Mount St. Alban.

Bus Line Hearing Postponed.

Because Maj. John C. Gotwals wanted more time to read the record, the Public Utilities Commission postponed until tomorrow or Thursday action on the application of the Greyhound Bus Lines for permission to establish a terminal on the north side of New York avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

PHONE COMPANY'S AFFIDAVITS FILED ON RATES APPEAL

C. & P. Bares Contentions on Which It Will Seek Writ Against Cut.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday served the Public Utilities Commission with copies of affidavits filed in connection with its appeal to the District Supreme Court from the commission order reducing all private subscriber rates 10 per cent on October 1. Meanwhile William A. Roberts, special counsel for the commission, and People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech prepared to defend the order at a hearing Thursday on the telephone company's request for a temporary restraining order.

An affidavit from William F. Sloan, Chicago utility expert, was added to the court file yesterday although the greater part of Mr. Sloan's testimony was stricken from the record during the recent public hearing. It was Mr. Sloan's testimony as to depreciation and his estimate of a $4,000,000 "going concern" value which enabled the telephone company to build up its $39,000,000 reproduction cost.

Othe affidavits by Harry C. Gretz, auditor, and Harold E. Doyle, of the Washington Real Estate Board appraisal committee, and H. Clinton Smith, expert on structural depreciation, were filed in court to enable the justice to get a digest of the telephone company's contentions without reading the record of more than 2,000 pages.

It is generally expected that Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat will issue the temporary restraining order after the hearing Thursday, and that the commission order will consequently be tied up for many months pending a final decision by the courts.

The telephone company, meanwhile, will doubtless be ordered to impound a sufficient amount of money, o to girve adequate bond so as to be able to make refunds to its subscribers should be public utilities order be finally sustained.

Roosevelt Backer Cheers; Arrested

Yells as President Places Stone at Postoffice Building Rite.

Cheering for one's favorite presidential candidate may be all right, but Edward C. Wells, 33, of Bradberry Heights, Va., found himself in a police station on a drunk charge because, as he claimed, he yelled "Hooray for Roosevelt!" while President Hoover was officiating at the laying of the corner stone of the new Postoffice Department Building yesterday.

Lieut. Milton D. Smith, of the Traffic Bureau, arrested Wells when he received a complaint that the man was causing a disturbance. Wells, according to Lieut. Smith, was pointed out to him. Wells denied being drunk and claimed his only mistake was cheering for his favorite presidential candidate.

The arresting officer said that although he heard some one cheer, whatever Wells may have yelled had nothing to do with the arrest. Wells told police he is a war veteran.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling Recovering From Fall

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist and noted expert on mental diseases, who suffered serious injuries Sunday night when he plunged 12 feet down a small elevator shaft at his home, 1304 Rhode Island avenue northwest, was reported as "much improved" last night at Emergency Hospital.

It was feared at first that Dr. Hickling's injuries would prove fatal. Physicians last night, however, expressed satisfaction with his condition and forecast a speedy recovery. Dr. Hickling fell when he entered a closet for a sample of medicine. The closet had been removed to permit the installation of an elevator shaft.
